WILLKIE BRANDS F. D. R. MOCKER OF DEMOCRACY

Charges He Violates American System.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Picture on back page.)

Field House, Madison, Wis., Sept. 27.—Wendell L. Willkie, Republican Presidential nominee, ended his western tour tonight with an address before an audience of 15,000 in the University of Wisconsin fieldhouse. A large overflow audience heard him outside. He left immediately after having made his speech for New York, where he will report tomorrow night at the New York state convention at White Plains on the results of his first campaign tour as he has observed them.

Willkie was presented to the Madison audience, which gave him a noisy reception, by Dean Chris L. Christensen of the College of Agriculture, who said that if the American people are to escape dictatorships they must have mutual understanding and friendly coöperation among the various elements of American society.

Lashes Into Roosevelt.

Willkie charged in his address that President Roosevelt had violated the spirit of democracy by his attempt to pack the United States Supreme court in 1937 and by his effort in 1938 to defeat opposition members of congress.

"In view of the fact that this university has so much represented freedom of thought and similar causes," said the nominee, "I will speak to you on a trend in America that has taken place in the last seven and a half years, which, if it is pursued much further, may lead to the destruction of this system of government."

He then discussed the President's efforts to pack the Supreme court under the subterfuge that the members were too old, pointing out that within the last few months a secretary of war 73 years old had been appointed.

Sees Democracy Thwarted.

"The President," Willkie said, "when he came into office did not like the way the administrative agencies were organized and removed members contrary to the substance of our democratic process."

The nominee charged that Mr. Roosevelt had adhered to the forms but disregarded the substance of democracy.

"When he did not like the way that certain members of congress voted he put on the purge," Willkie continued, "thus going thru the mockery that the legislative branch was independent but seeking to control it thru the power of the executive.

"The very theory of our government was that there must be three coördinated branches of government, yet if the purge had prevailed we would have kept the form and lost the substance of that system."

Denounces Blank Checks.

Willkie spoke of the theory that makes it necessary for the house of representatives to originate appropriation bills. The purpose of this, he said, was so that the executive could not build enormous power and bring the nation to bankruptcy.

"And yet," the candidate continued, "preserving the form but abandoning the substance, this administration insisted on having blanket discretionary appropriations made by congress. Its power to reëlect itself in 1936 and its attempt to reëlect itself in 1940 is basically built on those blank checks.

"Those founders of ours, who were students of history, knew that any chief executive who could get into his hand vast sums of money could control the electorate, and they had specifically provided that appropriations had to be approved by the lower house of congress. Yet this administration has changed that completely, so that today it uses the money appropriated by congress to bring pressure on congress to appropriate more money in the same manner.

Points to History.

"I could go on without end and describe to you how this administration, time and time again, has concentrated power in the hands of the chief executive but left the form of power with the other branches of government. That is the identical road by which every ancient and modern democracy has died.

"Without raising the question of motives, for I care little what his motives are, the course of action by

TIGERS CLINCH PENNANT, 2 TO 0, AS FANS RIOT

The Detroit Tigers yesterday clinched the American league pennant as they defeated the Indians in Cleveland, 2 to 0, behind six hit pitching by Floyd Giebell, rookie up from Buffalo, who won his second major league game. Detroit's victory combined with the Yankees' defeat by the Philadelphia Athletics, 6 to 0, settled the most closely contested American league race in years. The Tigers' victory was scored amid a near riot marked by missile and fruit throwing by Cleveland partisans. Catcher George Tebbetts of the Tigers was injured when a fan dropped a basket of bottles and tomatoes on his head.

Vice Cleanup Demanded in Times Square

New York, Sept. 27 [Special].—Times Square, heart of Manhattan's "Great White Way," has become the tawdry tramping ground of so many prostitutes, pickpockets, and beggars that worried business men along Broadway have found it necessary to appeal to city officials to launch a campaign of purification.

The "determined effort" to enlist police coöperation in driving prostitutes and pickpockets and their lesser brethren off the teeming sidewalks in this so-called "crossroads of America"—symbol of glamor to millions who never saw it—was announced today by Robert Christenberry, hotel official and chairman of the Times Square committee of the Broadway association.

The teeming Times Square area roughly covers the midtown district centering on Broadway and 7th and 8th avenues between 42d and 50th streets.

La Guardia Criticized.

Lewis J. Valentine, police commissioner, leads a list of city officials invited to a meeting Oct. 10 to map a program for purifying this rialto.

Mayor F. H. La Guardia, it was said, also may be invited to tell the business men what he intends to do about the situation. The mayor recently was criticized for devoting a large part of his time to political and national affairs to the neglect of his city duties. He is chairman of the United States-Canada commission on joint defense, and heads the United States conference of mayors.

Heads 3d Term Drive, too.

Additional fire was directed at the mayor only this week when he became chairman of a committee of independents and "liberals" organized in 22 states to help in the campaign to elect President Roosevelt to a third term. He thus jumped openly into the national campaign after issuing a sharp warning that his standing rule of "no political activity" for city officials and employés be strictly observed.

"Conditions in the area," said Christenberry's committee, "are such that out of town visitors as well as local amusement seekers are carrying away a picture detrimental not only to 'The Great White Way' but to the entire city.

Causing Business Loss.

"Owners of theaters, hotels, and real estate, representing hundreds of millions of dollars, cannot further tolerate these conditions, which are reflecting a constantly mounting monetary loss to all of us."

Representatives of leading restaurants, department stores, railroads, and clothing firms joined the theater, hotel, and real estate men at the committee meeting.

One leader asserted he never had seen so many undesirables in the Broadway area as in the last two summers when thousands of world's fair visitors thronged to the area to "see New York." Their impressions, he added, must have been "decidedly unfavorable, to say the least."

Opinion was unanimous that this should be a permanent campaign, differing from past sporadic police drives.

In recent weeks THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE has published photographs in natural color of the Presidential and Vice Presidential candidates of the two principal parties. The photographs were reproduced on the front page of the picture section and then offered for sale, framed or ready for framing, by the Tribune public service offices.

A survey yesterday disclosed the extent of the sales, to date, as follows: Willkie's picture, framed, 567, and unframed, 19,497; Roosevelt's, framed, 210, and unframed, 635. McNary's, framed, 5, and unframed, 31; Wallace's, framed, 3, and unframed, 5. The totals: Willkie, 20,064; McNary, 36; Roosevelt, 845, and Wallace, 8. The demand for Willkie pictures thus was more than 23 times that for Roosevelt portraits. The photographs, taken with THE TRIBUNE'S color camera, were all offered at the same price.

A FARMER GIVES ALIEN $26,000; CAN'T TELL WHY

Davenport, Ia., Sept. 27 [Special].—Police revealed today that Charles Steinbeck, 60 year old Scott county farmer, had given nearly $4,000 in cash and $22,000 worth of stocks to a German, Hans J. Bock, 30, who has been in this country 10 years without applying for citizenship. Steinbeck also purchased an automobile for a woman friend. He said he was unable to assign a reason for his generosity.

An alleged worthless check for $100 led to the arrest of Bock who is held on a charge of operating a confidence game. Bock admitted receiving gifts of money, stock, an automobile, and false teeth. He said he was broke now, having lost most of his money gambling.

Steinbeck was arrested in connection with the check, but was released after he consented to the appointment of a guardian.

Legionnaires Enraged Over That Captaincy

New York, Sept. 27 [Special].—Three former national commanders of the American Legion, two of them long time Democrats who now are supporting Wendell Willkie for the Presidency, joined here today in issuing a sharp criticism of the recent appointment of Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the President, to an active captaincy in the United States air corps reserve.

Those who added their voices to the accumulating protests on the appointment were Stephen F. Chadwick of Seattle, Wash.; Alvin M. Owsley of Texas, and Harry W. Colmery of Topeka, Kas. Homeward bound from the Legion convention in Boston, Mass., they made their joint statement at National Republican headquarters here. Only Chadwick is a Republican.

Telegram of Criticism.

Chadwick coupled his criticism with the publication of a telegram from Ben Ehrlichman of Washington state, an investment banker, war veteran, and personal friend. It read:

"With shame and amazement I note that Elliott Roosevelt has been commissioned captain air service United States army and according to press interviews accepts the commission as sacrifice to lead the way for forthcoming conscript army. What's this country coming to? This is European royalty style."

The telegram then posed the question, Chadwick said, as to what future draftees and their families, National Guardsmen and their families, Mr. Willkie and "all the hard-working shave-tails and non-coms" will think of this appointment."

"Unprecedented Nepotism."

"Will rank in our army depend on birth or social standing? This thing is so brazen as to leave an astounded public speechless. The unprecedented nepotism indulged in by the present administration has slithered thru the consciousness of the country without arousing the righteous indignation to which it is entitled.

"But when it comes to openly injecting itself into our army it is time to bring the whole insidious mess out into the open for every citizen to scrutinize for himself."

BLAME POLICIES OF NEW DEAL FOR AXIS ACTION

Foes of Intervention Recall Warning.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—Noninterventionists in the senate today laid the blame for the Japanese-German-Italian military pact squarely on the doorstep of the White House.

Senator Wheeler.

The action represented materialization of their worst fears about what would happen if the administration continued meddling in foreign affairs, they asserted, calling attention to predictions made during the last year in neutrality debates and on frequent occasions when President Roosevelt was charged with endangering the nation's neutrality status.

One of the leading noninterventionists on the senate foreign relations committee, Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.], said that the administration's foreign policy was responsible for the present situation.

Defense Speed Urged.

"Our policy," he declared, "has succeeded in driving Japan into the arms of those who were the last ones we wanted her associated with."

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], also a foremost noninterventionist, called for full speed ahead with the preparedness program and a "cessation of attacks on every other nation."

"It only stirs up hatred of the United States," Wheeler continued. "We must be mighty careful not to get into a two-ocean war with our one-ocean navy."

Senator Robert A. Taft, [R., O.] commented: "It is a very serious matter. I've been afraid of just this thing."

Senator Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.], another leading noninterventionist, said: "This agreement should not make the slightest difference in our policy, because our policy ought to be to stay out of wars."

Said Senator James E. Murray [D., Mont.]: "It is a very serious move. It demonstrates the necessity of our stepping up production of the defense program."

Likens Path to 1917's.

Representative James E. Van Zandt [R., Pa.] declared in a radio address tonight that the United States is traveling the same path that it took in 1917, "but at a faster pace."

"Not content as a neutral nation to occupy a seat on the sidelines, we took our first step toward war last fall when congress repealed the embargo on the sale of arms to the belligerent nations of the world," he declared.

"This step was quickly followed by the heavy sale of airplanes and the release of arms and ammunition by our own army, navy, and marine corps. Having taken these steps, the agents of propaganda continued their carefully planned mission, with the result that we did not stop on our journey down the pathway that leads to war," Van Zandt asserted.

Administration interventionists generally took the position that they "knew it was coming" and said that the new threat to the United States made it imperative to expedite the national defense program.

DON'T FORGET TO SET CLOCK BACK TONIGHT

Note to Chicagoans and residents in most nearby communities:

Don't forget to set your clocks back an hour before you go to bed tonight, for when you awake tomorrow morning daylight saving time will be over for 1940 and the city will be back on central standard time for the winter.

The official time for setting the clocks back is at 2 a. m. tomorrow, the last Sunday in September. Several railroads have announced a few changes in train schedules, effective tomorrow. Suburban trains which have been operating on daylight saving time will set their schedules back to conform with the change in time.

ROOSEVELT MAPS STAND WITH AIDS; COURSE IN DOUBT

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—Confronted with the most critical juncture in American foreign relations since the world war, President Roosevelt and other officials of his administration today pondered the course this government should take now that Japan, Germany, and Italy have entered into a military alliance aimed at the United States.

Whether the administration will back down on its policy of trying to restrain Japanese expansion by measures "stronger and more effective than mere words" or will intensify that policy at the risk of consequences no longer "short of war" was not conclusively indicated.

No Surprise, Hull Says.

The official attitude of the administration, expressed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, is that the alliance "does not, in the view of the government of the United States, substantially alter a situation which has existed for several years."

"Announcement of the alliance merely makes clear to all a relationship which has long existed in effect and to which this government has repeatedly called attention," said the secretary of state.

"That such an agreement has been in process of conclusion has been well known for some time, and that fact has been fully taken into account by the government of the United States in the determination of this country's policies."

Fear New Retaliations.

This statement indicated, according to some of the noninterventionists in congress, that the administration is prepared to retaliate with still more drastic measures against Japan. There is no reason to expect anything else, they declared, if such steps as the embargo on shipments of iron and steel scrap to Japan and the new $25,000,000 loan to China were taken in anticipation of a full military alliance between Japan and the European axis powers.

Another indication that the administration is considering further economic pressure against Japan was the President's conference today with Lord Lothian, the British ambassador; Neville M. Butler, counselor of the British embassy, and Sir Walter Layton. Layton, former editor of the London Economist and more recently head of the London News-Chronicle, is connected with the British ministry of economic warfare.

Lothian Also Sees Hull.

Lord Lothian conferred with Secretary Hull for almost an hour before calling at the White House. He said they touched on problems in the Pacific but that nothing of particular importance had come up. In recent weeks Lord Lothian and Secretary Hull have been engaged in discussions concerning the undertaking of the United States to police the Pacific while the British fleet is engaged elsewhere and the possible use by the United States fleet of the British base at Singapore.

The President also conferred at length today with high army and navy officials and with William S. Knudsen of the national defense advisory commission on the Japanese crisis. Later the far eastern situation was discussed exclusively at a 90 minute meeting of the cabinet, which was attended by Vice President John N. Garner. Garner returned to Washington from his Uvalde, Tex., home yesterday at the President's request.

Won't Discuss Alliance.

At his press conference, Mr. Roosevelt refused to discuss the Berlin-Rome-Tokio alliance. Asked whether an embargo on oil shipments to Japan was contemplated, he referred questioners to the state department.

Administration leaders in congress generally took the position that they "knew it was coming" and said the new threat to the United States made it imperative to expedite the national defense program.

Canada to Send 2,200 Pilots to Britain by Next July

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP).—By next July 1 Canada will have sent more than 2,200 pilots to aid Great Britain in standing off the German assault, C. D. Howe, Canadian minister of munitions and supply, reported today. Here to consult with the British purchasing mission, Howe said the Canadian air training program, planned to produce 25,000 pilots a year, was well ahead of schedule.

U.S. Envoy, Back from Trip Home, Sees Soviet Premier

MOSCOW, Sept. 27 (AP).—United States Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt conferred with Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov last night, renewing his contact with the soviet government after a four month absence in America.

U. S. IS CALLED TARGET OF NEW WAR ALLIANCE

Rome-Berlin-Tokio Pledge Joint Aid.

BERLIN, Sept. 27 (AP).—Germany, Japan and Italy banded together their totalitarian arms and the energies of their 250,000,000 people today in a 10 year pact of military and economic character, which means plainly that all three will help each other against the United States if any one of them becomes involved in a war with America.

This thunderbolt of authoritarian diplomacy, conceived and stage managed down to the names on the dotted lines by Adolf Hitler, was signed this afternoon in Berlin's sumptuous new chancellery by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany, Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy, and Ambassador Saburu Kurusu of Japan.

No Mention of U. S.

The treaty itself does not mention the United States.

But this much is clear: No European power, save soviet Russia, can ever think of attacking the signatories.

Russia, however, is specifically named in the treaty's Article 5, which says carefully that the "political status which exists now" between each of the contracting powers and the soviet union is in no wise affected. Germany now has a nonaggression pact with Russia.

Therefore, the United States is the only other power envisaged by Article 3 of the pact, which says:

"Germany, Italy and Japan—undertake to assist one another with all political, economic and military means when one of the three powers is attacked by a power at present not involved in the European war or in the Chinese-Japanese conflict."

Russia Between 2 Fires

As for Russia, however, and in spite of the treaty provision, she still may find herself between two fires: Japan and Germany, with Italy on the sidelines.

The pact leaves unsaid that any contracting party can change its present political status in reference to the soviet union.

In that case such a power would be free to act as it wished. Indeed, the Russian article then might not be binding on the other signatories as well.

Hence there is no guarantee that Russia can remain out of the conflict.

[Some sources in Berlin said attempts may be made to induce Russia to join the pact, according to a dispatch from The Tribune's bureau in the German capital. The dispatch said that Alexander Schkwarzes, the soviet ambassador, and representatives of the official soviet news agencies had been invited to attend the pact signing ceremony. They abstained. The Russians said the ambassador was absent because his invitation had been mislaid. Von Ribbentrop conferred with the soviet envoy a few days ago and it was authoritatively stated the latter had been informed of the plan to sign the pact.]

Cite Effect of Treaty.

In the eyes of neutral observers the clearest effect of the treaty is this: If the United States enters the European war she will be engaged immediately in the Pacific by a Japanese navy which is the third largest in the world. Hence the American fleet would not be able to be of material assistance to Britain in either the Atlantic or the Mediterranean.

In the words of Von Ribbentrop, the pact also is directed against "inciters to war" over the world, and those states which "harbor the intention of mixing in the final phase of the solution" of problems in either Europe or east Asia.

A foreign office spokesman said flatly that among these "war inciters" is "a certain group in the United States."

Recognizes Spheres of Interest.

Formally, the pact recognizes spheres of interest on the two sides of the world: Japan's "new order in Greater East Asia" and the German-Italian "new order in Europe."

German spokesmen declined to give a precise definition of "Greater East Asia."

But apparently Japan is left free to determine what are to be the deciding factors in the fate of the Dutch eastern colonies and French Indo-

China. It is not clear whether Japan is to be recognized as the master power insofar as the Philippine Islands are concerned.

No Mention of Africa.

Africa is not mentioned. But it must be assumed that the entire African continent is regarded as an area falling under the undisputed leadership of Germany and Italy, and it must be taken for granted that Japan has recognized this.

Contrary to many expectations, Spain was not even mentioned in today's ceremonies. Conjecture varied between the belief that Spain is not yet ready to mortgage her future and the conviction that both the axis and Spain are merely waiting for a psychological moment at which to spring an announcement of alliance.

Late today Ciano had a long talk with Ramon Serrano Suner, who has been in Berlin for some time as Generalissimo Francisco Franco's special envoy.

Calls Spain "Bridgehead."

One illuminating hint as to the axis intentions regarding Spain appeared in the Frankfurter Zeitung, whose foreign editor is close to the German foreign office. This newspaper said Spain was a "bridgehead to the south Atlantic."

It is possible that Germany, Italy, and Japan are waiting to see how the South American states react to the pact of Berlin before they formally install Spain as a "bridgehead" in that direction.

The pact is effective immediately, and there will be no delay in making plans for the contingency that one of the signers should be "attacked by a power at present not involved in the European war or the Chinese-Japanese conflict." Joint technical commissions will meet at once.

FLAGS WAVE OVER BERLIN

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—The Japanese banner, the Italian colors, and the Nazi swastika waved from Berlin's Brandenburg gate, Adolf Hitler's chancellery, and many other official buildings today while Germany, Italy, and Japan signed a new military alliance.

Signatures were offixed to the pact in the gilded hall of ambassadors in the chancellery. The solemn ceremony began at 1 p. m.

First to arrive were Japanese officials and diplomats. They took up posts behind the big desk where Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany and Ambassador Saburu Kurusu of Japan were to take their places later on.

Japanese in Gala Attire.

The grinning Japanese, who wore colorful uniforms decorated with yards of gold braid and medals, remained on their feet for several minutes while movie camera men and radio operators, and photographers gathered behind a screen of palm trees and flowers.

When foreign newspaper correspondents entered the hall, chancellery officials took great pains to make certain that the Japanese newspaper men got front seats. The other potential allies of Rome, Berlin, and Tokio—Spain's representatives—sat in the background.

The doors beside the big desk suddenly opened and in walked Count Galleazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, Von Ribbentrop and Kurusu.

Taps Floor Three Times.

Von Ribbentrop spoke a few welcoming words, whereupon the clauses of the pact were read in German. The text of the treaty then was translated into Italian and Japanese. Von Ribbentrop, Ciano and Kurusu signed the pact and shook hands demonstratively.

The chancellery's major domo appeared and tapped the floor three times with his heavy staff. Hitler entered. The Germans and Italians greeted him with raised arms.

"Mein Fuehrer, I report the signing of the German-Italian-Japanese pact," Von Ribbentrop said.

Hitler took the seat of honor. Beside Ciano, who diligently was striking attitudes reminiscent of his father-in-law, Premier Mussolini, Hitler seemed pale. The Fuehrer folded his hands and when the German and Italian foreign ministers and the Japanese ambassador read their speeches, he kept his eyes glued on the huge chandelier in the middle of the room.

When the speeches were concluded, Hitler arose and left.

Text of Axis-Japanese Pact

BERLIN, Sept. 27 (AP).—Following is the official English translation of the treaty of Berlin signed today:

"Three power pact between Germany, Italy, and Japan.

"The governments of Germany, Italy, and Japan, considering it as a condition precedent of any lasting peace that all nations of the world be given each its own proper place, have decided to stand by and coöperate with one another in regard to their efforts in greater East Asia and regions of Europe, respectively, wherein it is their prime purpose to establish and maintain a new order of things calculated to promote the mutual prosperity and welfare of the peoples concerned.

Offer Aid to Other Nations.

"Furthermore, it is the desire of the three governments to extend coöperation to such nations in other spheres of the world as may be inclined to put forth endeavors along lines similar to their own, in order that their ultimate aspirations for world peace may thus be realized.

"Accordingly, the governments of Germany, Italy, and Japan have agreed as follows:

"ARTICLE ONE—Japan recognizes and respects the leadership of Germany and Italy in establishment of a new order in Europe.

"ARTICLE TWO — Germany and Italy recognize and respect the leadership of Japan in the establishment of a new order in greater East Asia.

Pledge Aid by Arms.

"ARTICLE THREE—Germany, Italy, and Japan agree to coöperate in their efforts on aforesaid lines. They further undertake to assist one another with all political, economic, and military means when one of the three contracting powers is attacked by a power at present not involved in the European war or in the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

"ARTICLE FOUR—With the view to implementing the present pact, joint technical commissions, members which are to be appointed by the respective governments of Germany, Italy, and Japan will meet without delay.

"ARTICLE FIVE—Germany, Italy, and Japan affirm that the aforesaid terms do not in any way affect the political status which exists at present as between each of three contracting parties and soviet Russia.

Pact to Last 10 Years.

"ARTICLE SIX—The present pact shall come into effect immediately upon signature and shall remain in force 10 years from the date of its coming into force. At the proper time before expiration of said term the high contracting parties shall at the request of any of them enter into negotiations for its renewal.

"In faith whereof, the undersigned duly authorized by their respective governments have signed this pact and have affixed hereto their signatures.

"Done in triplicate at Berlin, the 27th day of September, 1940, in the 18th year of the Fascist era, corresponding to the 27th day of the ninth month of the 15th year of Showa [the reign of Emperor Hirohito]."

CLAIM NEW WAR PACT IS AIMED TO LIMIT U. S. HELP TO BRITAIN

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP).—The signing of the German-Italian-Japanese military alliance today was regarded in diplomatic circles here as the most momentous diplomatic development the world has seen since Germany and Russia announced their nonaggression pact a few days before the war began. Diplomats declared it was intended primarily to divert United States' attention from Europe and to limit American help to Britain.

Informed sources declared that one clause apparently was designed as intimidation for the United States.

"It is difficult to resist the conclusion that Japan has been hurried into an arrangement which can bring her no assistance but only the embarrassment of undertakings she'll have to carry alone," they said.

"Clause three of the agreement appears to be designed to intimidate the United States and it is difficult to see to what other power it could possibly refer."

LACK OF LATHER MEANS BEARDS FOR FRENCHMEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Sept. 27.—For lack of lather, many French men have decided to grow beards, at least until Nov. 1, when shaving soap again will go on sale.

Newspapers now are offering suggestions for the men who'll let their whiskers grow. They are advocating all sorts of adornments, from goatees to long, flowing whiskers.

Barbers still can purchase soap, for no one wants to upset another industry in France, and this may cut down the number of beards a little. It costs only about 5 cents for a shave, including a tip, in an ordinary shop. Electric razors have not yet been adopted in France and will make no inroads on the beard fad.

Polish Squadron Bags 100 Nazi Planes Over London

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The Polish fighter squadron fighting for England today bagged its 100th German raider since Aug. 31, it was announced today. The squadron downed 13 Heinkel bombers out of 34 German planes accounted for Thursday, and 19 more today.

ITALIANS REPORT WIDESPREAD AIR RAIDS ON BRITISH

ROME, Sept. 27 (AP).—The Italian high command today reported widespread bombing attacks on British bases in Africa and the Mediterranean and acknowledged the British air force had retaliated.

Among the Italian objectives, a communique said, was the British oil terminus at Haifa, Palestine. Direct hits were reported there on oil tanks, supply stations, railway yards, and a submarine base. The Italians also said they bombed a British encampment at Mount Amadi, west of Gallabat in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. British raids were reported on Hargeisa and Berbera, Somaliland; Metemma, Libya; Jijiga, Ethiopia, and Agordat, Eritrea. Results were said to be negligible.

British Report Raids.

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, Africa, Sept. 27 (AP).—The British high command today reported successful air attacks were carried out Wednesday on Maji, Ethiopia, and numerous reconnaissance flights were made over Ethiopia and Somaliland. At Maji, military buildings and an airdrome were reported bombed.

Part of U. S. Consulate in London Moved to Country

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The American consulate has had to move its visa department to the country owing to the interruption of business by the air raids. Many of the consular staff had been deprived of their sleep in the last three weeks and were experiencing difficulties traveling to and from their jobs. The locality of the consulate's new visa office was not revealed, but applicants were advised details are available at the embassy, which is continuing to operate in London.

JAPS HAIL PACT AS PAVING WAY FOR 'NEW ORDER'

Expect Relations with Russia to Improve.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 28, Saturday.—The German-Italian-Japanese alliance was hailed here today as opening the way for a "new world order." Ardent friends of America place much of the blame for what has happened on what they called the "systematic procrastination" of Washington, D. C., in the face of strong pleas by Japan for a solution of far eastern questions in a realistic manner beneficial to both countries.

As far as Japan is concerned, it is generally agreed the main purpose of the alliance is to enable it to go ahead at full speed in constructing a "new order in east Asia." Special significance was placed on future relations with soviet Russia, which are expected to show rapid improvement. Insertion of article 5 in the alliance was due, it was stated, to the soviet-German nonaggression pact and and the importance of adjusting soviet-Japanese relations.

Article 5 says that the "political status which exists now" between each of the contracting powers and the soviet union is in no wise affected.

Will Not Enter War: Tokio.

TOKIO, Sept. 27 (AP).—Japan cast her lot squarely with the Rome-Berlin axis today, but hastened to tell the world in general and the United States and Great Britain in particular that it did not mean she is going to enter the European war or pick a fight with anybody.

Rather, Emperor Hirohito and Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka insisted, it emphasized above all Japan's determination to carry to completion her self-proclaimed mission of establishing a "greater east Asia" by peaceable means.

"But there is no telling whether there might not arise occasions and circumstances calling for momentous decisions on Japan's part," Matsuoka told the nation in a broadcast.

Voices Hope for Peace.

A statement, issued under the seal of the emperor, declared that in lining up with Germany and Italy, Japan was motivated by the "fervent hope that termination of disturbances and restoration of peace will be realized as swiftly as possible."

Echoing the words of the emperor and the foreign minister, the foreign office spokesman, Yakichiro Suma, declared:

"We are not going to participate in the European war. We are not going to attack any country."

Suma asserted Japan had not abandoned hope of composing her differences with the United States, which preceded the signing of the new three power pact by a day with an embargo on scrap iron, one of Japan's most needed sinews of war.

Announcement of the pact failed to stir nation-wide excitement. Newspapers went on the street with extras, but the Japanese public read them in silence.

The press did not share the peaceful views officially proclaimed. It declared the United States now has definitely allied herself with Britain and China, and one newspaper, the influential Asahi, asserted a Japanese-American clash "now seems inevitable."

Asahi compared the two nations as "a Japan determined to establish a sphere of self-sufficiency, and a United States equally determined to meddle in affairs on the other side of a vast ocean with every hostile means short of war."

Government and industrial leaders meanwhile moved for immediate application of long prepared stringent measures to offset the American scrap iron embargo. The first move will be diversion of the bulk of available scrap within the country to the most efficient furnaces and, second, an intensive collection campaign plus further restrictions on civilian use of steel.

A movement is afoot also to increase iron ore importations from China and the South seas.

Rumania Wants Her

MAGDA LUPESCU.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 27 (AP).—Diplomatic circles said tonight that the Rumanian government has decided to ask both the Spanish and Portuguese governments for the extradition of Mme. Magda Lupescu, former King Carol's intimate, and Ernest Urdareanu, former Rumanian minister of state without portfolio. These quarters said the Iron Guardists are seeking to bring the abdicated monarch's closest friends to trial on a variety of charges, claiming that a movement to restore Carol to the throne has already been discovered.

British Plane Fired Upon by Japs, Says Hongkong

HONGKONG, Sept. 28, Saturday (AP).—Authorities of this British crown colony disclosed today that a Royal Air Force plane had been fired upon yesterday while flying within the border of British mainland territory, supposedly by Japanese guns on the opposite side of the frontier. British authorities were expected to file a protest.

WARN U. S.: STAY OUT OF EUROPE, ASIA AND AFRICA

Threat of War Sounded by Exultant Italians.

ROME, Sept. 27 (AP).—Exultant Fascists said in flat, undiplomatic language today that the new German-Italian-Japanese alliance would loose war on two continents against the United States if it sought to intervene to help Britain or offered any "interference" with what any of the three powers considers its own concerns.

The new accord, it was said here plainly and authoritatively, was intended to warn the United States to stay out of the European and Chinese-Japanese wars; to stay out of Europe, Asia, and Africa—all of which the Berlin-Rome-Tokio front expects to dominate.

"Adventurous" Warned.

The first immediate and specific intention of the alliance, competent sources added, was to keep the United States from allying itself with Britain or attempting to use any British bases in the Pacific, such as Singapore.

Virginio Gayda, one of the most authoritative Fascist press spokesmen, declared "the new treaty threatens no one." But then he went on:

"It only warns those few adventurous or deluded persons who still are toying with plans more or less real for intervention in favor of Britain.

"It also warns those American circles who, feeling themselves protected by Roosevelt's favor, are outlining, at least in their speeches and publications, plans for intervention in a war which does not concern and cannot touch the Americas, and for interference in vital regions of Italy and Germany which do not think, on their part, of entering the vital zones and regions of the Americas.

Points to Armed Might.

". . . Let these circles know that their folly would find them exposed on two fronts of land and sea to a war of two entire continents and would expose them to the ruinous loss of all the position which the work of their people has won in their continent and the world."

Germany and Italy, he added, have "sufficient military means to be present on all world continents and seas which were chosen by England and its friends for the last diversions and last attempts at resistance. It only remains for the world to recognize the irresistible, powerful march of the new history."

The Italian army's official newspaper, Forze Armate, suggested there "perhaps" would be war between Japan and the United States if the United States sought to use Singapore; that the Dutch East Indies seemed to figure now as "the prey of rather easy conquest"; that Japan might be planning to try to take the Philippine Islands.

U. S. NOT READY TO FIGHT JAPAN, EXPERTS WARN

Our Navy Must Be Doubled First, They Assert.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—The United States cannot wage a successful war against Japan until the American navy is virtually doubled in size and this country possesses impregnable bases in the Philippines and Guam.

This was the studied, unanimous verdict of the ranking officers of the navy today as American eyes focused anxiously on the far east as a possible avenue to war as an outcome of the conclusion of the German, Italian, and Japanese alliance.

At the same time, admirals said, Japan cannot carry a serious attack against the United States. America need not fear immediate aggression from the Pacific because she possesses not only the largest but the most powerful navy afloat today.

The admirals said that nothing has happened in Europe since last spring that would cause them to change their view that neither the United States nor Japan could carry an offensive war across the Pacific with a remote hope of emerging victorious.

Warning in Secret Testimony.

Last spring, in secret testimony before the senate naval affairs committee, the navy's ranking admirals warned that the United States should not think of undertaking war in the Pacific.

This secret testimony was indirectly incorporated in the committee's report advocating naval expansion, which was written by Senator David I. Walsh [D., Mass.], committee chairman. In dealing with America's position in the far east, the report said:

"Japan is an insular nation. She is dependent upon the seas for the importation of a large part of the raw materials necessary for her industries and for any great war effort. She is therefore vulnerable to attack from the sea. She can be rendered impotent and can be defeated by naval forces without military conquest. She cannot direct a serious attack against us if we maintain our defenses on an adequate basis.

Advise Avoiding Conflict.

"Both Japan and the United States should make every effort to avoid a struggle in the far east.

"At the present time the United States navy alone could not undertake a war in far eastern waters. If we plan to carry on a war single handed in the far east, it will be necessary to build an impregnable naval base in the Philippines, fortify Guam sufficiently to make its capture impossible, and increase our merchant marine. To insure victory in this undertaking it will be necessary not only to maintain the 5-3 ratio, but to increase our fleet perhaps as much as 100 per cent.

"A war fought across the breadth of so vast an ocean as the Pacific is fraught with very great difficulties. The cost to us of such a war would be so great that we must, by every means in our power, avoid the necessity of having to undertake it.

Urge Ratio and Strong Bases.

"The all-important fact in the Pacific, so far as Americans are concerned, is this: We need not fear aggression or any vital harm from this direction so long as we maintain our fleet in the Pacific at not less than the 5-3 ratio with the Japanese fleet, and maintain adequate naval and air bases from which our fleet can operate effectively."

The United States is preserving the 5-3 ratio today and has plans to increase it to almost 2-1. The comparative strengths of the United States and Japanese navies is shown in the following table:

UNITED STATES.	Built.	Building.	Total.
Battleships	15	17	32
Aircraft carriers	6	12	18
Cruisers	37	48	85
Destroyers	248	170	418
Submarines	104	81	185
Total	410	328	738
JAPAN.
Battleships	10	4	14
Aircraft carriers	11	3	14
Cruisers	44	6	50
Destroyers	141	12	153
Submarines	75	50	125
Total	281	75	356

War in the Pacific, according to the naval experts, is a matter of distance, which woud be the great friend of the United States should she be attacked, but would be the nation's greatest enemy if the American fleet took the offensive.

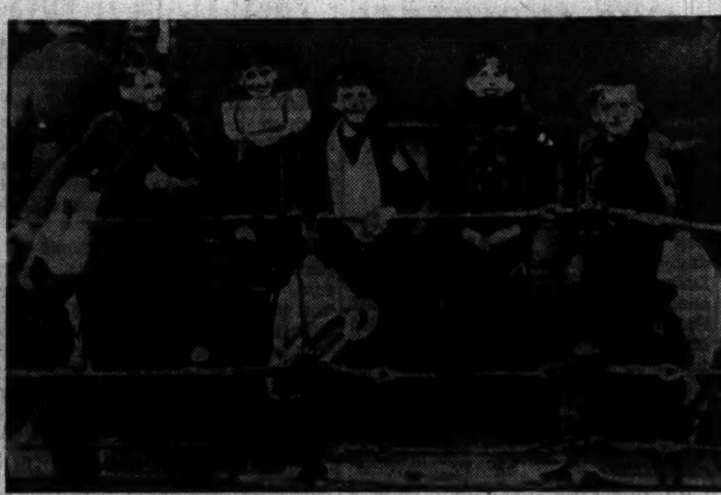
Needs in Aggression Told.

The United States could not carry the war to Japan, the experts say, unless the fortified Japanese mandate islands were reduced—a task involving time and expense—even if the fleet were to use the southern route to the far east and operate against Japan out of Singapore.

The admirals do not feel the United States could hold the Philippines at present. Without a base in these islands operations could be conducted only with the greatest difficulty.

With Japan as the invader, the experts say, she could not hope for victory until the Hawaiian naval and army bases were reduced. The experts are confident the islands, which are being transformed into the world's most impregnable military position, can be held against Japan.

After Eight Days in Open Boat



[Associated Press Wirephotos: Sent from London yesterday by cable.]

Five English children on arrival at English port after eight days in an open boat. They were among 46 persons rescued after the refugee ship City of Benares sank on Sept. 17. Their lifeboat was spotted by a British plane, which brought a warship to the rescue.

World Military Lineups

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP).—The new German-Italian-Japanese alliance confronts the world with one of history's most formidable military combinations on land and in the air.

The balance of sea power remains, however, with hard pressed, belligerent Great Britain and the neutral United States. Moreover, nonbelligerent soviet Russia could tip the scales of military man power.

Germany, Italy, and Japan could command armies, including reserves, of some 20,000,000 men, air forces of possibly 35,000 warplanes, and navies aggregating more than 2,000,000 tons.

Official figures and other authoritative calculations present this general statistical picture of the new world lineup of belligerents and the two principal neutrals:

Land forces, including trained reserves, Germany, 6,000,000; Italy, 7,500,000; Japan, 6,500,000; Russia, 18,000,000; British Empire, 2,500,000; United States, 600,000. Actual effectives are much fewer, Germany's numbering possibly 3,000,000, Russia's 4,000,000, and Italy's 1,800,000.

Air strength — Germany, 25,000 planes; Italy, 6,000; Japan, 4,000; Great Britain, 10,000; Russia, 9,000, and United States, 4,000, including naval planes. First line planes of all are far fewer, and the figures take no account of vital replacement capacity.

Navies — Germany, 400,000 tons afloat, including five or six full scale and "pocket" battleships; Italy, 530,000 tons, with six battleships; Japan, 1,100,000 tons, with 10 or 12 battleships; Russia, 300,000 tons; Great Britain, possibly 2,000,000 tons, with 19 battleships, including acquisitions from France and destroyers from the United States; United States, 1,400,000 tons, with 15 battleships in service.

REBEL TROUBLE NOT SERIOUS, SAYS CARDENAS

CHIHUAHUA CITY, MEXICO, Sept. 27 (AP).—President Lazaro Cardenas, after a conference with Gen. Antonio A. Guerrero on insurgent activities in Chihuahua state, today said the military situation was "not serious." The president is touring northern Mexico, in which rebel bands are being sought by federal troops in four states. It was announced 17 more members of a band in southwestern Chihuahua had surrendered, leaving an estimated 30 trapped in the mountains.

STALIN REPORTED MAKING SEVERE DEMANDS ON JAPS

Hitler Envoy Said to Be Acting as Mediator.

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, China, Sept. 27.—The immediate future of the international situation in the far east now depends to a great extent upon what understanding the Germans are able to arrange between Japan and Russia, informed observers said today.

It is understood that Max Stahmer, private emissary from Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, having helped conclude the tripartite alliance satisfactorily, now is acting as go-between for Moscow and Tokio.

[Up to last evening the Russian people had not been allowed to hear of the conclusion of the axis-Japanese pact, according to the Associated Press.]

Report Stalin Demands Harsh.

Josef Stalin's terms, as reported here, will be extremely harsh from the Japanese viewpoint. He is said to demand, first, abrogation of the Portsmouth treaty, except that portion ceding the southern half of Sakhalin Island to Japan. This would compel abandonment of Japan's valuable fishing concessions off Siberia, which not only furnish an important portion of the empire's food supply but also considerable cash.

[Among the clauses of the treaty of Portsmouth were Russian recognition of the Japanese sphere of interest in Corea, surrender of the Russian leases to the Kwantung peninsula and the ice free naval base of Port Arthur, and Russian evacuation of Manchuria.]

Other Stalin Demands.

Stalin also is reported to be demanding cancellation of all oil, coal, and other concessions to Japan in the northern half of Sakhalin, coupled with complete demilitarization of Japan's half.

Even more vital to Japan's position in Manchukuo and Corea, Stalin is said to be insisting on demolition of all fortifications on the Corean and Manchukuoan frontiers adjoining Siberia and Outer Mongolia. He also is said to insist upon formal renunciation of Japan's part of any aspirations, territorial or otherwise, concerning Outer Mongolia.

LONDON BATTLES HEAVIEST RAID; BAGS 133 PLANES

Sets Up Mighty Barrage to Repel Nazis.

LONDON, Sept. 28, Saturday (AP).—With a mighty barrage that almost smothered the sound of falling bombs, British ground guns early today fought a heavy Nazi air raid on London—the climactic attack in a continuing series of assaults loosed yesterday by hundreds of German planes upon all England.

Southeast London was intermittently as bright as day under the light of Nazi flares, salvos of explosive bombs, and incendiaries as well, fell in the city from southeast to northwest.

Nowhere was the antiaircraft artillery more thunderous than in the very center of the metropolis. There, too, heavy bombs came down—three in quick succession in one instance.

Shoot Down 133 Planes.

It was a major attack, one of the heaviest in many nights. During the day the Nazis had struck again and again at London, but their great formations were broken up short of the city, said the air ministry, and the damage in London from those forays was officially declared to have been slight.

Early today the air ministry announced that 133 German planes had been shot down in yesterday's fighting. There were 34 British losses. It also was declared that a recapitulation showed more than 1,000 raiders had been destroyed during September—the second month in which that figure had been exceeded.

[German sources said that 15 British planes had been shot down over England, with 23 German planes missing.]

Artillery Duels Over Channel.

To yesterday's almost endless aerial duels all about the English coast was joined one of the heaviest artillery battles of the war—a long bombardment and counter-bombardment by German and British guns across 22 miles of the Strait of Dover, during which for a time German shells fell upon the Dover area at the rate of one every two minutes.

Before noontime yesterday three mighty thrusts had been made at London. In the first of these alone, no less than 120 German planes took part. The southeast and southwest coasts were heavily attacked; in the southwest a formation of 60 bombers assaulted a single town.

British fighters sought to block the air lanes and British bombers, at the very height of the day's action, went out across the channel to pour explosives again upon the Nazi gun emplacements and ports on the French side.

The air ministry reported "large scale attacks on enemy invasion ports" on the continent had been carried out by the royal air force as well as attacks on communications in western Germany.

Targets heavily hit, the British said, were the Kiel canal, a new aqueduct and lock gates in the Dortmund-Ems canal, and the autobahn [motor road] west of Andermunde. Among the Nazi held ports Le Havre was declared particularly hard hit.

BELIEVE AXIS U-BOATS INCREASE ATLANTIC RAIDS

New York, Sept. 27 [Special].—Indications of increased activity by German or Italian submarines in the Atlantic was reported today by Capt. Carroll MacGowan, master of the American Export liner Exochorda, when he brought his ship to port with 190 passengers and $2,000,000 in gold consigned to the federal reserve bank.

MacGowan said that on Sept. 21 he picked SOS messages from two British freighters, the Elmbank and Blairangus, reporting they had been torpedoed in the same latitude and longitude off Ireland. The closeness of the ships made him believe a submarine had picked them out of a British convoy.

[The torpedoing of the Elmbank was reported here at the time, but no report was received of the torpedoing of the Blairangus.]

VICHY CABINET MEETS WITHOUT LAVAL, 2 OTHERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

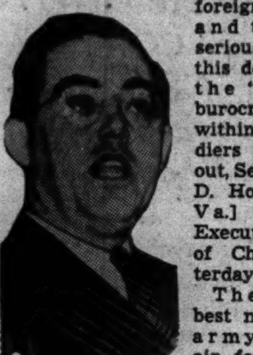
VICHY, France, Sept. 27.—Marshal Philippe Petain today presided over a cabinet meeting from which three cabinet members were absent. They were Vice Chief of State Pierre Laval, Gen. Charles Huntziger, war minister, and Marcel Peyrouton, minister of interior. No announcement has been made about their replacement.

Most French papers today reproduced an interview given by Foreign Secretary Paul Baudouin to a Swiss paper in which he referred to what is going on as a European revolution rather than a war and stated that France cannot keep aloof from the movement which is transforming the European continent and in view of which France cannot escape national rebuilding.

Marshal Petain conferred with the Japanese ambassador, Renzo Sawada, at the moment the alliance between Germany, Japan, and Italy was signed in Berlin. Contrary to reports that difficulties were still confronting French military forces in Indo-China was a report made to the ministerial council tonight by Baudouin. Baudouin said that incidents which marked the beginning of the application of the Franco-Japanese accord had been terminated and that the "accord is now applied in the friendly and confident spirit which presided at its establishment."

U. S. PROSPERITY BEST DEFENSE, SAYS SEN. HOLT

America's first line of defense is a prosperous America, not the fleet of a foreign power, and the most serious threat of this democracy is the "burrowing burocrats" from within, not soldiers from without, Senator Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.] told the Executives club of Chicago yesterday.



Sen. Rush D. Holt.

The world's best navy, best army, and best air force—all to be kept in American territory—are needed to insure national defense in a world where force not only exists but challenges, Senator Holt emphasized to the several hundred members of his audience.

Senator Holt traced the parallel of the steps taken by America with those taken by Germany, Russia, and Italy in the formative years of those dictatorships.

FIREMAN DIES AFTER RUN.

FIERCE AIR RAIDS MEAN INVASION NEAR, NAZIS SAY

Believe Hitler Waits Only for Right Moment.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—The growing fierceness of German air raids on Britain was seen in some Nazi circles here tonight as indicating the nearness of the moment when Adolf Hitler's invasion will begin.

"Germany can wait for the right moment to strike just as William the Conqueror's fleet waited for favorable winds 874 years ago," it was said. But there was no explanation as to whether the zero hour for the 1940 invasion depends on the weather.

[It was in 1066 that a favorable wind enabled William to invade England from Normandy and to conquer it while the English armies were engaging Norse invaders farther north.]

Raid Spitfire Plant.

These assertions were made as the high command announced that "tremendous destruction" resulted from air raids on Britain's Spitfire assembly plant at Woolston, near Southampton. The high command also told of new explosions and fires at London docks and port facilities at Liverpool and Southampton. Also bombed, it was said, were Manchester, Birmingham, Bristol, Hull, and Newcastle.

In air fighting over England today, 75 British planes were said to have been shot down against 23 Nazi planes listed as missing.

Shell British Warships.

Nazi flyers last night were said to have dropped more than 300,000 pounds of bombs on Liverpool, Southampton and Birkenhead and over 500,000 pounds of explosives on London.

Long range shelling of British warships by German naval guns stationed across the channel was said to have driven the vessels away. Other long range guns also bombarded the British coast, firing a shell a minute, it was announced.

Air bomb hits on a British oil tanker and a merchantman in convoy southwest of Portpatrick, on the Irish sea, were claimed for a dive bomber.

3D TERM PERIL TO NATION, SAYS TEXAS LAWYER

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP).—L. L. James, Tyler, Tex., attorney, told a senate judiciary subcommittee today that the nation would "never be free from the danger of some ambitious and egotistic individual perpetuating himself in office thru the power, prestige, and influence of the Presidency until our constitution is amended restricting such tenure of office."

James appeared at hearings on an amendment to provide a single six year term for the Presidency.

"The situation Jefferson warned this country against in 1821 has now come to pass," James declared. "An ambitious executive, finishing his second term and wishing another, conceived the idea that he alone in all America is capable of being chief executive of the United States. He has a vision in which he sees the indispensable man which looks exactly like himself.

"The times are too perilous in the history of the world for any democracy to experiment with indispensable men."

VICHY REPORTED READY TO JOIN AXIS AS PARTNER

London Sources Claim Deal Already Made.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Before the new Berlin pact was announced today, repercussions of the fiasco at Dakar, French West Africa, threatened a major parliamentary scandal. Practically every paper has demanded an open debate in the house of commons so the nation can learn who was responsible for this blow to British prestige which may seriously affect developments in the African campaign and possibly the future of the empire.

In this connection, THE TRIBUNE was told by excellent sources that the action at Dakar will result in the Vichy government changing its rôle from that of an unwilling "puppet" of the axis powers to an actual partner of Britain's enemies.

Report Deal Already Made.

THE TRIBUNE was told that a deal already has been made whereby Marshal Philippe Petain consents to give Tunis, Corsica, and Nice to Italy, and part of Alsace-Lorraine to Germany in return for the French part of Belgium and former German colonies in West Africa, while Germany would confine her sphere of domination in Africa to the richer but exploited east.

[Belgium is divided into two linguistic groups—the Flemings, who speak a Germanic language, and the Walloons, who speak French. The Walloons occupy the southern part of the country, the provinces of Hainaut, Liege, Namur, Luxembourg, and the southern half of Brabant.]

The deal also is said to recognize Japan's predominating interests in the far east. The Tribune correspondent is unable to attest to the veracity of this information, but it dovetails with the attitude of French Indo-China regarding Japanese landings there, with admitted air attacks by French squadrons on Gibraltar, and with the nature of the pacts signed in Berlin today.

Minimize Dakar Incident.

An official press release issued tonight minimizes the gravity of the Dakar incident, altho this view was not shared by the press. The communique reëxplains that Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the "free French" movement, was overly optimistic in supposing he would be welcomed there, but finds consolation in De Gaulle's withdrawal in demonstrating "to Frenchmen wherever they may be and to the world the value of the pledge given by De Gaulle to avoid action in precipitating the shedding of French blood by Frenchmen and the earnestness and attention of the British government to assist him in the observance both in the letter and the spirit of his undertaking."

Minister of Aircraft Production Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard regards Dakar as "a sign that the war may at any moment spread across new seas and continents."

SPANISH PRESS HAILS PACT; CLAIM IT PUTS AMERICA IN DILEMMA

MADRID, Spain, Sept. 27 (AP).—The Spanish press jubilantly hailed the new Rome-Berlin-Tokio axis tonight as placing the United States in a ticklish position and as "wresting the liberty of movement from the Yankee government."

"The United States faces a dilemma," one influential newspaper said. "She must give up her plans and void English hopes or intervene immediately in the war without waiting for completion of her grand rearmament program." "Don't forget the Philippines," commented Informaciones. "A new order will be imposed there by Japan. Yankee domination has been unable to root out of that Malayan archipelago what our forefathers sowed to last forever."

Altho Spain failed to play the star rôle in today's Berlin drama, as had been predicted, it appeared she was drawing closer to the axis and might soon make an open declaration of her position.

JAP TROOPS POUR INTO INDO-CHINA; DRAW A PROTEST

Planes' Flights Over Hanoi Stir French.

HAIPHONG, French Indo-China, Sept. 27 (AP).—More Japanese troops with full equipment and supplies for a long stay poured into Haiphon in a continuing stream today and six Japanese planes roared low over Hanoi, drawing no antiaircraft fire but evoking a strong French protest.

The soldiers arriving today were the followup for 2,000 Japanese admitted yesterday under a French-Japanese agreement in which Japan has gained new bases for operations against China.

The French colonial administration ordered an immediate protest to Tokio because of the warplanes' flight over Hanoi, Indo-China's capital, at low altitude.

Japanese Warships Leave.

Meanwhile, high quarters said Maj. Gen. Issaku Nishihara, head of the Japanese mission in the negotiations for Japanese entry, had left French colonial waters with Japanese naval units last night.

Indo-China authorities had asked Tokio to send a plenipotentiary to take Nishihara's place with power to command all Japanese forces, including the south China armies, units of which crossed the Indo-China border from the north last Sunday. The French said this was a violation of the agreement which provided only for entry at the coast.

French officials said all military operations had ceased in northern Indo-China after the French withdrawal from Langson, in the border region.

French Suffer Heavy Losses.

The French troops, having suffered considerable loss in the fighting for Langson before a truce was effected, faced the Japanese across a river just south of the town.

It was said the Langson clash did not affect execution of the Hanoi agreement whereby Japan will land 6,000 men to garrison Haiphong and "protect" three air bases.

CANADIAN AND U. S. DEFENSE BOARD MAY WEIGH NEW AXIS PACT

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 27 (AP).—Japan's new pact aligning her with the Rome-Berlin axis will be considered by the Canada-United States joint defense board when it meets in Boston next Wednesday, informed quarters here indicated today. Service members of the board have been making a survey this week of the defense situation on the Pacific coast, facing the new axis partner. Official circles indicated the pact had been expected here.

TAKE ROTHSCHILD GOODS VALUED AT 7 MILLIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Sept. 27.—It was announced today that police had raided Baron Maurice de Rothschild's property in Ecougnons, near Angeles-Gazost, and had discovered important stocks of carpets, art objects, and gold coins valued at $7,000,000. Baron Rothschild was formerly a member of the chamber of deputies. He fled the country in June and his property has been confiscated. A member of the famous European banking family, he is now in Canada. The seized goods, the police said, were transported secretly from the Rothschild home near Paris for concealment. The search is being continued.

MILITARY SHOW THRILLS 4,000 AT FORT SHERIDAN

Troops Pass in Last Review for Gen. Ford.

BY HAROLD HUTCHINGS.

Troops of the regular army presented a colorful demonstration of their equipment and skill yesterday at Fort Sheridan before 4,000 spectators. It was the first day of a three day military show to acquaint the public of Chicagoland with what the army is and does.

In the afternoon and again last night the troops of the post, commanded by Maj. Gen. Lloyd R. Fredendall, gave an exhibition of precision movements, calisthenics, riding, and firing.

Review Opens Show.

The show opens with one of the most colorful of the army's ceremonies—a formal review in which the 1st battalion of the 2d infantry, the 1st squadron of the 14th cavalry, the 3d battalion of the 19th field artillery and the 61st coast artillery regiment march past the reviewing point to the music of the 14th cavalry band.

The review yesterday afternoon was especially significant. It was before Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commander of the 6th corps area and the 2d army, and marked the last review of his long career in the army. Gen. Ford will retire Oct. 1 and is to be succeeded by Maj. Gen. Ben Lear as commander of the 6th corps area and the 2d army.

Precision Riding Demonstrated.

A demonstration of precision riding was next. In it troopers of Troop B, 14th cavalry, each carrying a guidon in one hand, executed intricate drills to the music of the band.

The second phase was an intermission of one hour in which civilians had a chance to look over a complete display of military equipment, arranged on the parade ground before the barracks.

The third phase of the program takes place on a colorful stage—the beach with Lake Michigan in the background. Firing of infantry, antiaircraft, and field artillery pieces marked this demonstration of the army's combat methods and weapons.

The show, proceeds of which will go to the Army Relief society for the benefit of the families of deceased soldiers, will be given at 2:30 this afternoon, at 7 tonight, and again at 2:30 and 7 tomorrow. Tickets are on sale in the public service offices of The Tribune, at Marshall Field & Co., Lyon & Healy, Inc., and in the stations of the North Shore Line.

STRAY DOG WAR SPURRED; 5 NEW TRUCKS ORDERED

Mayor Kelly signed an order yesterday authorizing the purchase of five new trucks to be used by city dog catchers. The trucks will replace antiquated vehicles that have been in use for many years.

Authority to buy the trucks had been requested by Police Commissioner Allman, who is launching a drive to rid Chicago streets of the stray dog menace. Commissioner Allman announced that specifications for the new trucks will be drawn and bids taken as soon as possible.

Sergt. Charles Breen, head of the police motor service division, said the new trucks will be designed to accommodate 40 dogs each, including 4 vicious dogs in individual compartments. The present trucks can handle only 25 dogs, including 2 vicious animals, or "biters." Purchase of the trucks was provided in the city council's 1940 budget.

CAMPBELL URGES C. J. DANKOWSKI AS U. S. TAX AID

William J. Campbell, United States attorney, yesterday recommended the appointment of Chester J. Dankowski, 1702 West 17th street, as a special assistant in the tax division of his office. The recommendation must be approved by the treasury department which pays the salary of one assistant specializing in tax matters in this district. Dankowski is 41 years old and was admitted to the bar in 1931. He has engaged in the general practice of law since then with offices at 111 West Washington street. His appointment will fill the post recently vacated when former Special Assistant Paul Ziffren was added to the regular staff of assistant United States attorneys.

MR. PAAT PATS DOG, AND OWNER PATS MR. PAAT!

The dog wagged its tail as Michael Paat, 18 years old, 702 21st place, started past it yesterday near Monroe street and Racine avenue. Paat, thinking that the dog was a stray, picked it up and started to pet it. Then John Picerno, 29, of 1119 Madison street, the owner of the dog, ran out of his nearby house and struck Paat on the head with a tire iron.

Paat is in the county hospital with a skull injury. Picerno, who admitted the attack and said he thought Paat was trying to steal the dog, is in the Desplaines street lockup, pending the outcome of Paat's injuries. Picerno is a junk dealer.

MANY AMATEURS TO HAVE PLACES IN FASHION SHOW

Tribune Contest Finale to Be Held Wednesday.

BY MARCIA WINN.

The work of many amateur designers is included in the 43 gowns which will be shown in the three fashion shows to be held in the W-G-N audience studio Wednesday as the gala finale of THE TRIBUNE'S $7,500 American Fashions contest.

The 43 designs were selected out of 12,491 submitted in the nation-wide contest. Selection was made on the basis of merit and originality. Each entry was judged in anonymity, altho the designer's name was in a sealed envelope attached to the back of the sketch.

Many Amateurs Represented.

Many of the 43 best designs came from amateurs, living in as far distant spots as Fresno, Cal., and Redwood, Miss. Their designs, to be shown publicly for the first time in the fashion shows at 1:45, 4, and 8:30 p. m. Wednesday, are both beautiful and daring.

A student in a fashion academy class, for instance, designed a maroon and cadet blue cocktail costume. It has a hip length military cape and maroon slippers.

One Chicago entrant designed a lovely dull white dinner dress highlighted with gold embroidery; its lines are soft, gracious and revealing.

A Los Angeles amateur designed an unusual daytime dress in sage green wool, trimmed with fine gold chains. It has matching gloves and a belt pulled thru chains. The Fresno amateur designed a brilliant red coat-dress with a huge fur button as its single accent. It has a narrow waistline and clings to the figure.

Indianan Designs Party Gown.

The Redwood, Miss., entrant designed a medieval gown of black velvet, slashed to reveal a silver underskirt. It has a high neckline and brief sleeves and is intended for a young girl.

One New York City entrant designed a gold lamé evening gown trimmed in green velvet.

These gowns and others in Wednesday's shows will be described for the audiences by Travis Banton, noted Hollywood style creator. Banton left Los Angeles yesterday for Chicago and will arrive tomorrow morning to begin rehearsals. His comments will be broadcast over a coast-to-coast network at the night showing.

The 25 winners of cash awards will not be chosen until the fashion shows Wednesday. The first prize is $3,000 and the second $2,000. Three $500 prizes will be given and 20 of $50 each.

TWO BASEMENT TEETH MAKERS WIN PROBATION

Tony Saraco, 21 years old, 1900 Erie street, and Tony Volina, 22, of 531 Hartland court, high school graduates who formerly worked in a dental laboratory, were placed on probation for one year yesterday by Judge James G. Gullett of Elizabethtown, sitting in County court.

They pleaded guilty of making false teeth in Volina's basement in violation of the dental practice act.

A jury also reported a guilty verdict against Miss B. D. Katter, 2723 North avenue, accused of advertising herself as a chiropractor altho she has no license. Judge Gullett deferred sentence until Monday.

$9,400 JOB SALE HOAX CONFESSED BY CITY EMPLOYE

Engineer Admits He Duped 19.

Ellsworth Robie.

Life for Ellsworth T. Robie, an enterprising city electrical engineer, was just one sucker after another. In the last nine months Robie persuaded 19 men to part with a total of $9,400—an average of about $500 a man—by promising to get them city civil service jobs.

Robie couldn't keep his promises. Some of his victims complained. Robie paid back $2,550, on a robbing Peter to pay Paul basis, but his system finally collapsed. Yesterday he sat in the state's attorney's office, confessing to Prosecutor Richard B. Austin.

Gives Victim Forged Receipt.

Robie's troubles started Wednesday when the civil service commission discharged him, after a hearing, on the complaint of Thomas E. Burke, 3649 North Leclaire avenue, who had paid $500 for a nonexistent job in the city purchasing department. Robie made the error of giving Burke a receipt with the forged signature of James S. Osborne, secretary of the commission.

Robie admitted his guilt in the Burke case Thursday after he was given lie detector tests.

Yesterday, in Felony court, Austin obtained a continuance on the Burke case until Oct. 11. Shortly afterward Austin announced Burke's full confession.

Repays One by Duping Second.

The confession was prompted by Detectives James Ryan and Arthur Manger, who discovered that Robie had repaid Burke by working the same job ruse on Charles Barth of Wauconda.

Robie, the prosecutor said, would agree to get any kind of a job. Each time Robie would pretend to have a brother-in-law or a close friend on the civil service commission who would swing the deal. Robie lives in a new home at 1811 North Nashville avenue.

HEDY LAMARR WINS HER FREEDOM FROM WRITER GENE MARKEY

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 27 (AP).—Glamorous Hedy Lamarr was granted a divorce today from Screen Writer Gene Markey after she testified he made her feel like a stranger in her own home, wrote her notes to avoid talking with her, and told her their marriage 18 months ago was "all wrong."

The dark haired 25 year old Viennese actress, who once was the wife of Fritz Mandl, wealthy Austrian munitions maker, said she spent only four "nice quiet evenings at home alone" since she was married in Ensenada, Mexico, March 4, 1939. Markey is 44 and the former husband of Actress Joan Bennett.

"How long had you known Mr. Markey before the marriage?" inquired Superior Judge William S. Baird, who granted the decree.

"Much too short a time," the actress replied. "Four weeks."

"I think that is the answer," commented the court.

112 PROMOTIONS ADD 84 GENERALS TO ARMY ROSTER

28 Get Boost to Rank of Major General.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP).—The largest mass promotion of high ranking army officers in peacetime history was announced today, as a means of providing commanders for the nation's rapidly expanding land forces.

Submitting a list of 112 promotions to the senate, President Roosevelt stressed that the advancements were temporary, as in the world war, and that the officers would revert to their lower permanent grades should they be transferred to less important duties or the army be reduced in size.

The promotions, accompanied by a general reshuffling of key military posts, involved the creation of 84 new generalships. They increased to 187 the number of army officers of the permanent or temporary grade of general officer.

Benedict Gets Army Corps.

Topping the long list sent to the senate was the name of Brig. Gen. Jay L. Benedict, commandant of the military academy at West Point, who was advanced to major general and assigned to command one of the three new army corps planned by the war department.

Brig. Gen. Edwin M. Watson, the President's aide, was nominated to move up one grade to major general.

Col. John H. Burns, ordnance expert who is executive officer of the assistant secretary of war, was given a noteworthy promotion to major general, skipping the intermediate grade of brigadier general.

Also included in the list were Brig. Gen. Lloyd R. Fredendall, commander of Fort Sheridan, Ill., and Brig. Gen. Karl Truesdell, who was commander of Fort Sheridan from April 16, 1939, to Oct. 15, 1939.

Shortage of High Commanders.

A White House statement on the need of promotions said "the permanent general officers now authorized have all been assigned, and there are still a large number of major tactical units which lack commanders of appropriate rank."

Eight of the new "streamlined" divisions have been commanded by brigadier generals and none of these divisions has officers of the grade in the two posts calling for brigadier generals. The expanding air force also is short of general officers.

Twenty-seven brigadier generals and one colonel were advanced to the temporary rank of major general. Promoted officers and their ages are:

Benedict, J. L., 58.
Brett, G. H., 54.
Bryden, William, 60.

Third Victim of Blast in Standard Oil Building Dies

The explosion in the subbasement of the Standard Oil building, 910 South Michigan avenue, on Sept. 20 last night claimed the life of a third victim. He was Hubert Udelhofen, 32 years old, an operating engineer, who lived at 311 East 113th street.

MAP LEGAL HELP FOR GUARDSMEN AND CONSCRIPTS

Lease Breaking and Debt Delays Uppermost.

The Illinois National Guard Service commission, a group of 40 civic, business, and governmental leaders organized to assure legal and business advice to Guardsmen and drafted men called for a year's active duty, held its organization meeting yesterday in the Union League club.

Britton I. Budd, chairman of the group, said that for the present the office of the judge advocate of the 33d division would handle problems for Guardsmen pending complete organization of the commission.

Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, 33d division commander, told the commission that men ordered into active service will not be permitted to dodge financial or other obligations but will be aided in working out some method of deferring them.

Lease Problems Cited.

Gen. Lawton cited lease problems as outstanding among those faced by Guardsmen. He said that in most instances landlords are willing to cancel leases so that families may rent less expensive apartments.

Time payments present another problem, Gen. Lawton said. In most instances, he added, finance companies have been willing to reduce the size of payments by men called to active duty.

Gen. Lawton last night discussed legal aid plans for downstate Guardsmen with regimental and brigade commanders.

Court Continues Litigation.

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court said he is ordering all Municipal court judges to continue litigation pending against Guardsmen. The same policy will apply to conscripted men.

William H. King Jr., president of the Chicago Bar association, said the association also plans a legal aid bureau for men on active duty.

Adjt. Gen. Lawrence V. Regan, who arrived in Chicago yesterday after studying draft registration plans in Washington, said he would recommend to County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki and County Clerk Michael J. Flynn that regular precinct polling places be used on draft registration day, Oct. 16.

FREDENDALL, CHIEF AT FORT SHERIDAN, ADVANCED IN RANK

Maj. Gen. Fredendall.

Brig. Gen. Lloyd R. Fredendall, commander of Fort Sheridan and of the 5th [streamlined] division, was elevated yesterday to a major general. Gen. Fredendall, who is 56 years old, has been commander of Fort Sheridan since July 18. He has been an officer since Feb. 7, 1907, when he was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry. During the world war he held the temporary rank of lieutenant colonel but reverted to the rank of captain in 1920.

From April, 1936, to May, 1938, Gen. Fredendall commanded the 57th infantry in the Philippines. He was executive officer in the office of the chief of infantry in Washington, D. C., for a year beginning in August, 1938. He was infantry adviser to the commander of the 5th division during fall and winter maneuvers in 1939-'40 at Fort McClellan, Ala., and later became commander of the 5th division.

RADICALS STRIVE TO MAKE A DEAL WITH ROOSEVELT

Outcome May Affect Vote in California.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harry Bridges.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 27.—The communists, the C. I. O., and other radical groups are seeking to drive a bargain with President Roosevelt as the price of their support of his candidacy for a third term.

The outcome of the negotiations, initiated recently at a White House conference of the President and John L. Lewis, C. I. O. generalissimo, may have an important bearing on the contest for California's 22 electoral votes.

The Price They Demand.

Here is the price:

1. Ruling by the attorney general that Harry Bridges, director of the California C. I. O., is not deportable on charges of being a communist.
2. Defeat of pending legislation to amend the Wagner Labor Relations act and reappointment of Chairman J. Warren Madden of the National Labor Relations board.
3. Guarantees against modification of the maximum hours of labor provisions of the wage and hour act to expedite national defense.
4. Withholding of government contracts from concerns held by the Labor Relations board to be offenders against the Wagner act.
5. Measures to reduce unemployment.

Silent About Meeting.

Neither the President nor Lewis would reveal what took place at their White House meeting, the first since Lewis denounced Mr. Roosevelt as the author of the depression and predicted his defeat if he should run for a third term.

[Recent reports in Washington described this meeting as a secret one for which Lewis slipped in thru the back door. The date of the meeting never has been officially made known, as Lewis was not on the White House appointment calendar.]

Reports, however, gained currency that the two old friends who bargained so successfully in 1932 and 1936 had made another deal whereby Lewis and his following would get in line for the third term.

These rumors caused so much excitement among the Pacific coast radicals of all hues that the People's World, San Francisco communist organ, sought a statement from Bridges, west coast representative of Lewis. Bridges got into communication with Lewis and then reported that the deal has not been concluded and will not be unless and until the President meets the terms.

Statement by Bridges.

The Bridges statement published by the People's World follows:

"I am able officially to say that John L. Lewis is standing firm and solid on the C. I. O. program of opposing government contracts going to anti-labor firms that refuse to obey the federal law, for preservation of the Wagner act, as it now stands, for a solution of the unemployment situation, full protection against national defense being used to impede labor organizations or to take away labor's gains, and for a decision on the Bridges deportation case before the elections—before any indorsement or support will be forthcoming, from Lewis or from the National office of the C. I. O. for the Presidential candidates of either major political party."

House Flouts Lewis.

The house has declined to yield to the demand of Lewis for legislation forbidding the letting of government contracts to firms convicted by the labor board, notwithstanding pending appeals to the courts.

The house also flouted Lewis by passing legislation amending the Wagner act to give employers equal rights and privileges and passed the Walter bill granting rights of appeal generally from the rulings of the alphabetical boards. Both these measures are pending in the senate.

After Bridges was whitewashed by the department of labor the house passed a bill to deport him as a dangerous radical. Then to head off possible passage of the bill by the senate, where it is pending, the department of justice reopened the Bridges case. The radicals demand a decision before the election, the implication being that it will determine whether they will vote for or against Mr. Roosevelt.

Pledge card which a state employe received from Democratic organization. The amount expected of the employe for campaign expenses was filled in at headquarters.

Card Called a Threat

This is the season of harvest for the Kelly-Nash-Nudelman 2 per cent club, John T. Dempsey, Republican county chairman, said yesterday, exhibiting a campaign "donation" pledge card sent him by a Democratic state employé.

Dempsey said he would not make public the name of the sender, but he displayed the card headed "Finance Committee, Democratic State Central Committee, Donation Pledge."

"Far from being a simple blank form sent to a state employé by the Democratic party in the event a man should wish to make a campaign pledge, this card is in itself a threat," Dempsey declared.

"It has been fully made out with the employé's name, address, and job. And where the donation is to be noted—voluntarily, of course—that has been filled out, too.

"In other words, this state employé is hereby informed that the Democratic state central committee, which controls his job, expects him to kick in $42 for his $2,100 job, and wants it paid on a monthly basis of $3.50. All that is left for him to do is to sign his name.

"We have learned from dependable sources," Dempsey continued, "that the Democratic ward committeemen already have told their precinct captains that they are expecting an increase of WPA jobs shortly, and that the precinct captain should be ready with two or three picked persons who want to go to work and, of course, deserve to.

"Thus the Kelly-Nash machine is extracting funds from those who have political jobs and at the same time creating more political jobs to take care of the boys who will deliver the vote."

PRISON OFFICERS FAIL TO TESTIFY IN SLUSH PROBE

Prisons Superintendent Joseph E. Ragen, Deputy Warden George F. Sehring, and Joseph L. McGuire, captain of the guards, in response to subpenas for them to testify yesterday afternoon, failed to appear before a notary public in Joliet in a suit for an accounting of the Democratic 2 per cent slush fund. Three persons in Springfield previously had failed to answer summonses.

Earl Means and W. H. Luthin, clerks at the Stateville penitentiary, are slated to appear today before a notary in the same case. However, if they, too, are absent it will not surprise attorneys for the plaintiffs. Four other subpenas are outstanding.

GRAND JURY TOLD HOW ROMANO TOOK OVER UNION

Three witnesses before the grand jury yesterday were reported to have told how Louis Romano slipped into the presidency of the Bartenders and Beverage Dispensers union, local 278, and then used gangster methods to gain complete control of the organization.

State's Attorney Courtney on Thursday ordered that the evidence be placed before the grand jurors "for action." It is expected that the prosecutor will press for indictments against Romano and several men identified with the existing underworld syndicates, including Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti.

Yesterday's witnesses were George B. McLane, a veteran business agent of the union; Don Seager, a former member of the executive board, who has alleged he was forced out by Romano, and Robert Nixon, a business agent. McLane had charged previously that Romano and his pals had threatened him with bodily harm in an effort to make him leave Chicago. The grand jury investigation will be resumed Monday.

GREEN PROMISES ILLINOIS' EGYPT NEEDED REFORM

Brings Message of Hope to Four Counties.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. 27.—Illinois' Egypt, community of coal mines, oil wells, relief, and hard times, today and tonight heard Dwight Green blast the Kelly-Nash-Nudelman Democratic machine and prescribe proposed reforms.

The Republican candidate for governor swept thru four counties, made seven speeches, and shook countless hands. His audiences ranged from apathetic groups of listlessly curious in Democratic Zeigler to several thousands of cheering and determined supporters in Benton, Christopher, Marion, Carbondale, Murphysboro, and Sparta.

Fear Machine Vote.

"Get him away from the Cook county machine not more than 200,000 loser and we'll put him over," was the gist of comment from his political supporters.

In Marion, part of Williamson county, where 55 per cent of 51,000 inhabitants are on relief or WPA, a crowd on the sun swept courthouse square listened hopefully as Green pledged his support to the jobless.

A fringe of elderly persons, vacant faced and clad in shoddy clothing sat on the farther curb stones, and heard the Republican candidate denounce waste and graft in relief. He told them that he would protect their interests, until economy and a halt on tax eating, could replace unwanted charity with desired places at the pay windows.

Promises Safety Enforcement.

In Benton, pipe smoking men in miner's clothing nodded approval as he promised a full investigation of failure to enforce laws protecting miners in the coal fields of southern Illinois.

"When conditions became serious enough to warrant the recent mass meeting of the coal miners of Franklin, Williamson, and Saline counties to demand redress, they certainly should not be ignored by the state government," Green said.

He referred to the use of an explosive agent known as the Cardox method, which, coal miners hold, should be regulated by the shot firers' law. This law requires that no blasting of coal shall be done in a mine until all workmen have left, and that examination shall be made before they are permitted to return after an explosion.

NORRIS ATTACKS WILLKIE; SPEECH MAY BE FRANKED

Bridges Accuses Senator of Demagoguery.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27. [Special].—Senator George W. Norris [Ind., Neb.], a supporter of President Roosevelt in his previous elections and now an honorary chairman of a "non-partisan" committee supporting his third term attempt, delivered on the senate floor today a 7,000 word speech entitled, "Who is Willkie?"

The oration will be printed in the congressional record and can be circulated free under a frank as a Presidential campaign document.

Senator Norris is known as the father of the Tennessee Valley authority program and an apostle of government ownership. His speech dealt chiefly with Wendell Willkie's activities as an utility official and sought to draw comparisons between his past business and his utterances as Republican candidate for President.

Calls It Willkie Philospohy.

He quoted Willkie as having said in a speech that "no duty ever has come to me in my life, even that in the service of my country, which has so appealed to my sense of social obligation, patriotism and love of mankind as this, my obligation to say and do what I can for the preservation of public utilities, privately owned."

"There you have from Mr. Willkie,'" Norris declared, "the very heart of his philosophy. He puts loyalty to the power trust above loyalty to anything else in life, even to his country in time of war."

Bridges Strikes Back.

The Nebraskan's speech brought from Senator Styles Bridges [R., N. H.], a statement that Norris had twisted Willkie's remark and that he was engaged in a "dastardly attempt to smear a veteran of the world war." He accused Norris of "demagoguery of the cheapest sort."

"Mr. Willkie's war record," Bridges said, "is too well known to need recounting, including as it does his rise from private to captain and exemplary service in France."

SEIZED ON DOPE CHARGE.

Daniel Morbetti, 37 years old, 448 North Racine avenue, a former small time prohibition bootlegger, was arrested yesterday on a federal indictment charging he sold 120 ounces of heroin to government agents for $3,550.

MEMBER OF NLRB CALLED DISCIPLE OF COMMUNISTS

Wisconsin Congressman Makes Charge.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—Representative Frank Keefe [R., Wis.] today charged before the Smith committee investigating the National Labor Relations board that Edwin S. Smith, member of the NLRB, and several board employés were followers of the communist party line. He said the information was given to him during a recent conference with George W. Brooks, an "economist" for the board's technical service division, headed by the Russian born David Saposs, who has been accused before the Dies committee of being a communist.

According to Keefe, Brooks asserted he learned their leanings from actions which he observed over a long period, adding that the same information was current among those close to the NLRB. The committee was told that Brooks sought the conference with Keefe thru Ralph Emerson, a former counsel for the National Maritime union.

Friendly with Bridges.

The maritime union [C. I. O.] is headed by Harry Bridges, who has been accused of being a member of the communist party. Smith has been known for his friendship with Bridges.

"I asked him [Brooks] about Smith," Keefe testified, "and he advised that the information was current as to Smith's activities in various radical organizations and groups, and while he couldn't prove any membership it was his opinion that their sympathies were with communist groups and that their attitude was an adherence to the party lines."

Others Are Named.

Among others named by Brooks as being communist sympathizers, Keefe said, were Mrs. John W. Porter and Shead Polareri, supervisors in the board's review section. Keefe added that Brooks' views were corroborated by Emerson.

The conference between Brooks and Keefe took place at a time when the house appropriations committee, of which Keefe is a member, was considering legislation which would force out of existence the technical service division of the NLRB.

Fears Loss of Job.

Keefe said Brooks, who works for Saposs, gave as his excuse for wanting the conference his fear of losing his job if the technical service was forced out of existence. However, the witness gave the impression that Brooks made the allegations against Smith and the others in an effort to counteract similar charges against Saposs.

Johnson and eight others are on trial before a jury in the Federal district court of Judge John P. Barnes on charges of conspiracy to evade the payment of $1,887,864 in income taxes.

Jack Sommers.

Sommers, the first of the defendants to testify, said he and he alone had owned two gambling places—the Horseshoe club and the Dev-Lin inn.

Birds Big Eaters

September 26, 1940.

HOW much do song and game birds eat? The question came up for discussion on the Du Page county farm this week. The pheasants, peafowl, ducks, and other birds which were hatched on the farm this summer have been under observation for several months, so the workers had a pretty good chance to witness the "dawn to dusk" eating marathon tactics of some of these species. As one of the farm residents remarked this week, "the pheasants and peacocks seem to eat all day long."

This statement is no exaggeration for birds are big eaters. They do not live long but they live fast. They breathe rapidly and have a more rapid circulation than other vertebrates. To sustain their active bodies a large quantity of food is necessary and ornithologists point out that most of our birds, from the friendly song sparrow to the beautifully plumaged ringneck, must devote most of their waking hours searching for grain, weed seeds, berries, insects, and other kinds of food. In fact, if any group of vertebrates may be said to "stow it away," it's the birds. They pour food into their bodies hour after hour to get the energy required for their extremely active lives.

Capacities Astounding.

Studies made by scientists show the astonishing capacities of birds' stomachs. For example, it was discovered that 8,000 chickweed seeds make just one nice meal for a pheasant. Another pheasant examined during the winter had picked up 200 cow peas from a field—old and partly decomposed refuse from the harvest. A third ringneck had 960 kernels of wheat in its stomach.

But for rapid fire eating one western quail easily wins the blue ribbon. Here is one meal for a Bob White: 83 kernels of barley, 592 seeds of geranium, 560 of tarweed, 40 of bur thistle, 48 of clover, 80 unidentified, 704 of timothy, 32 of catchfly, and 5 of snowberry—a total of 2,114 seeds in all. Another quail examined had eaten 1,914 seeds and a pod!

The songbirds show excellent records as large eaters of noxious insects and weed seeds. For example, the common nighthawk, a useful insectivorous species living on the farm considers 340 May beetles, 52 bugs, 2 beetles, 2 wasps, and a spider just enough for a light meal. One killdeer stomach examined had more than 300 mosquito larvae in it.

Digest Food Rapidly.

Since birds digest their food rapidly and seem to be hungry all the time the quantity of food discovered in their stomachs gives us a pretty good idea idea of the almost unbelievable amounts that they consume during the course of a year. In the case of quail picking up weed seeds it's safe to say that the total for a small covey might run into the millions in the course of a year's time.

It is interesting to note that hungry birds are not only eager to fill their stomachs with insects or seeds, but even after their stomachs are stuffed they'll eat until the crop also is crammed full. We have examined many quail that had gorged themselves in this manner and everything they had eaten was natural food.

BRIDGE COLLAPSE KILLS 2 WORKERS IN LINCOLN PARK

Three Wreckers Saved from Drowning.

Two WPA workers were drowned yesterday as a result of the collapse of the one remaining span of the Outer drive bridge over the Diversey avenue slip into Lincoln park lagoon. The span, weakened by the pounding of a demolition crane, fell into 13 feet of water, carrying with it the crane, the two victims, and three Chicago park district workers.

William Radner, thrown into water.

The body of Anthony Llewellyn, 40 years old, 4439 Evans avenue, was recovered, while that of Wharton McCoy, 35, of 741 East 48th street, was still in the water, apparently pinned down by the 37 ton crane. Both were colored.

The bridge, just south of the Lincoln Park Gun club, was being demolished preliminary to extension of the new eight lane outer drive to Belmont avenue.

Entire Section Gives Way.

The crane, swinging a ball weighing two and one-half tons, had been moved to a point just south of the north supporting column and was smashing at the south end of the center span when the entire section, weakened by three weeks of pounding, gave way.

Llewellyn and McCoy, who had been working on the span carrying away debris, tumbled into the water with the concrete wreckage. William Radner, 48, of 6439 South Artesian avenue, the engineer, and Joseph Hecimovich, 48, of 10156 Carpenter street, an oiler, who were in the cab of the crane, went into the water with the crane.

Altho the cab was submerged, both managed to climb out. Hecimovich was thrown a life preserver by WPA workers directed by Charles Korp, foreman, of 1906 Keystone avenue, while Radner climbed out on the arm of the crane and perched there until a coast guard crew under Boatswain's Mate J. O. Olander of Old Chicago station arrived and took him off.

Structural Weakness Blamed.

Alexander Waters, 53, 8020 Paxton avenue, a junior engineer, also was thrown into the water, but other workers threw him a hose line and pulled him out.

Radner, after being given first aid at American hospital, told Capt. John O'Malley of Sheffield avenue station that the east half of the bridge, built in 1922, was of slot construction, and not nearly so strong as the west half, built of concrete reinforced with steel at the time the Outer drive was widened.

Radner said that after partially demolishing the west section, the crane, set to work on the east half of the bridge, did not encounter resistance expected on the basis of experience with the west half. He said that if the structural weakness of the east section had been known, the accident could have been averted.

PAROLE HEARINGS TO OPEN MONDAY; 454 ASK LIBERTY

Subcommittees of the parole board will begin hearings Monday in the state's penal institutions on the parole applications of 454 prisoners. Nine women prisoners in the reformatory at Dwight are among those seeking freedom.

Mrs. Anna Cahill, 42 years old, 2908 West 38th place, who was convicted by the first jury in Illinois to include a majority of women, is seeking a parole. She was found guilty of child abandonment a year ago and sentenced to one to three years.

Others seeking paroles are William Messina and James Ippolito, who were sentenced to one year to life in 1935 after they confessed committing nearly 50 robberies.

BICYCLE RIDER, STRUCK BY CAR, DIES OF INJURIES

Edward Ducoff, 20 years old, 4844 North Oakley avenue, a machinist, died yesterday in Swedish Covenant hospital of injuries incurred Wednesday when his bicycle was struck by an automobile at Oakley and Lawrence avenues. The driver, William G. Kiley, 17, of 4846 North Hermitage avenue, a student in Lane Technical High school, was charged with reckless driving, and his case was continued until Nov. 14 in the Boys' court.

Herbert McGann, 40 years old, an accountant, died in St. Anne's hospital early today several hours after his automobile collided with a North avenue street car at Lockwood avenue. He lived at 1646 North Mason avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 632 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 467 were killed in Chicago, where 17,269 were injured in the same period.

N. Y. COMMUNIST, SUED BY LEGION, QUITS CITY JOB

New York, Sept. 27 [Special].—Simon W. Gerson, the avowed communist who has been on the city's pay roll since Jan. 1, 1938, resigned under fire today from his $3,600 a year job as confidential aid to Borough President Stanley M. Isaacs of Manhattan.

Altho Gerson's open advocacy of communism has caused repeated demands from patriotic and veterans' organizations for his ouster, he finally quit only as the first court test of his right to the job was about to open. His communistic activity, he said in his letter of resignation to Isaacs, was "an open record and a source of pride to me."

Disclosure of his withdrawal came as a surprise as Supreme Court Justice Lloyd Church called the taxpayer's suit, sponsored by the New York state American Legion, for Gerson's removal.

BALLOT PRINTING BID WITHDRAWN; PRICE TOO LOW

M. Kallis & Co., printing firm which surprised the board of election commissioners Wednesday by offering to print ballots for the Presidential election at the lowest prices in many years, yesterday asked permission to withdraw its bid.

Joseph Milosch, general manager of the company, said an error had been made in the estimates. The bid was approximately a third as high as that of the second low bidder. Mrs. Mabel Reinecke, member of the election board, said the next lowest bid, that of Rand McNally & Co., probably will be accepted.

The Kallis company did not ask to withdraw its bid on the judicial ballots to be printed for the 3,648 precincts in Chicago. The firm's bid of $1.39 a thousand on judicial ballots without watermarking was the lowest submitted.

Fireboat Continues Tests for Underwriter Tables

Additional tests to learn how high streams of water can be shot into the air under varying pressures were conducted last night from the fireboat Fred A. Busse, stationed in the Chicago river at the Madison street bridge. Similar experiments were made Thursday night. Tables to aid fire underwriters will be compiled as a result of the tests. It was found that the highest stream of water last night, reaching 275 feet, was obtained by using a 2¼ inch nozzle with 250 pounds of pressure.

George Ward, 27, colored, 3328 Michigan avenue, was sentenced to 15 days in jail for reckless driving.

NOTICE MEN WANTED

Which Do You Choose?

Man's existence on earth is a continual struggle to improve himself; an ever seeking of that elusive something known as happiness.

Out of the crucible of ambitions, of meanness, of self-sacrifice have been wrought the pillars of the society in which we live today.

The greatest institution ever to come from the mind of man was that of Christianity. It was noble in its conception and offered new hope to men.

Yet not in all the history of the world was anything so abused, nothing was ever the cause of so much conflict, so much grief. An instrument for happiness was turned into an instrument of power. Out of it came the first great unanimity as to objective, but disagreement over METHOD.

Chance to End Abuses.

The New Dealers shout with unholy glee when their opponents say today that they "approve of the New Deal's objective but not its methods." This was, of course, the evolution of religion as we know it now. The ten commandments are engraven in the affirmative of every man's mind, but there will be a struggle over their application as long as man survives.

Wendell Willkie is not asking that the structure of government be turned over to him on the grounds, primarily, that he has more generosity in his heart than the New Dealers, that he is any more lofty inspired.

He is asking, rather, that the people of this country seek thru him the opportunity to regain their strength and be the masters of their own destiny once again. They should do this in order that the instruments which have been added to government in recent years may not be used AGAINST them, but FOR them.

If the words of Mr. Roosevelt and his associates were alone to be considered they reflect as high ideals as can be imagined. But the powers given to them to effectuate these ideals have been abused. Just as self-seekers seized the institution of Christianity and used it not to uplift their fellow men, but hold them down—so have men seized the New Deal as a vehicle of advancement for themselves. These men are the leftist intellectuals who are enjoying an estate and way of living they had never before known. These men are political bosses like Kelly, Nash, Ed Flynn, Crump, Frank Hague, Joe Guffey.

Driblets to Lower One-third.

Perhaps these men, if permitted to hold their power, would continue to pass driblets of living to the so-called lower one-third. But they will bring grief, if not destruction, to the other two-thirds.

Wendell Willkie is conducting a noble crusade for the reopening of the American economy, so MEN CAN GET JOBS, AND, GETTING JOBS, CAN MOVE FROM ONE TO ANOTHER BY WAY OF IMPROVING THEMSELVES. In this way only can this nation advance!

DAILY NEWSPAPER
WILLKIE APPROVES OF NEW DEAL PROJECTS

This Is Getting Embarrassing.

According to the neighboring Republican column, Wendell Willkie produced an "electrifying" effect when he quoted Winston Churchill's criticism of President Roosevelt's domestic policies.

The Churchill statement was made in 1937 before he became prime minister. He said there was one way above all others in which the United States could aid the democracies of Europe and that was by regaining her internal strength. The theory was that a "weakened" America weakened England and France.

Of course Churchill was looking at the problem from a British viewpoint. He was far ahead of the fumbling Chamberlain government in foreseeing the approaching clash with Hitler. He saw the storm coming and when it broke he wanted war supplies of every kind. Any far-seeing patriot would do the same for his country.

Mr. Willkie quotes the Churchill statement with approval. Does this mean that he wishes to give more aid to Britain? How far would he go? Does he think we should have shaped our internal policies with the sole thought of Europe's plight? No one knows because, as usual, the Republican nominee led up to the point and then dropped it. His foreign policy remains a question mark.

Ending Class Distinctions.

There is no disputing the fact that British feeling toward the war was ugly all during last winter. The labor unions were conducting polls on the wisdom or unwisdom of continuing the war. There was a widespread attitude of discontent, a feeling that the war was being fought for the benefit of the English upper classes.

The British government recognized that the feeling of discontent was genuine and swift steps were taken to correct it. Prominent liberals and labor leaders like Bevin, Morrisson, and Maj. Clement Atlee are now occupying posts of authority. The news stories from the beseiged island tell homely tales about the lowering of class barriers.

Results of Roosevelt Policies.

Here in the United States the task of strengthening national morale was well under way long before the present emergency arose. It was badly shattered by the faltering policies pursued early in the depression by the Hoover administration. President Roosevelt proceeded to teach the doctrine that every citizen, no matter how humble, has a stake in the welfare of the country and that this fact should be the constant concern of government.

SCIENCE MUSEUM CENTRAL SECTION TO OPEN OCT. 26

New Exhibits Will Cover 100,000 Square Feet.

The huge central section of the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park will be opened to the public for the first time on Oct. 26, Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, president of the museum, announced yesterday. Hundreds of new exhibits cover 100,000 square feet of floor space. Added to existing exhibits they will bring the occupied space to 150,000 square feet, or one-fourth of the museum's total.

The opening, announced at a meeting of the Commercial club at 404 South Michigan avenue, will mark another step toward realization of the late Julius Rosenwald's dream of a living museum for Chicagoans. More exhibits will be opened every two weeks or so, Maj. Lohr said, until all available space is in use.

Printing Exposition a Feature.

Among the spectacular exhibits will be a modern printing exposition, part of the equipment for which was donated by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE; a huge $50,000 miniature railway contributed by the Santa Fe line, a full sized operating gray iron foundry, and a million volt generator for demonstrating man-made lightning.

The museum's coal mine, in which full sized machinery demonstrates modern methods of extracting bituminous coal, again will be in operation. Hundreds of other exhibits in the field of geology, minerals, industries, power, graphic arts, transportation, agriculture, civil engineering, and medical sciences will be shown.

Steel Decorates Room.

One entire room has been "decorated" by the Inland Steel company, with cross-sections of more than 300 rolled steel shapes inlaid in the floor.

"The museum's immediate objective is threefold," Maj. Lohr said. "First, to broaden our financial base to support the projects necessary to a fully completed museum. Second, to fill the gaps in our exhibit sequences. And, third, to make our presentations in a clear, simple manner so that relations between scientific principles and their application to our daily lives are delineated."

BANK CLERK'S PET DOG LEADS TO HIS SEIZURE IN THEFT

Most of $40,000 Loot Recovered by G-Men.

Richard O. Fossum.

Were it not for the love he bore for an 11 year old chow dog which he had raised from a pup, Richard O. Fossum, dapper young bank clerk, might still be enjoying the $40,450 he took from the Lake View Trust and Savings bank last month.

Fossum, 24 years old, sleek haired and clean cut, was arrested Thursday night in St. Paul, Minn. His capture was announced here yesterday by W. S. Devereaux, local chief of the federal bureau of investigation, who said that agents recovered $37,684.43 found in Fossum's briefcase.

Walks Out with Grocery Bag.

Fossum, a commercial deposit clerk at the bank for four years, was left in charge of the telling cages on Aug. 31, a Saturday. When he left the bank he carried a shopping bag from which protruded celery stalks and beet tops.

When Fossum did not appear for work on the following Tuesday, the day after Labor day, an audit disclosed the shortage. Federal agents found that Fossum and his mother, with whom he lived, were missing from their apartment at 1304 Argyle street.

The agents learned that Fossum had taken his mother to the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn. In checking up on Fossum's personal habits with his friends, they learned of his deep affection for the dog, Tommy, which had been ailing with an ear infection.

Watch Placed on Kennel.

Suspecting that Fossum had boarded the dog in the Minneapolis area they visited every kennel until they found a dog answering Tommy's description. A 24 hour watch was placed on the kennel at Kingsdale, near Minneapolis.

When Fossum appeared there Thursday night he was seized without a struggle. Since leaving town the young bank clerk had traveled widely, from New York to Denver, Colo., even returning twice to Chicago.

With his stolen money, Devereaux said, Fossum had purchased new clothes, a costly camera, expensive golf clubs, and a sporty new automobile on which he had run up 7,800 miles in his three weeks of travel.

Devereaux said Fossum would be held in St. Paul for removal to Chicago. His mother is believed to be in New York.

THE ALLIANCE AGAINST AMERICA.

Japan has now joined in a treaty with Germany and Italy directed against the United States. The three powers have agreed that if the United States enters the war in Europe on the side of England or the war in Asia on the side of China, all three powers will make war on the United States.

This was Japan's answer to the embargo placed by Mr. Roosevelt on the export of scrap steel to Japan and the answer of Germany and Italy to our departures from strict neutrality in the European conflict. Perhaps some Americans were astonished by the announcement from Berlin, but they must have been naive, indeed.

Surely Mr. Roosevelt was not astonished, and, equally surely, he is not displeased by the latest turn of events. His diplomacy resulted precisely as George Washington and every other sensible man in our nation's history said it would. Because we have taken sides in old-world quarrels, we have acquired old-world enemies. For the first time in our history a foreign alliance against us has been perfected. When and if it suits their purpose to do so, they will make war on us. So far as pretexts for war are concerned, they have them already.

Mr. Roosevelt now has the critical international situation which, in his reckoning, his third term candidacy requires. He has it because he made it. Logically, his position today corresponds closely to that of the man who poisoned his mother and father and then pleaded for mercy on the ground that he was an orphan. Mr. Roosevelt is pleading for votes in the November election on the ground that the nation is faced by an emergency. He made the emergency.

There is no need here to examine the question whether Mr. Roosevelt should have embargoed the sale of scrap to Japan. The significant fact is that Mr. Roosevelt waited until the last week of September, 1940, to issue his decree. Every moral and legal justification for his action existed as well two years ago as now, five weeks before the third term election. Mr. Roosevelt wanted his crisis when he wanted it and not before.

That is why the United States today finds itself the enemy of three great military powers so situated that they may be able to bring war upon us on two flanks simultaneously. That is why the people of the United States today face a future beset with troubles which might have been avoided.

If we are lucky enough to escape war, despite Mr. Roosevelt, we may still have to devote a needlessly large share of our productive resources to maintaining a military establishment of stupendous size. Conscription may become a permanent institution in American life, along with armament expenditures on an unprecedented scale.

If war is the consequence, it is not likely to be one war. Twenty years after Germany was prostrate she had developed the most powerful military machine the world ever saw, and was again on the march. If we prevent Japan from taking Indo-China from the French, the East Indies from the Dutch, etc., we have solved no problems. We have only assumed a responsibility for the future of those territories. We don't want them, and whoever has them, whether native governments or some one else, will hold them, thanks to our power to maintain the status quo which we shall have created. That means a continuing liability. It means that we must, at any moment, be ready to defend these places, 6,000 miles and more from our shores, against any nation or combination of nations which may covet them.

The acceptance of such a responsibility means that the America which we have known is dead. From being a nation which habitually minded its own business in its own sphere, we shall have become a great imperial power, set upon a course of foreign conquest and domination, a ruler of remote lands and alien races. The cost of maintaining such a policy will be stupendous and not the least of them will be the loss of our democratic faith. A democracy cannot rule subject peoples and remain a democracy.

ORGANIZED RIOTING IN NEW YORK.

Three thousand strikers and sympathizers engaged in a riot in the streets of New York the other day, destroying automobiles, attacking workers seeking to enter the struck plant, and putting to flight a force of 50 policemen, a score of whom were beaten. The police were unable to defend themselves because Mayor La Guardia had issued orders, they charged, that any one of them who used his gun or club to protect himself would be discharged from the force.

This particular riot was staged by the A. F. of L. Electrical Workers' union. The fact that the struck plant, if the strikers' charges are even half true, is run by exceedingly backward employers is of course no extenuation of the union action. Factory laws and the Wagner act offer complete relief from the conditions complained of. It is not improbable that this particular union, judged by its record elsewhere in the nation, would have contented itself with these peaceful remedies if the plant had not been located in New York, where Mayor La Guardia has consistently encouraged and protected labor rioters.

The result has been the organization in that city of regular riot armies. They have their general staff, line officers, and noncommissioned leaders, all trained in the tactics of street fighting. They can disorganize the city on short notice, and such disorganization is the objective of the communist controled unions, which have a tighter grip on New York than on any other city. Strike riots to them are only training maneuvers. Our plans for national defense will not be complete until troops are thoroly trained in street fighting to put down these communist protégés of New York's mayor.

WHAT THE BUS COMPANY IS WORTH.

President Weintraub of the Chicago Motor Coach company made a moving plea at the traction hearing Thursday for the sale of the company on a valuation based on its earning power. If that basis of valuation were accepted the offer to sell the bus lines to the unified traction system for $10,000,000 in cash and securities, plus an indefinite sum to reimburse the holding corporation for federal taxes that it may have to pay on its profit on the deal, might not appear unreasonable.

The only fallacy in Mr. Weintraub's argument is the fundamental one that there is never justification for selling a utility company on the basis of its earning power. The proper valuation for a public utility is the value of its physical assets. Large earnings are due to favorable rates granted by public authorities. Altho it was farthest from his intentions, what Mr. Weintraub was doing was demonstrating that the Illinois Commerce commission has been derelict in not requiring the company to reduce fares. Inasmuch as the commission has been run by men of the stripe of Strongbox Slattery, the dereliction is not surprising.

Had Mr. Weintraub been offering for sale a competitive business his arguments would have been flawless. But the bus company is not a competitive business, but a public utility. When its stockholders invested their money they did so with the knowledge that this status of the company gave them certain advantages and placed them under certain restrictions.

The advantages were that they were granted a monopoly and given the legal right so to exploit it as to give them a reasonable return on the investment. These were valuable privileges. For instance, they prevent the street car company, which charges a 7 cent fare, from running its buses down the same streets used by the coach company buses, which charge a 10 cent fare.

The restrictions under which the bus company, as a public utility, has operated are that since it is a monopoly it is subject to public regulation, the purpose of which is to see that it renders proper service and charges no more for it than will yield the reasonable return to which it is entitled.

The admitted profit of the company is only a little more than 1 cent a passenger, but this is what its accountants choose to call profit after setting up reserves for depreciation and obsolescence. The fact is that by the use of these reserves the company has replaced the original equipment of the company with far more valuable equipment.

This excess value represents nothing but excess fares paid by the bus riders. It was profit left in the company as distinguished from profit paid out in dividends. Now, thru the sale, the stockholders not only want to withdraw this additional profit, but are asking the purchaser to pay any taxes the government may impose on the excess profits. Had the company been properly regulated there would be no excess profits.

As we have pointed out before, the attitude of the Chicago authorities, and particularly of some members of the city council, toward the bus purchase has given ground for grave suspicion of their motives. It was a so-called expert employed by the council who first suggested earning power as a basis for valuation of the bus lines.

The bus company is the only component of the proposed unified transportation system in the transfer of which any cash will be involved. This is a fact, and is no reflection on the officials of the company. So far as any one has a right to suspect, their sole motive is that of obtaining the best possible price for their stockholders. But by their conduct some of the aldermen have betrayed their conviction that if there is to be any payoff on traction it will have to come out of the bus lines purchase. That is where the money is, and that is where the public will be wise to keep its eye.

PEACETIME CONSCRIPTS AND VOLUNTEERS.

Army officers in charge of the draft say that it is quite probable that the first quota of 400,000 men to be mustered into service by Jan. 1 will be obtained entirely by volunteering, without resort to conscription.

The regular army enlistment term is now three years. Under the terms of the conscription act the army will accept volunteers for a one year enlistment after the draft registration date, Oct. 16. Numerous applications for one year enlistments have already been received and deferred, and the draft officials believe that a volunteering rate of 62 men to the conscription district, which would fill the 400,000 quota, is not improbable.

It is to be hoped that they are right. Men who join the army of their own free will will be happy in it, and will make that much better soldiers. Men conscripted in time of peace, to face a so-called emergency stimulated for political purposes, will not be happy. The country will be fortunate if the discontent of some of them does not become disloyalty.

Editorial of the Day

GEN. JOHNSON HAS SOME FUN.

[Milwaukee Journal.]

With all the heartbreak in the world, people need some lightness, some chance to smile and forget. Perhaps that is the reason the wisecracker and funmaker is popular. War is serious, rearmament is not only expensive but alarming, but politics is not so serious as it pretends to be. We think of no one today who so successfully debunked a piece of solemn humbug as the late Will Rogers. But some debunking is still being done, and not too unskilfully.

Many must have enjoyed Gen. Johnson's humorous fling when he quoted Mayor Fiorello La Guardia's recent remark that he, La Guardia, "hated politics." Said the slambang general:

"The President hates politics, Eleanor hates politics, and, for all I know, Sistie and Buzzie hate politics. Fiorello hates politics just like a horse hates hay."

A fair comment on the almost tearful lament of Mr. La Guardia, who recently was the only layman appointed by Mr. Roosevelt to the Canada-United States defense board, and then, with much fanfare, announced his support of President Roosevelt!

MR. PEPYS HEARS A SPEECH.

27th Sept.—Did hear Mr. Willkie speak, for my first time, by radio from Omaha the other night, and did think he has a manly, earnest voice, with no sanctimonious mayonnaise on it, and that he talks as if he means it without shouting stale slogans. He spoke on the farm problem, about which I have always been in a fog, and behold, he made me understand it, which was a great achievement. Nor did he talk to the farmers as if he were coddling them and protecting them from mysterious enemies, as other politicians have done, but as to Americans who are in the same boat with city folks, for better or for worse.

Methinks Mr. Willkie is lucky to be traveling the one night stands, for if he were at home the cleaners and decorators would be in his flat, as they have been in mine, and Mrs. Willkie would be saying the living room should be a sweet shell pink in color, and he would be roaring back, "Don't you put any pink in my den." Well, it's all over now but for the hanging of my etchings, and the draping of my curtains, and the return of my rugs from the cleaner, and the rearrangement of my books according to a more scientific system, so maybe when the time for spring cleaning comes, the fall cleaning will be finished.

Now I begin to understand why Tom Lincoln, father of Abraham, built so many log cabins. When Mrs. Lincoln thought that cleaning time had come around, old Tom would say, "No, maw, you're wrong, it's moving time," and he would toss the household junk into a covered wagon and find himself a new clearing in the woods, and build another cabin. Mrs. Lincoln would hang around the old place for a while, saying to the neighbors, "Ain't men the ornery critters?" and then she would toddle after Tom, driving the cow and the litter of pigs. When she got there, Tom would grin and say, "Hello, maw, look at our nice new clean house."

don't let him think you have a brain
please do not be witty

be ignorant of high finance don't ever criticize

ask where he buys his ties

let him tell you black is white let him be your guiding light

Clear Morning in Autumn.

This was a bright and shining fall morning, swept clean of dust and fog and rain by an all-night gale, and dropped, new minted, into our hands for spending. One searches his mind for a word to describe the splendid blue of the sky. Not azure or turquoise—too soft. Not cerulean—too passive. Sapphire perhaps? It has all the brilliancy and sparkle, all the depth and color of a well cut precious stone. It is a sky to reckon with—a sky so vital, so full of joie de vivre, that man cannot expose himself to it without sharing something of the excitement and beauty that flows earthward. Helene.

The Cowboys of the Wild East.

It is interesting to note that the word "cowboy" did not originate in the western states. Capitalized and hyphenated as "Cow-boys," it was first used to name a particular set of cattle thieves.

During the American revolution refugee Tories, living within the British controled territory, plundered the cattle of American sympathizers and sold the stolen stock in New York City. These marauders were called "Cow-boys."

There was also an epithet for banditti behind the American lines, who, tho they professed attachment to the cause, were unprincipled and seized the cattle of friend and foe alike. These were called "skinners."

Gen. Washington disliked this traffic and commanded that it be stopped. Accordingly, patrols of soldiers were sent out to watch the roads. This was indeed a fortunate action for the colonies. One of these roving detachments apprehended Maj. John André and foiled the treason of Benedict Arnold. S. Nosakcid.

SAVING LIFE WITH OXYGEN.

ALTHOUGH the value of oxygen in the treatment of disease has been known for centuries, our present day advances in this respect have come very largely thru the coöperation of manufacturers. Preparations of this material, as well as of carbon dioxide, helium, etc., are now available in convenient containers and under such complete control that the rate of flow can be regulated accurately and with facility.

Not long ago I heard a prominent physician make the statement that he could not practice medicine without oxygen, and that he employs a specially constructed room for the purpose. As he put it, "Nothing but good results; not a single untoward effect has occurred, and the gratitude of patients is unbounded."

This vital air is indispensable. When we have too little the pulse rate is speeded up; the lips, fingers, toes, etc. become bluish [cyanotic], and breathing becomes more rapid. When deprivation is extreme, unconsciousness may ensue. Aviators have learned that only when this gas is supplied in generous amounts can they fly for any length of time much above a 12,000 foot elevation.

As we can well understand, there are literally hundreds of conditions in which the tissues need extra quantities. In newborn babes the air cells may not expand fully and a specially designed tent may be required to furnish the needed substance. Surgical shock is alleviated by this method because it has been found that the oxygen content of the venous blood drops long before the blood pressure begins to fall. It has been learned also that administering 100 per cent oxygen [undiluted] will bring about a substantial increase in the arterial saturation. This plan—when combined with other measures, including heat and the use of certain drugs—will prove salutary.

In heart disorders where the circulation is beginning to fail—with the patient struggling for breath, cyanotic, and restless—the demand is immediate. A high concentration for the larger part of the day is clearly indicated. An oxygen room in such circumstances will provide a most favorable situation. The victim does not experience the feeling of suffocation that may be observed when he is in an enclosed tent; and all nursing procedures can be carried out with freedom and with the utmost ease. In pain due to angina pectoris and coronary disease a feeling of comfort ensues because the heart is relieved of some of its work.

Probably no more spectacular results follow any medical or surgical process than the administration of a helium-oxygen mixture in cases of severe asthma. Helium is so light that it can pass into the cells, carrying oxygen along. The combination has the advantage of delivering vital air to the fine bronchial tubes which hitherto have been empty. The ratio of 80 per cent helium and 20 per cent oxygen will bring this essential chemical to lungs hungry for air.

The nasal catheter plan is widely used. A tube is introduced along the floor of a nostril until the tip can be seen when the mouth is open. The apparatus should be cleaned or changed about every six hours and the gas must be passed thru water for the purpose of providing moisture. Otherwise excessive dryness of the throat will be complained of. Six to eight liters per minute is about the normal rate of absorption. But this equipment is only about one-half as efficient as the oxygen room.

A recent report from the Mayo clinic points out that oxygen was utilized in 1939 with approximately 2,200 patients. This tells something of its importance as a remedy. That it is life saving in certain conditions is well known.

SEE ANDY GUMP.

Mr. K. writes: Is it possible to remove a protruding chin?

REPLY.

A difficult procedure. With a portion of the lower jaw taken away, mastication may be interfered with. A prominent prow is said to be an indication of a strong character. This may be true even in the presence of acromegaly—wherein the bony parts of the face are overdeveloped.

NAIL GROWTH.

M. L. H. writes: Is there anything that will make the nails grow more quickly?

REPLY.

The nails rise from the skin and have a steady rate of growth. Because they contain a large amount of sulfur, taking this element by mouth is often suggested as a means of strengthening these structures.

INFORMATION PLEASE.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—To the thinking American it is obvious we are, in the words of Lincoln, "engaged in a great war." We are kissing our loved ones good-by as they shoulder the musket, strap on the canteen and sally forth to join their comrades in this battle of annihilation. The hysteria is upon us. It is immaterial who is to pay the fiddler or when he will get paid, if ever. This is an emergency.

Seriously, the main issues of this, the most important of all national campaigns, if democracy is to survive, is not whether Americans will win the war or when the war will be over, but how many times Willkie said "damn" out in Cicero, or whether he did or did not say "to hell with Chicago"—those are questions of importance and should be scientifically dissected. That's on the Republican side.

Equally, if not more important on the Democratic side, is the vital issue whether Eleanor will take the stump with Henry and do the talking for him. Perhaps Eleanor can kick Hitler in the slats sufficiently hard to get a cheep out of him, and that's more than Henry could do. So you see we have some real problems to be solved in this country during this campaign if we would perpetuate our cherished institutions and the revered memory of the illustrious Washington, Lincoln, and—O yes! Roosevelt.

W. H. CHADWICK.

CORN-HOG CHECKS AND TAXES.

Hennepin, Ill., Sept. 20.—Some people are asking the question: "Why shouldn't Roosevelt be reëlected?" So far no one has given a good reason why he should be.

The man who gets a corn-hog check sometimes forgets he is paying more in increased taxes, seen and unseen, than his check amounts to. The man on relief will find no relief when the government is bankrupt.

Does the AAA settle the farm problem? Does the NLRB settle the labor problem? If so why are there more strikes in the same length of time than ever before?

The trouble in Europe was caused by one man government. Do we want that in the U. S. A.?

There was another Democrat President who "kept us out of war." W. F. S.

THIS IS A REPUBLIC.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—I am a bit fed up on the constant reiteration of political lip service to democracy and our democratic form of government.

Nowhere in the Declaration of Independence or in the constitution is that form of government proposed or guaranteed. On the contrary, article 4, section 4 of the constitution guarantees to the states a republican form of government.

We are living in a republic, which is representative government. That, to me, is a more potent objection to the third term than mere tradition.

The only democracy that ever existed failed because it amounted to mob rule.

Let us fight to preserve our republican representative government in which no man is indispensable. PHILIP R. DAVIS.

PROPAGANDA IN NEWS REELS.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—At last I understand why Mr. Roosevelt does not have to do any active campaigning. Last night several of my friends and I went downtown to a news reel theater and were treated to a lengthy display of "the President of the United States" in which display Mr. Roosevelt appeared in a number of rôles.

One rôle was particularly clever. It was also subtle as a method of propagandizing the American public. Mr. Roosevelt answered all the questions having to do with the draft—not the third term draft, but the American youth draft! In between his answers were inserted various rousing patriotic musical scores designed to make the blood mount in one's veins; much waving of flags, parades, soldiers, bombs being dropped on Warsaw, and horrible portrayals of what might happen in America if Mr. Roosevelt didn't get in again. O, of course, Mr. Roosevelt didn't say this directly, but the meaning was so obvious that it gave us all a sickening feeling inside. The bold propaganda with its accompanying illustrations was clever, but Mr. Roosevelt failed to show the picture of the silent thousands of tombstones in Flanders and the wrecks of humanity filling our veterans' hospitals.

FIND NATION IS "AT WAR."

Chicago, Sept. 25.—A questionnaire for conscripted men sent out by the government and reproduced in facsimile by the Philadelphia Daily News of Sept. 17 is supposed to be for the first peacetime conscription in our history, but as is circled in red, it states that the nation is at war! The questionnaire says in paragraph 8: "The nation is at war and every registrant is thus put on notice to know his position and duty." How is it possible for the nation to be at war without the people knowing anything about it?

I also note another article from the same paper about hostesses in the army camps. All the women I have talked to about this do not think very highly of this idea. Haven't we women anything to say about such matters at all?

NOT THE REAL DEMOCRATS.

Marion, O., Sept. 11.— Your cartoon by Orr showing the third term New Deal Democrat digging his own grave and the epitaph reading: "Here lies the Democratic party—Buried by Roosevelt dictatorship."

FINDS WILLKIE ADOLESCENT!

Hammond, Ind., Sept. 26.—Referring to your editorial, "The New Willkie," you say, "Mr. Willkie does not employ ghost writers. He rolls his own."

That's good. Every cigaret smoker well knows that if he rolls his own they do not burn readily and are likely to die out in his hand even on a short pause between puffs.

I had a short course of correspondence with Mr. Willkie in January and February, 1938. His letters indicated that he has the mind of an adolescent youth, 'teen age. No one can write for him, no one can tell him anything.

He reminds me of Father in the play by Clarence Day. He declaims against setting class against class and charges President Roosevelt with this crime. Like a high school boy he fails to see that his whole campaign is this very thing, an appeal to class emotion and prejudice.

"JOHN SPEAKS FOR HIMSELF."

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 25.—Your column printed a letter from John Grunau, a past president of lodge 456, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Well, that is exactly what John is—past. He should have underscored it.

John speaks of what the rank and file of railroad men believe in and then enumerates certain of his own ideas as to third terms, dictators, etc. Let it be said that the only rank and file he speaks for consists of himself. The union leaders that the gentleman refers to speak for their membership and are authorized to do so.

PHYSICAL REQUIREMENT.

Gary, Ind., Sept. 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—For our information would you kindly send me a list of the states having the compulsory physical examination and those that have not yet adopted this law? This is to settle an argument and I would appreciate an early reply.

C. N.

The requirement of the health examination has the almost unanimous approval of informed persons. If one of the parties proposes evasion of this salutary requirement, even on plausible grounds of economy or secrecy, it is a basis for suspicion that such party would not pass the examination, and hence is a reason for the other party to talk with a doctor as to the seriousness of the risk.

We are reluctant to assist in a proposed evasion of the Illinois requirement. If you feel that your facts are exceptional, please state them.

To answer your question it would be necessary for us to investigate the statutes of each of the states in the union, involving in many cases the examination of several volumes. It seems probable that the greater part of this labor would be of no service to you, hence we suggest that you write us another letter stating the facts on which we can limit our search.

WILLKIE BRANDS F. D. R. MOCKER OF DEMOCRACY

Accuses Him of Flouting American System.

which the forms are preserved and the substance of the Democratic process is destroyed in exactly the route by which Octavius ended the Roman republic. Do you know there is still a reichstag in Germany and in Italy a parliament, elected by the people? They retain all the forms but the substance is gone.

"I admit that is a much greater degree than we have in this country, but in the western school that I went to I learned that trends in history are pursued until an end is reached unless the trend is changed.

Clings to Democracy.

"Let us assume that this will not lead to a disastrous end at this moment or with this administration. Let us assume that those who come hereafter do pursue this trend to its end. You cannot have your cake and eat it. You must take democracy and the American system and make it work as it is, or you must admit that the democratic system is not the effective system.

"I repudiate that notion that this is not the most pleasant and effective way of life. This system of government, this free economic system, can be made, and will be made—if you bring a new administration into power—can be made both the most pleasant and the most effective way of life."

Willkie referred to the substantial German population of Wisconsin which fled from the tyranny of Europe in 1848, and said it was a proud boast that his own ancestors came to this country for that reason.

SPEAKS AT FREEPORT

Earlier in the evening the special train which brought Willkie here stopped at Freeport, Ill., where the crowds stretched for blocks around the station. Willkie was presented at Freeport by Werner Schroeder, Illinois national committeeman, who reminded the audience that that city was one of the sites of the Lincoln-Douglas debates of 1858.

Willkie at once responded to this by referring to his challenge to debate President Roosevelt in the same fashion and the President's refusal to accept the challenge.

"I am delighted to be in Freeport," said Willkie, "where once occurred one of the great discussions which focused the issues of another critical period in American history. On this ground Lincoln and Douglas were both unafraid to debate the issues of the hour so that the people might determine them.

"I say deliberately and in calmness that this election of 1940 is even more important in determining the course of American history than the elections of 1858 and 1860. This is no time for narrow partisanship or the determination of issues by catch arguments."

Discusses Defense Program.

Willkie explained the general principles under which democracy functions and then illustrated the departure from this by telling of the manner in which the defense program is being handled.

"In the defense program," he said, "every commission in Washington and every board that has studied the question as to the best method of preparing American defense has recommended that it be built under the supervision of an independent board, which would function for the duration of the emergency and then be dissolved. During this time the board must have extraordinary powers.

"The reason for this is that if we give these powers in an emergency to the regular executive, the powers remain. There is a concentration of authority. It gives the government too much power.

Finds Advice Ignored.

"In the present emergency the President has not followed these recommendations. He has appointed the members of his own cabinet and has appointed an advisory committee of industrialists. For several months there has been no chairman. The reason is that without a chairman, every question in the defense program, every contract, has to be put to the chief executive.

"We can't go on this way without a hazard to our rights. This is not theory, an intellectual toy, but a concentration of authority so great that it deters our economic life and may destroy our liberties."

Gov. Julius P. Heil of Wisconsin and a group of Wisconsin party leaders boarded the train at Freeport for the trip to Madison. Among these were Dr. F. L. Gullickson, chairman of the state committee; Edward A. Bacon of Milwaukee and Mrs. Harry A. Thomas of Sheboygan, members of the national committee; State Treasurer John M. Smith; Vernon Thomson, speaker of the lower house; Thomas E. Coleman of Madison and Cyrus L. Phillip of Milwaukee, vice chairman of the state committee, Mayor James R. Law of Madison, and Fred H. Clausen of Horicon, Republican candidate for United States senator.

ADDRESSES IOWANS

Earlier in the day Willkie traveled thru central Iowa on his return to the east. Altho he spoke in six agricultural communities in Iowa, he did not emphasize the farm program which he gave in his Omaha address last night. Instead he attempted to arouse the people to the wider problem which America faces. This, he said, is the loss of liberties thru continuing on the road to bankruptcy, economic collapse, and dictatorship under the New Deal.

Willkie made this the theme of his campaign talks at Fort Dodge, Webster City, and Iowa Falls, Ia. He also spoke at Waterloo, Independence, and Dubuque, Ia.

He emphasized it at Iowa Falls, where he spoke to a crowd of 10,000 in the tree shaded park near the station. A holiday had been declared in the town, and Willkie was escorted up the street by bands and crowds of farmers who had come in from the surrounding counties.

Regards Issues as Fateful.

"People have come out by the tens of thousands, by the hundreds of thousands," he said. "I have seen millions. It gives me almost a feeling of religious dedication to a cause. I feel my inadequacy to tell these people how important and fateful the issues are this fall, to awaken them to a true sense of values.

"Just think—this shaded park, undisturbed by bombs, where the people are engaged in the great democratic process of deciding an election. There is no place else in all the world where this could happen. If the American people this fall do not fully appreciate this election, and continue on the way they are going now, those seeking to be your leaders have failed you utterly.

"We look across the seas and it seems like a great drama. The democracies fall one by one. There is a tendency to think that the reason they were destroyed is because of the great military power of Germany.

"Believe me, that is oversimplifying things. That is not the basic thing that has happened. Democracy has failed because the people were unworthy of democracy. I want to preach about what we have to do to keep this democracy from collapsing. If I can do this I will have served one of the finest purposes of my time.

"We look across the oceans and think that somehow this democracy is protected. I have a greater fear that democracy may fail from within. There is no danger of failing from without."

Veterans' Past Commanders Back Willkie

Dewey Charges Roosevelt Aids Corrupt Political Machines

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Setting the stage for Wendell Willkie's appearance here tomorrow night, district attorney Thomas E. Dewey today charged President Roosevelt had "deliberately given aid, comfort and nourishment to corrupt political machines." He delivered the keynote speech before the Republican state convention.

After a harmonious session in which Congressman Bruce Barton, advertising executive and author, was nominated for United States senator, the G. O. P. convention adjourned until tomorrow night when an immense turnout is expected for the Republican standard bearer's speech. So great was the demand for tickets for Willkie's address that the program was transfered to Empire City race track at Yonkers.

Martin Predicts Victory.

Republican National Chairman Joseph W. Martin, who introduced Dewey, predicted Willkie would sweep the country and a tidal wave of applause spread over the convention. Party leaders declared New York state's big block of 47 electoral votes would be in the Willkie parade on election day.

Dewey, the young rackets prosecutor who once aspired to the Republican Presidential nomination and has since gone to bat on the speaking platform for Willkie, issued an indictment of the President for seven offenses against common honesty.

"Franklin Roosevelt has sought and accepted the support of corrupt political machines in the great cities of America," he asserted. "Where there were no corrupt political machines to carry out his ends, he has deliberately used the power of patronage to foster them.

Says Political Aids Escape.

"As recently as last week he publicly admitted that elections are the essence of a free political system. And yet he has deliberately given aid, comfort, and nourishment to corrupt political machines which laugh at free elections.

"Moral indignation on his part seems exclusively reserved for those who do not carry his banners or give him their votes."

Dewey accused the Roosevelt administration of asking the American people to deliver their government "into the hand of a cynical and arrogant administration which apes those European governments it pretends to oppose."

Says 3d Term Means War.

Representative Barton told shouting delegates he was "unqualifiedly persuaded that the third term means war."

"The third term means that congress loses the power to declare war because the war into which this country may be plunged will not be declared. Incidents will be created by the executive and hostilities begun before there is time for a declaration.

"And may I say, since I wrote these words this morning, I picked up, as many of you did, the afternoon papers, and then discovered that the New Deal foreign policy has scored its final triumph; Japan has been driven into the arms of the Nazis. We are now assured under the third term not merely of a one ocean war but a war in two oceans.

Goal: To Police the World.

"I am unqualifiedly persuaded that the third term means war; that American boys will be sent east and west to police the world, and risk their lives, or lay down their lives, not by hundreds or by thousands, but by hundreds of thousands.

"These are solemn and terrible words. I utter them with considered judgment, and with a full sense of their implications.

"Do you ask for evidence? All you need to show you what will happen in a third term is to see what has happened in the second term. The path ahead can be seen as clearly as you can see the white ribbon of road ahead when you drive your car down a hill."

FLYNN WILL FLY TO SPRINGFIELD FOR CONFERENCE

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 27 (AP).—Edward J. Flynn, Democratic national chairman, will come here Monday for conferences with party leaders from Illinois and other midwestern states, it was announced today.

At the office of Gov. Horner, it was said Flynn would fly here from Detroit to meet the campaign leaders at the executive mansion. National committeemen have been invited from the 13 midwest states in which Senator Scott W. Lucas of Illinois is directing campaign activities from headquarters in Chicago.

The announcement said invitations had been accepted by Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago, the Illinois national committeeman, and the committeemen of Indiana, Wisconsin, Ohio, Iowa, and Kentucky.

It was explained Flynn wanted to survey the progress of the campaign for the national and state tickets in the midwest sector.

After the conferences here, Flynn plans to go to Kansas City, Mo., by plane.

Willkie's Train Pauses Here on Way to New York

Wendell Willkie's train paused briefly in Chicago early this morning on the way to New York. The first stop was at the Union station, where it was switched to the New York Central tracks. Later another stop was made at 47th street and Wallace avenue, where two cars were added. Mr. Willkie was asleep while the stops were made.

County to Protect Jobs of Men Called in Draft

Clayton F. Smith, county board president, announced yesterday that county civil service commission rules have been amended to protect jobs of employes called for duty under the draft. The new rules grant leaves of absence and continuing seniority during the year's duty.

WILLKIE HOLDS HOPE OF YOUTH, ASSERTS BROOKS

Polls Choice Is Fateful, First Voters Told.

Wendell L. Willkie presents the kind of leadership that will give expression and opportunity to the youth of America, Wayland Brooks, Republican nominee for senator, said last night in a radio broadcast. He spoke before a visual audience of several hundred first voters in the La Salle hotel.

"Willkie was nominated by the young leadership of the Republican party," Brooks said. "He was not chosen because he had been a life long Republican. He was chosen because he had been a devoted, life long American, who had proved his willingness to die if need be when a young man, serving as a volunteer in his country's cause because he had proved his ability to produce, and because he had proved his love for the continuance of this kind of government.

Young Backers Cited.

"When I remind you of the men who presented the cause and the name of Willkie to the national convention, you will remember their voices. It was young Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota, young Gov. Ralph Carr of Colorado, and young Gov. Ray Baldwin of Connecticut.

"Each of these young men had been elected in the last two years to the leadership of their states, and they asserted that leadership when they went to the national convention and were joined by young Congressman Charles Halleck of Indiana.

"The Republican party has become the American party for the preservation of the American way of life.

Hails Willkie as Great American.

"In presenting Willkie, they presented a great American of stamina, stature, and character, who will give this nation a national recovery and a national defense so strong that no aggressor nation will ever dare to strike."

Brooks said the youth of the country had a most important decision before it—the choice of two roads.

"One road leads to confusion, bankruptcy, and war, and is strewn with the ghosts of failure," he said. "The ghost of war, the ghost of unpreparedness, the ghost of debt, the ghost of unemployment, the ghost of corrupt political machines, and the ghost of changed government will stalk side by side with the youth of America if they follow the present road.

"There is another road that leads to preparedness, prosperity, and peace. That road is the youth road. Young America wants peace, opportunity, and jobs—not death, destruction, and war."

Face Reflects the Sufferings of Feet Tortured and Aching

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

When you're deciding on which pair of shoes it shall be, the high heeled ones that appear to make your feet look smaller, or the lower heel in which you feel you could walk to Timbuctoo and back again, take both pairs. Keep the pretty ones in the shoe bag for such occasions as require little or no walking about, and wear the others for every practical purpose. This merely in the interest of your face, its charming expression, young younger gait and figure!

We'd suggest, if further argument be necessary, that you have a candid camera friend snap you in that old pair of high heeled trippers and likewise in those college girl shoes which you wore for country hiking. Have him snap only the face, assuming you are wearing each style shoe on different shopping days. If in the comfy shoes you don't look more the jolly companion HE thought he was marrying, or plans to marry, the camera is lying.

We simply cannot understand women these days, plowing along with their toes clutching the front of the shoe, the heel of the foot half out of the shoe behind, and no help for the arch wnatever from the uppity-heeled shoe. They jes' ain't foolin' nobody, and least of all themselves. Women with shoes that are not comfortable walk uncomfortably. They walk badly. Their heads precede them, their derrières follow far behind, their knees are wobbly, and their clothes are belied in the disorderly figure shuffle.

The smaller shoe is attributed to the vanity of the sex, but the woman has no vanity or she certainly never would wear the expression that cries out: "Ye gods, but these shoes are killing me!" However, we won't argue the vanity feature. It's like arguing religion or politics. You get nowhere, but crosser.

Good shoes that can be walked in to the ends of the earth, if need be, are available in stunning styles. And that, my dears, is what daytime shoes are for, to be walked in, to have a good time in, and to look as if your feet belong in them. That's smart foot dressing at the moment, and you're just a behind-the-times silly to take a step outdoors in a pair of "killers" or corn raisers.

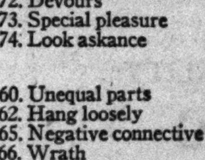
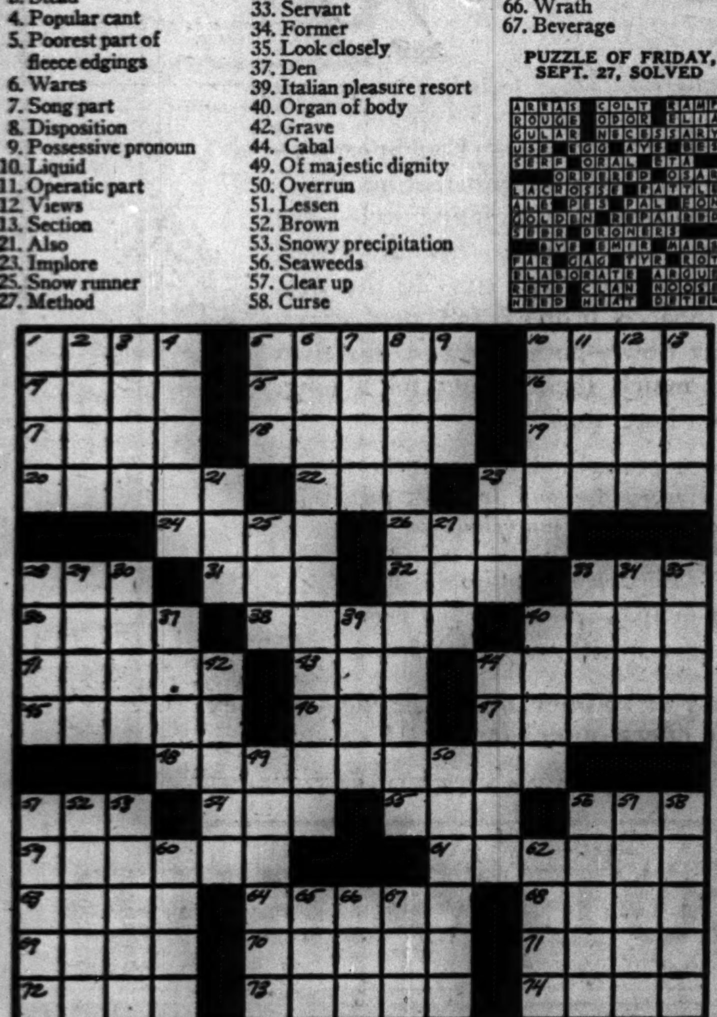
PUZZLE OF FRIDAY, SEPT. 27, SOLVED





Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 27.—"Blondes," whispered my informant, "are hot again. They are coming back into fashion. This will be the third great blonde era. The first was the time of Lillian Russell, the second was when Anita Loos wrote 'Gentlemen Prefer Blondes.'"

Guess who was talking.

Nope. Guess again.

Well, all right, I'll tell you. It was Gene Markey, who checked out of his house and went home to his father when he and the country's No. 1 brunette, Hedy Lamarr, had their bustup. He now thinks blondes are great stuff, but there is nothing personal in it. He once was married to Joan Bennett, blonde; once, in the local chatter phrase, was romantically linked with Gloria Swanson, brunette. More recently the line all over the country was, "What has Markey got that I haven't got? Answer: Hedy Lamarr." But right now all he has got is a movie titled "You're the One," and his views on blondes are strictly those of a Paramount producer with a picture in the making.

"Blondes," he says, "make themselves twice as attractive." In front of a camera. "Light hair gives lightness to a character, and certainly this is the year when that kind of lightness is all to the good. Did you ever stop to think that all the great screen comediennes have been blonde? Lombard, Arthur, Colbert at first—dozens of them. Ginger Rogers drew an awful squawk when she turned up in dark hair in her last picture.

"First thing I did when the production of 'You're the One' came up was to tell Bonnie Baker she'd have to be a blonde in the picture. She was all for it. Tell any girl that she ought to be a blonde and she'll be pleased. Yes, sir, the third era is on its way."

The recently-previewed Deanna Durbin musical, "Spring Parade," had local critics in a collective swoon. It is harmless, very pleasant—and in method and structure on a par with an early Jake Schubert operetta. . . . Universal ordered all employés attending the preview to dress—and the raid on the wardrobe department was historic. . . . Herbert Drake, reformed newspaperman who became Orson Welles' general representative, has turned in his little boat for a 46-foot schooner. . . . Priscilla Lane is hospitalized for adjustment of her sacro-iliac. . . . Friends say that Myrna Loy wouldn't have left Arthur Hornblow Jr. at this time, anyway, he's been so ill.

Bad Man Humphrey Bogart, who has just finished shooting "High Sierra" for Warners, carries a short cop's billy in the seat of his coupe. Its number is 69,999, and Bogey's artist mother, Maud Humphrey, who used to illustrate children's books, got it from a cop on Long Island about 1913. The cop had tagged her for speeding, and those were the days when there weren't any licenses and an officer had to catch up with an offender in order to make the tag. Maud, as she is known to her bad-man son, not only talked the cop out of his billy for protection, she also wheedled him into taking her on an official tour of New York's Chinatown. Bogart has never used his sawed-off truncheon but he likes to have it handy in case he comes home late.

Cheese lovers aren't mourning because they can no longer obtain their favorite imported brands, for American cheese makers have been quick to fill the gaps with American made cheeses of the kinds which formerly were imported.

Some of the "imitations" can't be told from the real thing. And I shouldn't belittle them by calling them imitations, either, for that word often is taken to have a connotation of inferior quality, and these are superior cheeses I'm talking about.

Dutch Edams and Gouda cheeses and Norwegian Noekkelost, a spiced cheese, now are being made by Wisconsin's famous cheese producers. A fine Bel Paese, an Italian cheese, is now made in Pennsylvania. Danish Tilsit comes from New York and French bleu cheese now is "imported" from Minnesota.

Goat's milk cheese, that sweetish brown Norwegian variety called Gjetost, is made domestically, too. It comes from Wisconsin.

All of these may be obtained in at least one Chicago cheese store. And when you call to get them, better take along some fine American cheddar, too. No other country can produce better cheddar; few can match it.

How about a candied apple pie? Serve it warm or cold with whipped cream or ice cream on top, and you'll love it!

Candied Apple Pie.

7 medium apples, sliced
½ cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup sifted flour
Pastry for single crust

Cream butter, sugar and flour together. Fill the pie crust with peeled, sliced apples and cover with the creamed mixture. Bake in a slow oven, 325 degrees, for 50 minutes. Serve warm or cold with whipped cream or ice cream.

If you want hot coffee cake for breakfast it isn't necessary to get up in the middle of the night to start your yeast dough. Here's a quick recipe [quick for a yeast dough] to try on the family tomorrow morning. If you're going to breakfast at 10, you'd better get up at 8 to get it started. This should allow plenty of time for mixing, raising and baking.

Quick Yeast Coffee Cake.

[2 8-inch square cakes.]
2 cakes compressed yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 cup milk
⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening
1 egg
3¼ cups sifted flour
Sugar and cinnamon

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk, add sugar, salt and shortening, and cool to lukewarm. Add egg, 1 cup flour and yeast, and beat thoroly. Add enough more flour to make a stiff batter. Beat for 3 minutes. Pour into 2 greased pans, sprinkle generously with sugar and cinnamon [add nuts and raisins, if you like] and let rise in the pans for an hour. Bake at 375 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes.

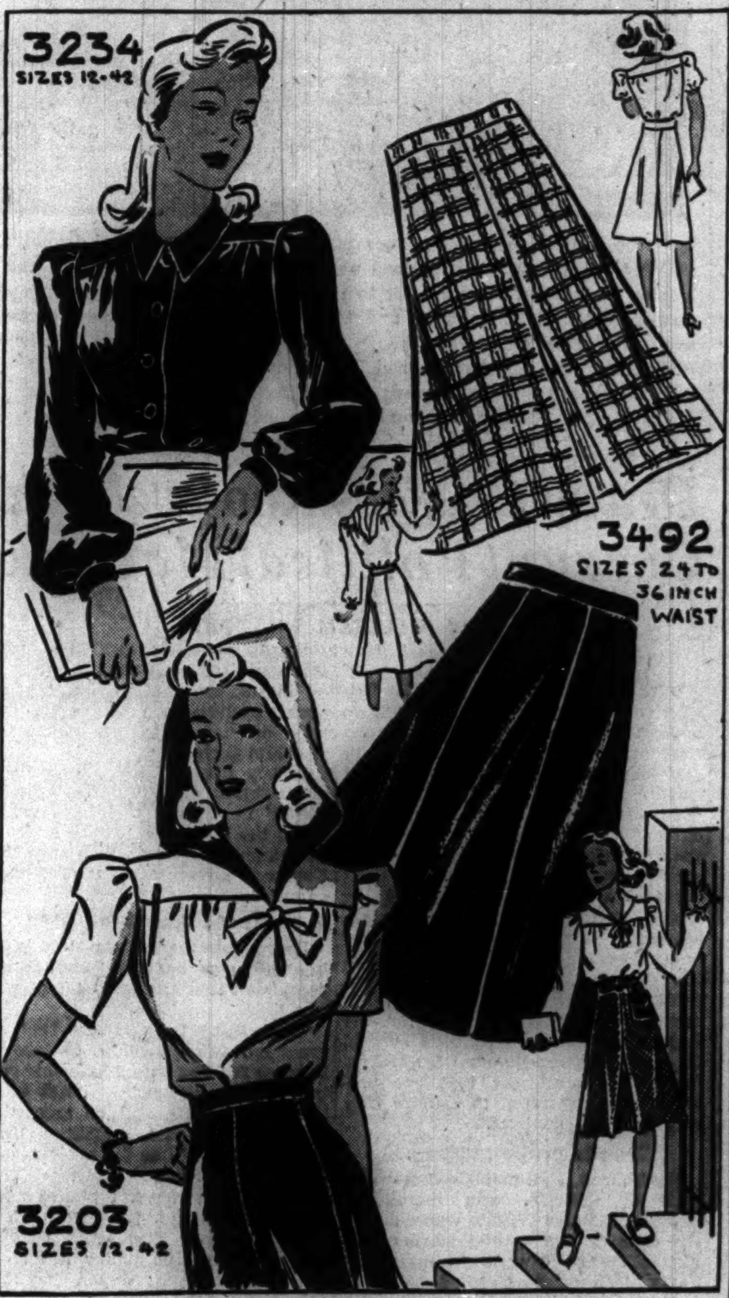
Blouse and Skirt Ideas



WOMAN'S AND MISS' BLOUSES AND SKIRTS.

College and high school girls, young business women, and others of the feminine gender who lead active and busy lives know the value of the blouse and skirt ensemble. Today's three patterns create the wherewithal for such outfits. One blouse is the shirtwaist variety with long, full sleeves. The other is a hooded model with bow at the base of the V neckline and with short sleeves at either extremity of the interesting shoulder yoke.

The skirt pattern creates a garment of superior fit and style. It may be either paneled or plaited, depending upon your preference. Woolen, of course, is the logical fabric selection, either checked or plain.

Style No. 3234 is designed for sizes 12, 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 2½ yards of 39 inch material.

Style No. 3203 is designed for sizes 12, 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 1⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅜ yard of contrasting for hood lining.

Style No. 3492 is designed for 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34 and 36 inch waist measurements. Size 30 requires 2¼ yards of 39 or 1½ yards of 54 inch material for skirt with plait; 1⅞ yards of 39 or 54 inch fabric for gored model.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Six More Leaders Are Appointed to Aid in Community Fund

Six more group leaders who will carry the $3,604,000 community fund drive into Chicago's industries were appointed yesterday by Champ Carry, chairman of the industrial division. So far eleven group leaders have been named.

The new appointees and their groups are George W. Rossetter, accounting; John S. Loomis, bonds; Dale F. Ruedig, drugs and chemicals; A. B. Geiger, graphic arts; William T. Eisendrath, leather, and John R. MacGregor, oils and wall paper.

Quotas will be assigned all the groups at a dinner, to be attended by 2,000 leaders and team captains, in the Stevens hotel Oct. 3. Proceeds of the drive will be distributed among 185 charitable organizations, none of which receives governmental aid.

Girls Likely to Fret Over Excess Weight

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

It was in the beachwear department this last summer, and I was sitting in a big, low chair, resting in the midst of a bout of shopping, and looking about me. The playsuits were so gay and charming any girl would be captivated by them, and look well in them, too. Several young things were buzzing around, choosing bright color combinations, when I heard a young voice exclaim in deep disgust: "Oh, Mother! I couldn't even get into that one."

I turned. There stood a girl of perhaps 12. She towered over her mother. She'd gotten heavy and rather bulky in the way that girls sometimes do at that age, big in the legs, thick in the waist, and what you might call overgrown looking. And the saleswoman was holding up two or three little playsuits, cute enough to make any girl's mouth water.

I glanced away, of course, but not before I had seen the child's face. "I hope she doesn't feel too badly," I thought. "I wish I could tell her that lots of girls go thru this stage, and that the best thing for her to do is to ignore it."

I thought: "I wish I could tell her that in a very few years her figure will take on charming curves, her waist slim down, and those pillarlike little girl legs will become trim and slender and full in the right places."

Three or four years ago several girls I know were what you might still call little girls, but big and bouncing and a trifle clumsy physically, and "kidded" about it by the boys they knew. Now they all have graceful, lovely figures.

Some 12 year olds who develop like this early are unperturbed by it. They're still at the carefree age when boys don't exist. If yours is like that, good for her. Try to keep her so.

But others are the kind who, at 11, or 12, or 13, fret about their figures, if they grow big and heavy in this way. Their mothers should tell them the fact I've mentioned, that they will get over it, and also they should handle them tactfully, not let any one in the family show amusement at their appearance, or make fun of them, and try to keep them as free as possible from self-consciousness.

Of course, any abnormal overweight should receive a doctor's attention.

Fritz Reiner, Conductor, Engaged by Chicago Opera

Fritz Reiner, noted Hungarian conductor, has been engaged for the 1940 season of the Chicago Opera company, it was announced yesterday. His first appearance will be as conductor of Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier."

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

From the notebook:

According to a makeup specialist who was in town last week one of the worst mouth-makeup tricks we women have is the old, popular one of rouging the lower lip by pressing the well-lipsticked upper lip down on it. We can remember when the experts advised this! But the new technique of lip rouging—and it is a good one—does call for careful shaping, which is impossible of course when you spread rouge in the old way. The specialist says, too, that lipstick shouldn't always be drawn across the lips in a vertical line. Press it in first, then smooth it. This is excellent advice. By pressing the rouge in it gets into every crevice and it won't come off so quickly.

The same specialist spoke also of one of our pet peeves. You know how most women use an eyebrow pencil? One hard stroke across the brow from inner eye corner to the temple is the usual technique. The trouble with this is that horizontal line fools nobody. We've always suggested that women apply pencil in short vertical strokes from one end of the brow to the other so that pencil strokes and hair would be parallel. The makeup expert has a better idea: He suggests blending your pencil with a little cream and then brushing the dark paste on. It looks beautifully natural, doing away completely with that harsh, obvious line the wrong pencil technique invariably produces.

It's interesting and significant that all makeup methods nowadays are aimed at producing the effect of naturalness.

Betrothal of Miss Stenson Is Announced

BY JUDITH CASS.

"MR. and Mrs. William J. Stenson announce the engagement of their daughter, Katherine, to D. Gregg Cummings, son of Mrs. John Cummings," is this morning's interesting romantic news. The wedding is planned for the latter part of October and will take place in the chapel of the Holy Name cathedral with of Holy Name cathedral with only the families and relatives present.

Miss Stenson, eldest of three daughters, was educated at the Girls' Latin school and at the Convent of the Sacred Heart at Noroton-on-the-Sound, Conn. She made her debut two years ago. Miss Elizabeth Stenson came out last year, and Miss Jeanne Stenson, the youngest daughter, is a bud of the current season. She is to have a dinner or a supper-dance on Dec. 21.

Mr. Cummings attended the Boys' Latin, the Choate, and the Canterbury schools and the University of Virginia. He is engaged in business in Chicago. The Stensons have one son, William Jr.

Miss Virginia French's Engagement Announced.

At a small dinner party at the Glen View club last night Mrs. Bayless W. French of Evanston, announced the engagement of her daughter, Virginia, to Lawrence Barrus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Franklin Barrus of London, England. Miss French, a graduate of Wells college in Aurora, N. Y., recently won the woman's golf championship at Glen View and is a provisional member of the Evanston Junior league. Her fiancé, a native of Athol, Mass., was graduated from Kings college in London and is in business in Chicago. The wedding is planned for the Christmas holidays.

At a tea on Thursday for their cousin, Miss Eugenie Bradshaw of Newton, Mass., formerly of Evanston, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Lingle of Evanston announced the engagement of their daughter, Betty, to Richard K. West, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. West, also of Evanston. Miss Lingle attended the Roycemore school and Connecticut college for Women. Mr. West attended Purdue university and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Jay Clark of Ladysmith, Wis., announce the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor Grace, to Joseph Henry Allen Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen of Evanston. Miss Clark attended Lawrence college and was graduated from the National College of Education. Mr. Allen is a graduate of Kenyon college and is engaged in business in Chicago.

Season's Benefit Series Gets Under Way Tonight.

The fall season of benefit parties will get under way tonight with a "Come as a Song" dinner-dance the members of the board of the North Avenue Day nursery are giving at the Racquet club. Red, white, and blue balloons covering the ceiling will be the only decorations. The costumes of the 300 expected guests will contribute much to the gaiety. "Come as Old Timers if you like, such as Daisy and Me on a Bike, or, if your taste is modern and hot, you surely can pick one from a lot," were suggestions on the rhymed invitations, written by Mrs. John I. Marshall Jr. and her mother, Mrs. Benjamin

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Debutante Priscilla Armstrong in a gold lame and deep red velvet evening gown was one of the most stunning mannequins at the Northwestern University settlement benefit fashion show yesterday. Red velvet bows decorated her hair, some of them on stilts that held them high in the air. The show was given in the New Trier High school auditorium.

Illinae Club Tea.

The Chicago Illinae club will give its annual fall tea this afternoon at Mrs. George Frazer's home, 435 Sheridan road, Winnetka. Graduates of 1940 will be special guests.

Hayne Ellis Jr. and Peoria Girl to Wed Today

Among the many weddings of interest today are two that are taking place out of town. Hayne Ellis Jr., son of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Ellis of Virginia Beach, Va., formerly of Lake Bluff, is in Peoria to claim as his bride Miss Emily Powers Franks, daughter of Mrs. Emily Franks of Peoria. In Delavan, Wis., Miss Suzette Crawford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell N. Crawford of Chicago and Delavan Lake, will be married to Norman L. Cavedo of Richmond, Va.

The Ellis-Franks ceremony is to take place at 4 o'clock before an improvised altar on the lawn of the Grand View drive home of Mrs. Carl Block, high on a bluff above the Illinois river. The Rev. Dr. Arthur Frederick Ewert will read the service. John Morrow Jr., of Chicago will give his niece in marriage.

Miss Kathryn Franks will be her sister's maid of honor. The bridesmaids are Mrs. Robert Wallace of Evanston and Miss Joan Tureman and Miss Lucia Ellis of Kansas City.

Robert Ellis of Kansas City will be his brother's best man. Another brother, Long Ellis of Boston; Gerald Phipps of Denver, and Carl Block of Peoria will usher. Mr. Ellis and his bride will be at home in Coffeyville, Kas., for a year and then will move to Kansas City.

There are many Chicagoans among the 300 guests who have been invited to the marriage of Miss Crawford and Mr. Cavedo this morning in St. Andrew's church. A reception will follow at the Lake Geneva Country club. The bride will wear her mother's lace wedding veil, but instead of wearing her grandmother's. Mrs. John G. Garibaldi's, pearls, she will wear a string that is the gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Crawford will have six attendants. Her brother, Mr. Crawford Jr., will be best man. After a wedding trip to Canada, Mr. Cavedo and his bride will be at home in Richmond.

Miss Patricia Warfield will be given in marriage by her brother, Robert Graves Warfield Jr., when she becomes the bride of Robert William Wasem at 8:30 o'clock tonight in Bond chapel at the University of Chicago. The Rev. Alfred Lee Wilson will officiate. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Robert G. Warfield.

Attending the bride will be Miss Blanche Graver as maid of honor; Miss Jean Wasem, the bridegroom's sister; Miss Jayne Rittenhouse, and Miss Hildegarde Warfield, a cousin of the bride. Richard Wasem will be his brother's best man. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Wasem of Fort Dodge, Ia. Mr. Wasem and his bride will reside on the south side.

A coronet fashioned of lace from her mother's wedding gown will hold Miss Frances Olmsted's tulle veil in place tonight when she becomes the bride of John B. Lanigan, son of Mrs. John Lanigan of Evanston. The ceremony will be performed at 8:30 o'clock by the Rev. Richard Bermingham at the Glen View club, where the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Olmsted, also of Evanston, will give a reception.

Mrs. John R. Boston will be her sister's matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Mrs. Robert E. English, Mrs. Davis C. Kirby, Mrs. John Patterson, and Mrs. Richard Pietsch. Ann Penny, a niece of the bridegroom, will be flower girl.

Walter Speer will be best man.

German Espionage.

A little tale that illustrates the efficiency of the German espionage system was told by Dorothy Tuckerman Draper over a cocktail in the rhododendron-chintz adorned bar of Camellia House at the Drake. She recently had talked with her friend, Lady Mendl. Lady Mendl told her that when she and her husband left France they stopped at Biarritz, and when the duke and duchess of Windsor arrived there on their way to Lisbon they dined with the Mendls. While they were having dinner the radio was turned on and the voice of Lord Haw Haw came over the air.

"You may laugh at the German espionage system," he said (and who ever laughed at it?), but to prove its competence let me tell you that at this moment the duke and duchess of Windsor are in the Blank hotel in Biarritz, dining in room blank with Sir Charles and Lady Mendl." He gave the correct name of the hotel, the correct apartment number.

New Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Norris have given a new hospital to the town of St. Charles, a colonial building of pink brick with white columns, set in an apple orchard. There are a number of cheerful innovations in its interior decoration. Hunting prints adorn the hall that leads to the operating room. Some of the bathrooms have walls adorned with stenciled red apples, a keep-the-doctor-away note, and others have music scales with notes that read "Happiness and Health." The maternity ward is called the nursery, and the bassinets are covered with pink and blue dotted Swiss—pink for girls, blue for boys. The motto of the place, originally Relief for the Suffering, has been changed, on the advice of the decorator, to Happiness and Health.

Cuff Notes.

When Igor Gorin, Russian baritone, received his final citizenship papers about a month ago, he was so impressed with the pledge of allegiance to the flag that he had it set to music by Composer Albert Hay Malotte and recorded it, with Malotte playing the piano accompaniment. . . . Dr. Gard A. Pockett is a tenant of the Mallers building. . . . When the teacher asked the small nephew of Maurice Lazare to name three well known present day American characters he promptly replied, "The three Marx brothers." . . . The late Henry Justin Smith's It's the Way It's Written, published by Louis Mariano, price 25 cents, is fine supplementary reading for journalism students. . . . Heard on the Smile Awhile program, "I'll Never Smile Again." . . . Underslung pipe and undershot jaw note: Gen. Charles Gates Dawes will emerge from his self-imposed retirement on Oct. 9 to introduce Gen. Hugh S. Johnson to an audience in the new Evanston town hall.

Raymond Massey was so eager to appear as the voice of the University of Chicago in the Human Adventure broadcast this evening, after he had seen the script, that he is doing it for nothing. Massey had to be in Toronto Friday and today, and two immigration officials are flying back with him today to be sure there is no delay about his admittance. Massey will relate the history of the university in the first 50 years of its existence.

Oats Notes.

The last part of the quotation from the late Jacob Falstaff's Jacoby's Corners, "A man may live by wheat, but oats is for the bigger bones, the stronger thews of horses," brought in a note from James Matheson about Dr. Samuel Johnson and oats. Dr. Johnson, who never missed an opportunity to speak disparagingly of Scotland or Scotsmen, said slightingly upon his return from that country: "In England we feed oats to horses, and in Scotland they feed it to men." A Scotsman's retort: "And where will you find such horses or such men?"

Good Morning!

Gary Cooper gets top billing in this movie but doggone if I don't think Walter Brennan's the star! Anyhow he's just all over the film and HOW!

"The meanest cuss that ever lived—" Mr. Brennan said with relish as we watched the piece unreel. [O, I didn't tell you, did I, that Mr. and Mrs. Brennan came over to the projection room to see the picture and I sat right next to him . . .?]

No, he doesn't look funny. He's a nice, pleasant, clean cut, clean shaven chap a lot younger than you'd take him to be from the parts he plays. And easy to know! So's Mrs. Brennan—a dark gracious woman with a warm smile and handclasp.

"We were childhood sweethearts," Walter told me as the lights went out. . . . "Saw her when we were four and haven't been able to see another woman since. . . ."

The Brennans live on a ranch in the San Diego valley—only they don't call it a ranch. It's "just home."

Well, I guess I'm supposed to write about this movie. . . .

It's a darb! A "western" that's different from any "western" you ever saw. It was filmed in Arizona

Universal Day—If you have any ideas on how to make the home more attractive and cheerful, put them in practice.

October—Those in a six year may feel that they have had more than their share to carry this year, or they may feel that they have responsibility enough now, but this month may bring them sober thought. Take heed, because it is the forerunner of your year ahead, indicating that you have a great deal of working out of problems in the months ahead. Store up spiritual power this month.

Year Ahead—Those born on this date should heed the advice given above, and need to be especially resigned, since those born on the 28th are headstrong and hate taking orders.

Here's a Grand Western and It's Different

—locale's Texas—and sings of the days following the civil war when there's a new war on between cattlemen and homesteaders. . . . The former, accustomed to having their herds roam at will, object to the fences the latter erect for the protection of their property. . . . Friend of the cattlemen, judge of the community by his own ruling, saloon keeper and general all around boss and Old Harry is Judge Roy Bean who holds outdoor court in Vinegaroon. He is a bearded, unkempt, foxy-eyed individual and the only law west of the Pecos. . . .

Just one vulnerable spot has the judge. His obsession about Lily Langtry with whose picture he has fallen in love. Likenesses of "the Jersey Lily" paper every wall and a stranger who innocently admits that he had once been in London but hadn't taken time to see Miss Langtry, who was playing there at the time, lands outside the saloon on his puzzled bean. . . .

Where does Gary Cooper come in? As an alleged horse thief, brought before the judge by one of the latter's cohorts, for sentence.

Things would have gone hard with our wandering soldier of fortune, Cole Harden, had he not been a quick witted yahoo, and caught on to the Langtry complex. . . . His shrewd playing up to same results as—the picture shall show you. . . . The scenes with which "The Westerner" SHOULD have ended—as both Mr. Brennan and I agreed—are tremendously moving, exciting, and I believe highly original. Certainly I've not seen their like before.

Mr. Cooper makes a fine running mate for Mr. Brennan. He uses his brain, brawn, and s. a., to the greatest possible advantage. There's not much love making in the film but such as is he handles well. Miss Davenport as a settler's daughter and the object of his affections is sweet, pretty, and earnest and that's about all. Other players fit.

See you tomorrow.

The Borrowed Cottage

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright: 1940: By Alice Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

Rowan Wilde, a young American girl, goes down to the insolated cottage of Hazel Fordyce, in England, to do some studying. Arriving at night she enters the house and is frightened by footsteps. Investigating, she opens a closet door and a dead man falls out, whose throat has been cut and whose body is still warm. She rushes out of the house and runs into Stephen Smedley, a man about 32 years old. While she is telling him of her discovery, a man on a motorcycle passes, whom she feels sure is the vicar, the Rev. Bogge, who lives next door. Rowan's suspicions of Stephen mount when he goes off to get his car and fails to return. She starts out in search of him and stumbles upon him prostrate. She arouses him and in a kind of a stupor he follows her back to the cottage and collapses on the sofa. Deciding to rest before going for help she falls asleep in her bedroom and is awakened by Stephen entering her door holding a huge butcher knife. A sharp command from her makes him drop the knife and retreat. She locks him downstairs and finding a briefcase she takes it to her room. It contains a sealed letter and a manuscript about Russia. In the morning Stephen apparently remembers nothing about the knife episode and she seems no longer terrified of him. Smedley advises her to get rid of the skirt she has on as it has blood on it and it might be incriminating. Mrs. Faithful, the housekeeper, fails to show up for breakfast and in her stead has sent Mrs. Yalilee, mother of Egbert, the caretaker, to get Rowan's breakfast. Rowan looks for the dead man and finds he has disappeared. She hides her bloody skirt and gun in the briefcase, just as Rev. Bogge and Lord Romrytch arrive at her cottage, saying they are searching for Bertram Bogge, the reverend's brother, who has been allowed to study in the cottage.

INSTALMENT XII.

HOUSEHOLD GOSSIP.

Rowan felt her eyes drawn to the windows in line with the two men. The shadow darkening the panes glided away like a snake, but for an instant she had spied the livid complexion and sloe eyes of Sarah Yalilee—Egbert's mother.

"By the way, Bogge," murmured Lord Romrytch, "who put you on to the fact that your brother had been using this room?"

"My housemaid," answered the vicar tersely.

"Your——? Oho! the girl who——?"

"Quite. She is affianced to young Yalilee, whom the Fordyces employ to give an eye to these premises."

"Yalilee? Yalilee? Now where have I heard——"

"He is one of your gardeners." The vicar glanced at the mahogany bookcases, which had drawers below the glazed shelves, and ran his tongue over dry lips.

"Is that a fact? Daresay I've seen him. So he's the fellow who got friendly with your brother and then . . . Sorry, padre! I expect the slut asked for it."

Stiffly the vicar said, "Doris Fairweather is an extremely respectable young person, otherwise I should not have retained her in my service."

Rowan faked interest in the books. The voices had been consciously lowered, but she was burning to hear more. She got out a volume of T. S. Eliot's poems, and the next second could have kicked herself. Ought she to touch anything in this room? Instantly she realized she could not only with impunity leave what prints she liked but would do well to leave them. There was no dating a finger print. She could swear with no fear of disproof that all her marks had been made now, in the presence of witnesses.

Lord Romrytch mumbled that he had got the story from his wife. "Her maid had it from the butler, who, I fancy, has been slipping along to your brother's pub. Nasty job for you padre. Here! Was it Yalilee I saw swing the hammer yesterday at Lydort? Rang the bell every damned time. Handsome brute. I thought his face seemed familiar."

"What time was this?" demanded the vicar harshly.

"What time? Oh, so that's it . . . Early in the afternoon. I'd made my speech, taken a shy at the cockernuts, and was just trying to drag Lady Romrytch and her girl friends out of the rifle range. I stood admiring this chap's biceps. The gang was shouting, 'Good egg,' all pretty well sozzled, but——"

"Egbert. His name is Egbert Yalilee. He was there when you came away?"

"Lord, padre, why ask me? My secretary was hauling at my elbow. Some papers wanting my signature had come down by 'plane and——"

"There's a 'bus for Lyme Regis at four."

Lord Romrytch looked serious. "Tut, Bogge, you can't take that episode to heart? See here, if this blighter meant trouble would he have gone on letting your brother have this room?" "For that matter," urged Lord Romrytch, "why any stew at all? Not turning up for one night—— "

"He has not left by train. There's no car to be hired—or borrowed. His luggage is still in his room." You tell me you didn't see him when he presented his letter of introduction?"

"I wasn't in. When was it? Friday—or Saturday. Forbes explained I wasn't keen on—no offense, eh? You know how pestered I am with strangers and appeals. Forbes draws double salary for building a barbed wire entanglement round me when I'm trying to rest. I don't suppose you know what your brother wanted?"

The vicar drew his hand across his brow. "No, no! He merely mentioned that now you'd come down he might take the opportunity of getting your advice on some matter. Bertram didn't discuss his rather high flown interests with me, possibly because I didn't encourage him."

He was using the past tense. Rowan wondered if Lord Romrytch noticed it. Mr. Bogge hurried on.

"It was my sole excuse for troubling you, Romrytch. Please accept my apologies, and don't let me keep you any longer. I—not the least use your remaining, but I—I think on the whole I should like to prolong my examination of these documents. They may furnish some clue."

"Ha, ha, padre, your old weakness for detection!"

Lord Romrytch again stood aside for Rowan to precede him, and again the vicar forgot his manners by thrusting in front. On the sunlit terrace the two men lingered, awkwardly meditative, while Rowan hovered behind, uncertain of her duties as hostess, but determined to miss nothing of what was said.

"Seriously, Bogge," soothed Lord Romrytch. "I don't see you've anything to get worked up about. Your brother took a ramble, the rain held him up, and rather than risk a chill he put at some other pub."

"Bertram never walked if he could avoid it. He suffered from flat feet."

"Oh? Well, I can think of a dozen good explanations. Damn it, man, it's only eleven! If he was hale and hearty, had nothing to bother him——?"

The impulse to blurt out the truth was all at once overwhelmingly strong. The words all but leapt from Rowan's mouth, but a slight rustle behind her checked them. Briskly, with ostentation, Mrs. Yalilee was slipping downstairs with a hot water bottle.

The next sentence of Mr. Bogge's brought her heart into her gullet.

"Miss—Wilde, was it—yes, yes! I happened late yesterday afternoon to see you talking with a young man named Smedley, just in the entrance to this drive. Previously known to you, I presume?"

Rowan choked. The hum of the thousand small bees revolving in and about the coral studded Cotoneaster seemed to have transferred itself to her head. Without conscious volition she heard her voice saying:

"An acquaintance, yes. I met him in London. I didn't know he was here."

A pause, during which the vicar's muddy eyes and Lord Romrytch's pale, sharp ones dwelt searchingly on her face. Cyprian Bogge's features lengthened with sour disapprobation.

"In London." The tone was cold. "Before or after his illness?"

"Has he been ill? I didn't know that either. I'd had only a minute's talk with him at a sherry party."

"Smedley?" Romrytch cocked an interrogatory eye. "Who's he, Bogge? Some local resident?"

The vicar shook his head. "Stephen Smedley. Supposed to be rusticating here for his health. A junior—one may say very junior—partner in a publishing firm. Esmond Batts, you know. He has been foolhardy enough to install himself in the old derelict Congregational chapel down here in the hollow. I met him only thru the fact of my brother's starting an argument with him in the Dorset Arms and prevailing on me to invite him to dinner. "The young man holds definitely subversive views, and he's a nerve case. My housekeeper was most annoyed when he snapped the stem of one of my old port glasses in his hand."

Elimination and throw-in plays, like other coups in bridge, can range from very simple varieties up to rather complex ones. Today's hand illustrates the latter type. The throw-in play was not remarkable but the preliminary stripping had to be carefully calculated.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 spade	2 clubs
2 spades	3 clubs	3 diamonds	Pass
4 clubs	Pass	5 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

North's bidding was distinctly unconservative and South cannot be blamed for reaching a contract that required more than a little luck, as well as plenty of skill, for fulfilment. It was only North's possession of the club ace that gave him a free raise on the first round. Hence, it was "gilding the lily" for him to cue-bid clubs in response to South's three diamond bid. Such a cue bid does more than announce first round control of the mentioned suit; it also implies considerable other strength. Obviously, this was lacking from North's hand.

West opened the club king. When the dummy was laid down, South saw that he would have to be both lucky and careful to avoid the loss of at least three tricks.

Since dummy's entries were limited, declarer did not make the error of wasting the club ace entry; he immediately took a diamond finesse to the ten spot. West won with the jack, and sensing the danger of a club continuation, shifted to a spade. Declarer won and drew the adverse trumps, ending in the dummy. A second diamond finesse against the king was successful, and declarer played out all of his diamonds, discarding a heart from dummy on the fourth round. Now, with clubs and diamonds stripped from the North-South hands, the ace and a low heart were led.

On the second round, the opponents were helpless to avert disaster. West could not go up with his king, because to do so would drop his partner's queen. And East, on lead with the heart queen, had no choice but to return a club. Declarer discarded his losing heart while dummy ruffed.

Women of 70 to Hold Beauty Contest Today

A beauty contest for women of 70 and over will be a feature of the first meeting of the National Golden Wedding Band today at the Stevens hotel. This organization of couples married 50 years or more recently was formed by Mrs. Wilbur Glenn Voliva of Zion, Ill. Among its objectives is the encouragement of elderly men and women to remain fit and attractive and to develop hobbies. Judge Joseph Sabath of the Superior court, who celebrated his golden wedding anniversary several weeks ago, will be among the speakers at the meeting.

New Citizen to Sing Pledge to Flag on W-G-N

Igor Gorin, Viennese concert baritone, sang twice in the W-G-N Theater of the Air series last spring, then went to California and obtained final papers making him an American citizen. Therein lies the story of his return tomorrow night to W-G-N, where he will be heard on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour from 9 to 10 o'clock.

Gorin's appearance was announced yesterday by William A. Bacher, chief of programs and production at W-G-N. The noted baritone will sing the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. The musical expression of the pledge is by Albert Hay Melotte. Tomorrow night will mark its world radio première.

Under Bacher's direction the setting of the courtroom in which Gorin became a citizen will be reproduced for radio listeners. Bret Morrison will take the part of the judge. The oath of citizenship will be repeated. Then, as the flag is revealed to the studio audience, Gorin and the W-G-N chorus, directed by Robert Trendler, will sing the pledge of allegiance as set to music.

Gorin, passing thru Chicago, attended W-G-N's In Chicago Tonight program Thursday evening. The patriotic finale moved him to recall his own thrill at achieving American citizenship. The music for the pledge of allegiance was written especially for Gorin by Melotte, who is a former Chicago organist famous as a composer of sacred songs. Melotte set the Lord's Prayer and Twenty-third Psalm to music.

Gorin also will sing the "Largo al Factotum" from Rossini's "Barber of Seville," a number in which he is ranked as second to none by concertgoers.

Miss Marion Claire, operatic soprano, will present three solos on the Symphonic hour tomorrow night. The speaker of the evening will be Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE. Henry Weber and the W-G-N Symphony orchestra will supply music for the broadcast, which will be heard over the Mutual system and the network of the Canadian Broadcasting corporation.

C., to preside. Father Magner was recently appointed to the administrative staff of the Catholic University of America in Washington, but he intends to be present at the forum thru-out the season. The speaker on Oct. 13 will be Stuart Chase, economist and author of "The Tyranny of Words."

TIGERS BEAT INDIANS, 2-0; WIN 6TH PENNANT

MINNESOTA BATTLES WASHINGTON; PITT AT OHIO STATE

GOPHER HOPES ARE CARRIED BY RUNNING ATTACK

Western Team Has Versatile Offense.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 27.—The University of Washington football eleven was ready tonight for its third attempt to whip Minnesota, perennial challenger for national honors. Twice before, in 1936 and again in 1938, fine Husky teams stumbled over the Gophers in this September interconference scrap.

George Franck.

Forty thousand are expected to sit in on tomorrow's battle in Memorial stadium, which will start at 3 o'clock Chicago time.

After a brief drill this afternoon, Washington's young men, including Chicago's Rudy Mucha, highly touted center, returned to the suburban Lafayette club.

Gophers Quit City, Too.

Copying a page from Coach Jimmy Phelan's book, Bernie Bierman of Minnesota today picked 36 players to spend the evening in nearby Bayport.

Washington will present a veteran lineup. The Huskies, of course, merely serve Minnesotans as a standard to judge the strength of the Gophers. Minnesota will depend largely on fellows who were on last year's squad with the exception of left tackle. The Gophers were an enigma to its coaches and friends last fall.

A technical diagnosis of Minnesota by one of the staff indicates that the Gophers are paced by their ends. When Minnesota had good end play last year, this coach said, Minnesota won. Co-Captain Bill Johnson and Bob Fritch will start at ends for Minnesota, but sometime during the fray Sophomore Leo Van Sistine will have his opportunity. Sophomore Dick Wildung will start at left tackle, where he is expected to give the best performance of any Minnesota lineman since the days of Ed Widseth.

Half Backs Can Go.

There may be a lack of speed at the ends, but certainly Bruce Smith and George Franck, starting half backs, have no peers in the Western conference. Tom Harmon of Michigan or Don Scott of Ohio State may overshadow one individually, but together Smith and Franck present a great threat.

Franck's importance in the Minnesota scheme is enhanced by his duties as field general. He will call signals from his half back post, as did Harold Van Every last year, except when John Bartelt is in the game.

Minnesota can match Washington's kicking, unless Dean McAdams gives an exceptional exhibition, but Minnesota probably cannot match Washington's passing.

If the Huskies win, passing possibly will turn the trick. Michigan is the only team that has marched more than 60 yards consecutively against a Minnesota line in the last eight years.

JOE M'CARTHY IS SPORTSMAN AS HIS YANKS FADE

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 27 [Special].—"Well, we can't win 'em all," was Manager Joe McCarthy's reaction to his Yankees' failure to capture their fifth straight American league pennant. Joe accepted the defeat by the Athletics today, which eliminated the Yanks from the race, with a sportsman's grace, but to his players the loss was a shock.

While they lay or leaned around the dressing room, seemingly unwilling to accept their fate, Coach Earle Combs inquired eagerly about the Detroit-Cleveland game. Then he remarked: "Who's Giebell? If Vitt pitched him, he'd be hanged."

When one of the players asked McCarthy about the cash difference between second and third money, Joe replied: "I dunno. I never bothered to figure it out."

Lonnie Frey Hurts Foot, but Will Play in Series

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 27 (AP).—Lonnie Frey of the Cincinnati Reds was injured today when a water cooler lid fell on his foot, but Dr. Reed Shank, club physician, said he believed the second baseman would be able to play in the world series next week. Examination showed a bone in Frey's foot was cracked, Dr. Shank said, but he did not regard the injury as serious.

Headley Named Trainer by John Hay Whitney

New York, Sept. 27 (AP).—Duval Headley of Lexington, Ky., today was named trainer of John Hay Whitney's horses, succeeding James W. [Big Jim] Healy.

PITT SEEKS TO KEEP ITS EDGE IN SERIES WITH OHIO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Sept. 27.—Ohio State and Pittsburgh, two football teams revealed by extant statistics as the opening game champions of the world, will touch off their 1940 campaigns tomorrow afternoon before an anticipated house of approximately 50,000. Pitt, which has won two games and tied in a third in the four game series, seeks to keep its edge.

The initial game theory is well founded. Take the Buckeyes, for instance. Back there in 1894 in the days of the noseguard and the mustache, Ohio State yielded a 12 to 6 argument to Buchtel, now Akron university. That was the last time a local eleven was trimmed in its first start. Pittsburgh hasn't quite the same record, going back a mere 36 years against the Buckeyes' 46. The last opening game the Panthers gave up was a 27 to 0 licking by Penn State in 1904.

Buckeyes Well Armed.

The Ohios, as per custom, are well armed. Seldom does a Buckeye squad open without a plethora of ammunition, and this year's squad is ably equipped to defend the Western conference championship it won last year—in spite of a final defeat by Michigan's Wolverines. For instance, the home club outweighs its foes of the morrow by 12 pounds in the line and by nine in the back field.

In spite of this preponderance of avoirdupois, Coach Francis Schmidt feels that the poundage does not affect the celerity of his young men. The only gent whose absence he regrets is that of Jimmy Strausbaugh, who sprang a sprained ankle in an intrasquad game a week ago today, and who last year averaged 7.4 yards in his forward progress.

Mr. Bowser Won't Talk.

The Panthers, not as sleek looking as in the talent-loaded days of Jock Sutherland, nevertheless appeared to be in a mood to prolong their one game winning streak over the Buckeyes. They landed, 35 strong, this afternoon in charge of Charley Bowser, the young man who is directing Pitt thru the second year of its purification. Mr. Bowser was in a reticent mood, including any definite sentiment as to whether Special Delivery Edgar Jones, Pitt's versatile left half who is supposed to do everything but flash his own touchdowns on the scoreboard, would start.

Strausbaugh's place will be taken by Dick Fisher, a young man of parts, who is streamlined to the Strausbaugh specifications. There was also a deal of conversation among the knowing this afternoon about a sophomore named Paul Sweeney, out of Cleveland, reputedly one of the fastest ball carriers to come to the Buckeye campus in years.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

THIS department has a high regard for Alva Bradley, owner of the Cleveland American league baseball team. . . . We have no quarrel with the manager of his club, Oscar Vitt, or the members of the squad. . . . Nevertheless, we are happy that they lost the league championship to the Detroit Tigers. . . . The unsportsmanlike conduct of the huge crowd in Cleveland's Municipal stadium was convincing evidence that followers of the Indians do no deserve a world series. . . . Seldom have sports filberts demanded such ghoulish outlet for their emotional hysteria as prevailed yesterday when fruit throwing and bottle tossing not only interfered with the Tigers' play but endangered the life of at least one member of the team. . . . That's not home town enthusiasm. . . . It's rowdyism at its worst and has no place in a major league baseball park. . . .

Pittsburgh's invasion of Columbus this afternoon is a serious threat to Ohio State's unique football record. . . . The Buckeyes have not lost an opening game since 1894. . . . The first person who enters the stadium will be the 2,186,103d to see Ohio State play since Francis Schmidt became head football coach in 1934. . . . Barney McCosky of the Tigers is studying plans for a home he intends to build for his parents in Detroit. . . . This department doesn't wish to terrorize the National Football league, but Don Hutson, Green Bay's brilliant forward pass receiver, has twin brothers who are members of this year's freshman squad at Alabama. . . . Marvin [Bud] Ward, who recently lost his National Amateur golf championship at Mamaroneck, N. Y., may retire from the game to accept a position with a nationally known plumbing firm which specializes in glamour bath tubs. . . . The Washington Redskins made such a hit with fans in the northwest during their training period at Spokane, Wash., that Seattle is trying to induce another National league team to use that city as a conditioning base. . . . Three of the strongest college elevens in the land, according to early season ratings, are Washington in the Pacific Coast conference, Nebraska in the Big Six, and Ohio State in the Big Nine. . . . Minnesota plays all three. . . . If the Gophers go thru their schedule undefeated, there will be no team in the land with a stronger claim to national honors. . . . Harry Rice, former Washington and St. Louis Browns outfielder, who managed Fond du Lac to second place in the Wisconsin State league this year, has opened the city's largest filling station on Route 41 in the heart of the business district. . . . Connie Mack at the beginning of the season predicted that the Yankees would finish in third place. . . . That's exactly where they are now.

The Chicago Bears do their daily limbering up calisthenics to the tune of "God Bless America," as sung by the entire squad. . . . Col. Heartly [Hunk] Anderson, a noted choir master from the iron mine region of Michigan, is responsible for the innovation. . . . As a safeguard against unwelcome guests, Joe Louis doesn't have his name listed on the doorbell at his Chicago apartment. . . . Joe Hemsley, brother of Rollie of the Indians, is catching for an industrial league club in Parkersburg, W. Va. . . . University of Nebraska will lose W. H. Browne, its basketball coach, for a year. . . . He's a captain in the National Guard. . . . Adolph Lewandowski, Browne's assistant, probably will take over the job. . . . Larry Goetz, National league umpire, used to be a postman in Cincinnati. . . . Next to football, Dick Brye, rough and tough Marquette university tackle, likes nothing better than baking cakes. . . . This is an excerpt from a letter written to A. A. Stagg of the College of the Pacific by Moray L. Eby, football coach at Coe college of Cedar Rapids, Ia.: "In 1899 on Stagg field in Chicago an incident happened which for 40 years has meant more to me than

A VARIETY SHOW

Hundreds of contributors have poured their energy into the creation of the 1940 In the Wake of the News book. Each has some special knack of his own. One has a particularly deft sense of satire—another is a writer of romantic verse—another is a philosopher with the happenings of everyday city life as his material. Humorists, poets, sport commentators—they've all combined their talents to pack this 64 page volume with variety.

It's now on sale at all news stands—but there's no telling how much longer it will be. The previous editions were sold out entirely. The price is 10 cents, 13 by mail. NEW WAKE BOOK

ONLY 2 INDIANS CONGRATULATE WINNING TIGERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Sept. 27.—The Cleveland Indians, most unpopular club in the recent history of baseball, did nothing to enhance their reputations after being beaten by the Tigers today. Only Manager Oscar Vitt and Southpaw Harry Eisenstat, a former Tiger, were good enough sportsmen to enter the Tiger dressing rooms for the customary congratulatory remarks. It probably was Vitt's last official act as manager of the Indians.

The gent who dropped that half bushel basket full of empty bottles and tomatoes on Birdie Tebbetts' head in the bullpen was identified as Carmen Guerra, 25 year old Cleveland truck driver. He denied the charge, but Police Capt. John Savage took him in charge when other fans claimed Carmen was the guilty party. As Capt. Savage was leading Guerra from the park Tebbetts and Pitcher Fred Hutchinson accosted them and Fred attempted to take a poke at the prisoner. The officer prevented any fisticuffs.

Manager Del Baker can have any part of all of the city of Detroit for his very own tonight. Today's success climaxed two and a half seasons of labor at the helm of the Tigers. He took over in August, 1938, when Mickey Cochrane was let out. The Tigers finished fourth that year and fifth last season.

When the Indians lost their last chance today they violated one of the oldest traditions in baseball history. They became the first team to miss the title after having been in first place on Sept. 1.

Baseball fans, National and American league brand alike, are united in their admiration for the Tigers' fighting spirit. They were the club which didn't have a chance, but they made that chance and followed it thru. With ageing Charley Gehringer on second base, castoff Dick Bartell at short, and clumsy Rudy York on first, they rallied behind three pitchers—Comeback Schoolboy Rowe, game little Tommy Bridges, and blustering Buck Newsom—to accomplish the impossible. Now a lot of students of the game are predicting that the same spirit may carry them thru the world series against the Reds, Paul Derringer, Buck Walters, Ival Goodman, et al, notwithstanding.

Millard Howell, Cleveland rookie pitcher, ran into a waist high wall while chasing a foul fly in pregame practice and was knocked unconscious. He was revived in the clubhouse and the club physician said there were no fractures.

DETROIT BRAVES FRUIT SHOWER FROM ROWDIES

York's Homer Gives Rookie Victory.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Sept. 27.—Rookie Floyd Giebell, ineligible to perform in the impending world series and pitching his second major league game in a riotous setting before 45,553 embittered fans, shut out the Cleveland Indians, 2 to 0, today to clinch the 1940 American league pennant for the Detroit Tigers.

Bob Feller.

Detroit's two runs were made off the great Bob Feller when Rudy York hit his 33d home run of the season with a teammate on base in the fourth inning.

It was the Tigers' sixth league title. They won in 1907, '08, '09, '34 and '35. They captured their only world series by defeating the Cubs in 1935.

Baker Threatens to Leave.

At the outset of the stirring contest the feeling among thousands of the Cleveland partisans was so rabid that Del Baker, manager of the new American league champions, threatened to order his team off the field. This announcement calmed the throng only momentarily and missile and fruit throwing continued until Manager Oscar Vitt of Cleveland took the public address microphone and entreated the fans to conduct themselves in orderly fashion and hope the "better team wins."

Missile throwing started with the aimless tossing of fruit and vegetables at the opening of the pregame Tiger practice and reached a climax when a hoodlum dumped a basket of bottles and tomatoes on the head of Catcher George [Birdie] Tebbetts, sitting in the Tiger bull pen, situated at the foot of a high wall in front of the left field stands. Birdie fell, apparently unconscious, but was revived and led from the field for treatment.

Greenberg Is Target.

The demonstration of violence first became serious when Roy Weatherly of the Indians flied to Hank Greenberg of the Tigers for the first out in the first inning. Greenberg was pelted with garbage while the ball still was in the air.

Manager Baker, obviously in a frenzy of anger and excitement, ran to Umpire Bill Summers at the plate and served notice he would order the Tigers from the field if there was a recurrence. This was announced over the public address system.

Umpire Summers then took the microphone and said that if there was any more interference with a Tiger player, the Indian batter would be called out automatically.

Summers Issues Warning.

This quelled the riot for a few minutes, then the basket was dropped on Tebbetts, who was sitting beside Pitcher Schoolboy Rowe.

It was immediately after the bombing of Tebbetts that Manager Vitt took the microphone and pleaded with the rowdies to restrain themselves.

The defeat knocked the second place Indians three games behind the Tigers with two games to play. The New York Yankees' last mathematical chance to tie Detroit was eliminated today by the Philadelphia Athletics.

Chapman Is a Cousin.

The veteran Ben Chapman was Giebell's particular chump. In the third

ADVOCATOR TO MEET BUSY MORN IN $5,000 RACE

10 Others Are Listed in Hawthorne Stake.

Probable Field

TWELVE horses were named in the overnight entries for the $5,000 Autumn handicap today at Hawthorne. The field, in order of post position, follows:

*McGrath and Kelley entry.
†Friedberg and Axton entry.
‡C. E. Davison entry.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Busy Morn, the fast and consistent mare owned by B. T. Masterson of Evanston, will renew her rivalry with Charles S. Howard's Advocator in today's $5,000 Autumn handicap at Hawthorne. Ten others were named in the overnight field for this run of a mile and a sixteenth. In all probability, every one of them will get close attention from the betters because the repeated overthrow of favorites during the Chicago area's stake program has reminded the fans continually that any horse with four feet and a rider can win.

Mrs. J. F. Waters' Talked About, which recently set a track record for six and a half furlongs, will be among the contenders. So will C. E. Hagyard's Rude Awakening, which gave indications of an approach to best form in beating Lexbrook's good performer, Portranco, a little more than a week ago. Kings Blue is expected to be in there running during the stretch drive. He'll go as an entry with Memory Book. Bob's Boys, Montsin, Bala Ormont, Forever Prince, Chance Ray, and Gray Jack complete the overnight entries.

Advocator is Top Weighted.

Racing Secretary Julius Reeder has assigned top weight of 126 pounds to Advocator, whose most important performance on Chicago tracks this season was his victory in the Stars and Stripes handicap at Arlington Park. He finished back of Burning Star and Busy Morn in the Hawthorne handicap but subsequently won an overnight race.

Busy Morn, which will carry 120 pounds, has won two stakes on Chicago tracks this season and has been consistently in the money. She scored in the Illinois Owners handicap last Saturday and previously won the Beverly handicap at Washington Park.

The defending champion, A. N. Anderson of Medinah, who also captured the 1938 event, finished one stroke behind Lehman with a card of 38—37—75.

Four players were tied for third place with 79s. They were Robert Ascher, Idlewild's club champion, 41—38—79; R. W. Martin of Flossmoor, 40—39—79; Harold E. Foreman Jr. of Lake Shore, 41—38—79, and Ray R. Simpson, former president of Oak Park, 40—39—79. Ascher won the third low gross prize for which the players in the tie drew.

SENN WINS, 9 TO 0

The 1940 Public School league football race opened yesterday afternoon with Senn, Amundsen, and DuSable turning in the first victories. Senn triumphed over Sullivan, 9 to 0, in Loyola stadium and Amundsen routed Waller, 19 to 6, in Winnemac park in two north division games. DuSable began its quest for the central section title by scoring a 7 to 6 victory over Englewood at 83d street and Yates avenue.

DuSable's star in defeating Englewood was Quarter Back Spencer, who raced 80 yards to score in the final period and then added the winning point by pluging over the Englewood line. Englewood scored in the opening quarter when Freeman plunged a yard following a 75 yard march.

Wins on Passes.

Amundsen's passing combination of Left Half Back Johnson to Right End Stevens accounted for the three touchdowns against Waller. Half Back Goro broke loose for 40 yards for Waller's touchdown in the final quarter. Right Half Back Micatto ran 12 yards for Senn's touchdown in the last period against Sullivan. BIG 9 VARSITIES GET TESTS WITH FRESHMEN TODAY

This is the day Big Nine varsity football teams and Notre Dame take it out on the freshmen. Four Western conference elevens, pointing for opening battles, meet the yearlings in regulation contests. These include Northwestern, Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin. Notre Dame unveils its 1940 first string against the freshmen in preparation for the opener with A. A. Stagg's College of the Pacific in South Bend Oct. 5.

The Western conference tests against freshmen will help prepare Illinois for its opener with Bradley, Northwestern for its invasion of Syracuse, Indiana for its battle with Texas and Wisconsin for the annual struggle with Marquette, all on Oct. 5. Illinois also is looking to its intersectional clash with Southern California, Oct. 12.

Iowa, which did not schedule a game with its freshmen today opens with South Dakota next Saturday.

but—you pick the Top Bourbon on TASTE, alone!

(1) Like bullets, the field of whippets streaks down the track and the crowd cheers itself hoarse! "They're the fastest things on legs," cries Judge Lloyd, "and you have to check 100 points to pick the champion." But in the field of bonded bourbons it takes only 5 seconds to prove the one point that makes Meadow Brook the champion—taste!

Popular dog judge, FREEMAN LLOYD, gives you his verdict on bourbons—

(2) When not racing, whippets are quiet and dignified. When you're not praising Meadow Brook's flavor—you'll be cheering its price. As low as the quality is high!

(3) For sheer beauty, grace of outline, and smoothness of action, whippets stand at the top in the dog world. For sturdy flavor and true "homespun" bourbon goodness—you can't match bonded Meadow Brook!

WHITE SOX BEAT BROWNS, 4 TO 3, IN 10TH INNING

Bill Dietrich Victor on Luke Appling's Hit.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox didn't lose any ground yesterday in their struggle to maintain their none too secure grip on fourth place world series money. They stumbled in the field a few times, thus complicating their own job and at the same time making it possible for the St. Louis Browns to get into an eighth inning tie. But in the 10th the Chicagoans turned loose a slight flurry of base hits, driving in the run that gave them the series opener, 4 to 3, and kept intact their two game hold on the first division.

Bill Dietrich, who once used the Browns as stepping stones to a no hit success, traveled to his 10th victory of the year and was troubled more by his pals' defensive blunders than by enemy blows. The visitors scored once in the sixth, it being a gift from Don Kolloway who fumbled. Then Luke Appling inserted one of his copyrighted bobbles into the party in the eighth and this promoted the two tying runs.

Kuhel Hits 27th Homer.

Prime mover in the Sox attack was Joe Kuhel who inaugurated the day's run production with a first inning homer off Bob Harris. It was the 27th of the year for Kuhel, thus tying the previous home run high for a Sox player. It was Zeke Bonura who established the mark in 1934.

Kuhel also singled to drive in a mate in the third and in the 10th drew a pass with one out. Julius Solters' third single pushed Kuhel to third, whereupon Appling singled, Kuhel scoring the deciding run.

The Sox coasted on Kuhel's first inning homer until the third when they bagged one run and left three men on the bases.

Dietrich, who encountered no difficulties in the first five innings, had two disposed of in the sixth when Kolloway fumbled Lucadello's grounder. The Brown rode to the plate on singles by Radcliff and Judnich. The Sox took back this run in their half on successive singles by Solters, Appling, and Wright before an out was recorded.

Fumble Lets in Run.

The eighth in which the Browns tied the score opened with a single by Radcliff, who moved to third on Judnich's single to right. Clift grounded to Appling and a twin killing seemed to be budding, but Luke kicked the ball all around the infield, Radcliff scoring and nobody was retired. Judnich counted the tying run on Berardino's single. Score:

Phils' Homers Beat Hubbell, Giants, 6 to 0

New York, Sept. 27 (AP).—For the first time since he joined the Giants in 1928, Carl Hubbell will finish a season with a pitching percentage of less than .500. The old master of the screwball suffered his 12th defeat of the season to the Phillies, 6 to 0, today in his last appearance of a disastrous Giant campaign. He won 11 this year.

Five of the Phils' runs came on homers—by Chuck Klein in the fifth with one on and Ben Warren in the eighth with two aboard. Score:

PIRATES WIN IN 10TH.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 27 (AP).—Pittsburgh's Pirates pounded three Cincinnati hurlers for 10 hits and a 4 to 3 decision today but not before the champions had carried them to 10 innings by a rally in the ninth. Paul Derringer, slated for heavy duty in next week's world series, tried a third time for his 21st victory of the year but lasted only seven innings.

Yankees' Flag Hopes Ruined by A's, 6 to 2

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 27 (AP).—The four year dominance of the New York Yankees over the American league ended today. The world champions lost the last chance they had of gaining their fifth straight triumph when a one-time Yankee farmhand, Johnny Babich, now of the Athletics, limited them to five hits while his mates banged out a 6 to 2 triumph.

Babich, who had conquered the Yankees four times previously this year, was superb in snapping the Yankees' latest bid for honors and their eight game winning streak.

The right hand slider ball specialist is the only pitcher in the league to beat the Yankees five times this year.

BETTY JAMESON, JANE COTHRAN IN WOMEN'S FINALS

Del Monte, Cal., Sept. 27 (AP).—Cutting loose with the golf of which she is capable but hadn't played all week, defending title holder Betty Jameson of San Antonio scored a 5 and 3 victory over Clara Callender of Long Beach, Cal., today in the semi-final round of the women's national amateur golf championship.

In the 36 hole final tomorrow the Texas star will meet Jane Cothran, Greenville, S. C., winner 2 up today over another Californian, Mrs. James Ferrie of Pasadena.

I ever can express. You may remember that Iowa was playing Chicago and that I was right end on the Iowa team. At the start of the game we kicked to Chicago and Dolly Gray was receiving the kick. I dove for him and struck him in the chest with my shoulder and he was quite badly injured. The officials ruled me off the field for unnecessary roughness. I was captain of the Iowa team and my teammates were reluctant to go on because they thought the decision was unfair. You came to me and said, 'Young man, I really don't think you did that purposely,' and allowed me to go back in the game. There are many instances like that in football, but that was a very fortunate one for me, because thru that experience I became acquainted with you."

The Coach.

The other day we had a scrimmage here
And I thought things were going pretty well,
When suddenly a robot in high gear
Hit me with iron knuckles, and I fell;
I must have dropped the ball because the coach
Unleashed a pack of nasty words on me,
And every word was heavy with reproach,
Suggesting my inferiority.

I'd like to see him hang onto the ball
When he was clubbed into unconsciousness!
And yet he had the unexampled gall
Of calling my mischance "defectiveness!"
I'll tar and feather that fresh guy some day
After I have my letter tucked away.

Cubs Get Only 2 Hits; Cards Triumph, 11-1

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 27 [Special].—While Lon Warneke was restricting Chicago's Cubs to two hits today, the St. Louis Cardinals piled up 15 hits off Southpaw Ken Raffensberger and Vance Page for an 11 to 1 victory, during which Johnny Mize established one record and equaled another.

By hitting his 43d home run, Mize became the first St. Louis major league batter to hit that many in one season, his total being one more than the 42 collected by Rogers Hornsby as a Cardinal in 1922. Mize tied the record for a left hand National league batter, held by Chuck Klein, who gathered 43 for the Phils in 1929.

Mize's homer wound up a five run bombardment in the fifth inning, in which Terry Moore also connected for his 17th of the season. The Cards then tacked on three runs off Raffensberger in the next two innings and closed their scoring with three against Page in the eighth.

Since Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati today the fifth place Cubs were mathematically stymied from a chance to finish fourth.

Tigers Defeat Indians, 2 to 0; Win 6th Title

inning Ray Mack and Rollie Hemsley were on third and first with none out. Giebell kept Feller from sacrificing, then struck him out. Chapman followed with the first of his series of three whiffs. In the fifth Hemsley and Feller were on base with none out. Another strikeout for Chapman.

Later Lou Boudreau fanned to end the inning. In the seventh Mack and Hemsley were on third and second with the tying runs. Again Chapman struck out.

Feller, in trying for his 28th victory and taking his 11th loss, really held the Tigers to two hits. A double credited to Greenberg was an easy fly which Weatherly lost in the sun. And there was nothing lusty about York's homer—a high fly which barely cleared the left field wall near the foul line. It was the shortest out of the park homer possible. The foul lines are only 320 feet, after which the wall sweeps out sharply in a vast arc which carries to a 435 marker in mid left center.

Ben Tries for It.

Chapman jumped for the ball and for an instant it appeared he would catch it or slap it on the field. But it plunked in, and that was the 1940 pennant, the shot that ended the Yankee reign of four years following the Tigers' loss of the crown they wore in 1934 and 1935.

The loss was a shock to the Indians, tho not an unexpected one. Things haven't been going so well since they, on Aug. 22, were breezing along with a 5½ game lead, tho they did take back the lead they had lost and headed the pack on Sept. 15 and 16. And they were tied when they went to Detroit for a three game series a week ago today—a series in which they lost two out of three.

Giebell quite eclipsed York and all the other Tigers in the mastery of his pitching performance. Holding the Indians to six hits was a great performance in itself. But his use of the strikeout ball when even an infield out would have helped the Indians was the thing that stirred many of those who had applauded the vicious hoodlum spectacles early in the contest.

Fans Actually Cheer.

When the game ended, some of the Tiger players rushed to pay tribute to York for his victorious homer, but he waved them aside and on to the group which had surrounded the happy rookie. The Tiger team then carried Floyd on their shoulders clear across the infield and into their clubhouse.

No tomatoes, bottles or other weapons were thrown at this carnival.

Twenty-five year old Giebell was recalled from the Buffalo Bisons, where he won 15 and lost 16 under the managership of Steve O'Neill, former Indian manager, coach, and player, too late to get on the Tigers' world series eligibility list. His only prior major league performance was a 13 to 2 decision over the Athletics.

Giebell is a native of Pennsboro, W. Va., and a resident of Weirton, W. Va., steel town south of Pittsburgh where he got his baseball start playing on one of the steel mill teams in an industrial league there.

SO. METHODIST BEATS U. C. L. A. BEFORE 70,000

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 27 [Special].—Breaking a tie late in the fourth quarter, Southern Methodist defeated the U. C. L. A., 9 to 6, tonight before a crowd of 70,000 in the Los Angeles Memorial coliseum. Full Back Johnston's perfect field goal from the 16 yard line brought victory to the invaders. It was U. C. L. A.'s first defeat since 1938.

U. C. L. A. jumped into an early lead when Half Back Jackie Robinson, speedy Negro ball packer, streaked eighty-seven yards thru the Mustangs on a punt return.

Southern Methodist scored its touchdown in the fourth when Half Back Clement crashed over from the 1 yard line as a climax to a series of threats.

Referee—Dr. Louis G. Conlan [St. Mary's]. Umpire—Albert Boles [Minnesota]. Head linesman—James J. Tunney [Loyola]. Field judge—William K. Dunn [Michigan State].

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 27 [Special].—The University of California football team, using a makeshift back field, will open its season tomorrow against the University of Michigan, generally regarded as one of the more powerful representatives of Western conference football. With the ticket sale in excess of 25,000 now, the game in Berkeley is expected to bring out more than 40,000, including Michigan and other Big Nine alumni from all along the coast.

The Wolverines held their final workout early this afternoon in Memorial stadium, the site of the game, and the Golden Bears ran their signals two hours later. Indications were that Coach H. O. [Fritz] Crisler of Michigan would start his regular back field, using Capt. Forrest Evashevski at quarter back, Norman Call and Tom Harmon at the half back posts, and Bob Westfall at full back.

California's starting back field, riddled by the injury to Jim Jurkovich, right half back, probably will line up with Elmore at quarter back, Hatcher and Hoberg at half back, and Huters at full back, Coach Stub Allison said.

Michigan's visit is the second by a Wolverine squad to the coast, Coach Fielding H. Yost having brought his first point a minute team to Pasadena for the first Rose bowl game in which on Jan. 1, 1902, the Wolverines smothered Stanford, 49 to 0.

Name Elson, Barber to Air World Series

Bob Elson of W-G-N and Walter [Red] Barber of WOR, Newark, N. J., will broadcast the play by play account of the 1940 world series, to be presented exclusively over the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

The selection of Elson and Barber was announced yesterday by J. P. Spang Jr., president of the Gillette Safety Razor company, and executives of the network. The Gillette company again is sponsoring the broadcasts.

Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, approved the selection of announcers. Pregame color and commercial announcements will be handled by Mel Allen, veteran Washington and New York sports announcer.

The sponsorship of the series will add $100,000 to the postseason receipts and will be divided among the players of the two pennant winning teams, the commissioner's office, the leagues and the first division clubs the same as the gate receipts.

Mutual will link together a network of some 150 stations for the exclusive broadcasts, with W-G-N the Chicago outlet. Rights to world series broadcasting in Canada have been awarded to the Canadian Broadcasting system. Roland Beaudy will handle descriptions in the French language. The accounts of the games also will be heard in Europe, South America, Cuba, the West Indies, and Hawaii.

Elson is the only announcer who has broadcast every series since 1929. Barber's popularity as a baseball announcer dates from 1934.

JAPANESE BONDS SLUMP; GERMAN MUNICIPALS SOAR

Most Corporate Liens End Lower for Day.

New York, Sept. 27 (AP).—The triple alliance of Germany, Italy, and Japan jolted bond prices lower today and caused a sell-off, particularly of Japanese issues, which slumped 2 to 8 points.

The decline embraced corporate liens and foreign dollar loans, with one main exception. That was a group of German municipals, which jumped as sharply as the Japanese toppled.

The spectacular risers were Berlin City Electric 6½s, Frankfort 6½s, and Nuremberg 6s, all of which are in default.

Some Prices Are Doubled.

Prices in some cases more than doubled the nominal bid or ask quotation prevailing since the last preceding sale on the stock exchange.

Brokers had nothing specific to account for the performance. One said an Amsterdam source placed orders to buy several weeks ago, but did not release them until today, and there were no bonds for sale except at prices far above the last sale.

Others hinted at the possibility the action was a "window dressing" for world opinion to absorb, while still others said the buying might have originated with those who believe Germany's position was materially strengthened by bringing Japan into the axis orbit.

Scandinavian Loans Dip.

Against this rise, German government obligations did nothing. Some Scandinavian loans were weak along with a group of Latin American issues.

Among the slipping corporate liens were Alleghany stamped 5s of '50, at 53; Continental Oil 2¾s, at 104½; International Hydro Electric 6s, at 51; International Telephone 5s, at 25½; New York Central 5s, at 63½, and Walworth 4s, at 72½.

United States government obligations slipped as much as 9-32 point.

Transactions totaled $6,125,600, face value, compared with $5,630,400 yesterday.

COTTON

Liquidation by holders of cotton futures, said to have been based on fears that exports to the Far East might be curtailed as the result of relations between this country and Japan, carried prices off sharply yesterday. The close was at the bottom, with losses of .02 to .17 cent a pound. Hedging increased on an early upturn, and sellers found the market poorly supported after prices turned downward.

A private estimate indicates that about 43 per cent of this year's domestic cotton crop will go into the government loan. On the basis of the department of agriculture Sept. 1 forecast for a yield of 12,772,000 bales, the estimate suggested about 5,480,000 bales would be held off the market.

Spot cotton closed .10 to .13 cent lower, with New York, 9.71 cents; New Orleans, 9.57 cents; Houston, 9.20 cents, and Galveston at 9.18 cents a pound. Prices follow:

MIDWEST DAIRY FARMS SUPPLY ENGLAND'S MILK

August Exports of Canned Product Rise Steeply.

Dairy farmers in the middle west, particularly in nearby states, have furnished a large portion of British purchases of evaporated milk since the German invasion of the low countries, representatives of the industry in Chicago said yesterday.

They said exports of evaporated milk in August rose to approximately fifty-three million pounds from shipments of fifteen millions in July and less than two million pounds a year earlier. They attributed the sharp gain in exports to buying by the British purchasing commission.

England Takes Most.

The executive offices of the Evaporated Milk association in Chicago reported that of 693,000 cases of evaporated milk exported in Aug., 1940, [one case is equivalent to 43½ pounds] 595,000 went to England. The remainder of the exports went largely to the Philippines and some of the far eastern countries with a small amount to Central and South America.

Evaporated milk shipments to Britain during September are estimated to have shrunk to approximately 32,000 cases, traders attributing the decline to the fulfillment of contracts placed by the British purchasing commission early in the summer and partly to a British agreement with Canada.

Canada has agreed to supply the British ministry of foods with 13,050,000 pounds of evaporated milk by Dec. 31. Further orders are expected to be placed by the British in this country, however, because canned milk is the most convenient form in which the dairy product can be supplied to the armed forces.

Wisconsin Supplies a Third

August production of evaporated milk reached an all time high level of 231,572,000 pounds, resulting in part from anticipation of further export orders. It has been estimated that Wisconsin producers accounted for approximately one-third of the total output, with Illinois producing about 6 per cent. Ohio is the second largest producing state, the Evaporated Milk association said.

Stocks of evaporated milk on hand on Sept. 1 totaled 349,433,000 pounds, approximated five and a half million pounds less than a year ago, but 33 per cent above the average for the date in the last five years. Production in August was estimated at 34 per cent above average.

CITY TO PROBE VALUATION OF COACH COMPANY

Method Questioned by Alderman.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

Ald. George D. Kells [28th] announced yesterday that the city will make a thoro investigation of the valuation methods used by the Chicago Motor Coach company in placing a price of 10 million dollars on its properties. Kells is chairman of a special council subcommittee named to study the proposed price.

Ald. George D. Kells.

Benjamin Weintraub, president of the bus company, told the council transportation committee on Thursday that surface and elevated lines could buy the bus properties for 10 millions provided federal taxes on the transaction were paid by the transit lines. The traction ordinance being drafted by the city and the lines requires the inclusion of the bus company in the unified system.

View on Valuation.

"We want to go into the bus company's offer very thoroly," Ald. Kells asserted. "Mr. Weintraub's report shows that the company is basing its price on the earning power of the company. This is one theory of valuation.

"Some authorities think, however, that public utility companies should be valued on the basis of their physical assets rather than their earnings. I want to discuss this question with Philip Harrington, traction commissioner, and officials of the federal Public Works administration. A meeting of the subcommittee will be called soon."

Kells explained that the price to be paid for the bus properties must be approved by the city as part of the traction ordinance. Also under terms of the PWA $18,000,000 subway grant to Chicago, the price for the bus company and all other terms of the traction ordinance must be approved by the PWA.

Means Shortage of Cash.

Meanwhile accountants and engineers got out their pencils to compute just what the proposed price for the bus company would mean to Chicago's plans for transit unification and modernization. They said that the proposed cash payment would probably leave a serious shortage of cash available for transit improvements.

Under the offer, the purchase would require a cash outlay of $7,130,000 and some type of certificates of indebtedness of the new transit company amounting to the remaining $2,870,000. These payments, it was explained yesterday, however, would not give the traction company a clear title to the properties. Besides paying 10 million dollars, it would have to assume the present equipment trust certificates of the bus company amounting to about $2,600,000.

Adds $5,470,000 Debt.

Thus, engineers explained, buying the bus company would drain $7,130,000 from the transit lines' cash resources and would saddle debts totaling about $5,470,000 on the new unified company. Annual cash outlays for interest and amortization would be required on the debts.

In addition, transit officials predicted that a federal excess profits tax of several million dollars would be assessed on the 10 million dollar purchase price. This tax would fall on the new traction company, under Weintraub's offer.

The net book value of the bus properties, for which 10 millions are asked, is $4,215,000, according to the motor coach company's statement of Dec. 31, 1939. The stock of the bus company is carried on the books of the Omnibus corporation, parent company, at $2,750,000, and any excess of the sale price over this sum would probably be subject to excess profits taxes.

Cash Position Stated.

To help carry out the 100 million dollar transit improvement program required under the proposed tranction ordinance, the transit lines have 26 millions in cash. The Reconstruction Finance corporation has offered to lend the new company 53 millions, but requires that 40 millions be used to make partial redemptions on first mortgage bonds of the surface and elevated lines.

This leaves only 13 millions of the RFC loan for improvements, or a total cash fund of 39 millions including present cash. From this sum, 5 millions must be used for laying subway track and signals. Payment of $7,130,000 toward the bus company would leave less than 27 millions, before deducting any interest on new debts arising from the bus deal and making any allowance for excess profits taxes.

The flight will leave Chicago daily at 11:45 a. m., arriving in Indianapolis at 12:53 p. m. central standard time, and Cincinnati at 2:49 p. m. eastern standard time. On return, the flight will leave Cincinnati at 5:30 p. m. eastern time, arriving in Indianapolis at 5:22 p. m. and Chicago at 6:38 p. m.

Wrigley Votes 25 Cents Extra to Its Common

William Wrigley Jr. company, Chicago, world's largest manufacturer of chewing gum, yesterday declared a special extra dividend of 25 cents on the 1,961,667 shares of common stock, in addition to three regular monthly payments of 25 cents.

The Northwest Engineering company, Chicago, declared an increased dividend of 50 cents a share on the capital stock. Payments of 25 cents were made in previous quarters this year by the company, whose subsidiary makes shovels, cranes, and excavating machinery.

Chain Belt Pays More.

An increased dividend of 50 cents was also authorized by the Chain Belt company, Milwaukee, manufacturer of construction and conveying machinery. The company paid dividends of 25 cents in earlier quarters this year.

With a dividend of $1.50 on the preferred stock, Rayonier, Inc., San Francisco, a leading producer of pulps for rayon and cellophane, cleared the arrears on the issue to Oct. 1, 1940.

EXPORTS OF PORK AND LARD SLUMP DURING AUGUST

Foreign business of American pork packers slumped again during August, the department of agriculture disclosed yesterday.

Only 3,977,071 pounds of pork, exclusive of lard were shipped out, the smallest August exports on government records, which date back over 50 years. This compared with 28,587,458 pounds last January when Canada was a large buyer of pork in this country, anticipating big English orders. During August last year exports totaled 10,180,719 pounds. Two years ago the August exports were 6,486,391 pounds.

Shipments of lard tumbled from 28,238,574 pounds in July to 10,180,597 pounds in August, smallest total for any month since September, 1937.

Exports of beef and veal during August were almost exactly the same as a year ago, totaling 1,402,742 pounds in 1940 and 1,400,684 in 1939.

Beef and veal imports at 5,977,124 pounds compared with 8,153,696 pounds in 1939. Pork imports were smallest for August since 1934, at 529,636 pounds.

CAR AND TRUCK OUTPUT TOTALS 95,990 IN WEEK

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 27 (AP).—The automobile industry's assembly plants this week completed 95,990 passenger cars and trucks, Ward's Reports, Inc., estimated today in its weekly survey of factory activity.

Last week's output totaled 78,820 units; a year ago this week 64,365 vehicles were assembled.

The upward trend, Ward's said, will continue with assemblies passing the 100,000 mark next week. In its annual "year book" issued today, Ward's estimated output for the 1940 calendar year will approximate 4,400,000 cars and trucks.

Chicago Store Sales Decline in Latest Week

Sales of department stores in Chicago and in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve area sagged during the week ended Sept. 21, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday.

Department store business in Chicago slipped 13 per cent below what the bank termed "unusually good business of the preceding week" and was 1.8 per cent below the corresponding 1939 week. Sales during the first three weeks of September averaged 9 per cent above 1939.

Seventh district sales declined 9 per cent from the preceding week and were down 0.5 per cent from a year ago. Business in the first three weeks of September was 13.6 per cent ahead of the corresponding period in 1939.

Report Gain Thruout Nation.

The Federal Reserve board estimated that department store sales thruout the country in the week ended Sept. 21 averaged 10 per cent more than in the corresponding week last year. This was the same percentage gain over last year as was made in the preceding week.

Sales of general merchandise in small towns and rural areas rose during August, the department of commerce reported. Volume for trade covered by the department index was about 11 per cent higher than in August last year.

August Gains Reported.

Pronounced improvement during August in the steel castings industry and in department store trade thruout the seventh reserve district were reported by George J. Schaller, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

Steel castings foundries booked orders for 138.6 per cent more tonnage than in August, 1939, and 6.5 per cent more than in July of this year.

A less favorable showing was made by malleable casting producers.

SOY BEAN LOAN PLAN HITS CROP CONTROL SNAG

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 27 (AP).—The Illinois Agricultural association today apparently abandoned a proposal to seek an emergency 40 cents a bushel federal loan on soy beans harvested this fall, when central Illinois growers expressed belief that a loan program might lead to acreage restrictions.

A group of representative bean growers from the heart of the nation's soy bean belt voted 44 to 36 in favor of a crop loan, but Paul Mathias, I. A. A. secretary, said that "in view of the divided sentiment the Illinois Agricultural association probably will drop the loan proposal."

Opposition to the proposed loan was led by Everett Reynolds of Jacksonville, Ill., who contended the proposed 40 cent figure was "too low for practical good" and expressed fear that soy bean acreages would be limited under the loan plan.

INLAND BORROWS 7 MILLION; WILL CALL 3% BONDS

Inland Steel company, preparing to call $7,000,000 or more of its series C and E 3 per cent first mortgage bonds, has sold $7,000,000 of five year 1¼ per cent serial notes to two banks. Both the C and E series bonds were sold privately to Kuhn, Loeb & Co., in the amount of $10,000,000 each.

The series C bonds were sold in December, 1935, and the others in January, 1937. The issues are outstanding in the amount of $6,000,000 and $9,700,000, respectively. It was indicated that all of the C series will be paid off.

Claims Chemical Research Will Lift Gasoline Supply

Cary R. Wagner, chief chemist and chairman of the refinery control board of Pure Oil company, told the Chicago section of the American Chemical society last night that 110,000,000 barrels of gasoline may be added yearly to the American supply thru chemical research. Wagner, retiring chairman of the Chicago section of the society, said the additional gasoline could be produced from gases created when crude petroleum oils are cracked [decomposed] in refining processes. The chemists held their monthly meeting in the Stevens hotel.

REPORT MOVE IN EAST FOR BARRING PIG IRON, COPPER TO JAPANESE

New York, Sept. 27 [Special].—Based on contentions in trade circles here that the embargo declared by the United States yesterday on scrap iron and steel exports to Japan would not be effective in itself, moves were reported in progress both here and in Washington today to have the embargo extended to pig iron, raw steel, and copper.

Agitation also was reported for moving up the Oct. 16 effective date of the embargo, possibly to Oct. 1. Estimates on the amount of scrap Japan could take out between now and Oct. 16 ranged from 20,000 tons to as high as 100,000 tons.

It is far more economical for the Japanese steel industry to buy scrap than pig iron or raw steel. Under pressure of necessity, however, it was pointed out that Japan might increase such imports from the United States.

CHARGE HOPSON FIRMS TAPPED EMPLOYES' PAY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP).—The Federal Power commission turned over to the attorney general tonight a finding that service companies controled by Howard C. Hopson, former utility magnate, had "siphoned" millions of dollars from operating companies of the now bankrupt Associated Gas and Electric system.

The service companies rendered engineering, purchasing, and other services to operating companies.

"The wages of operating company employés," the commission said in its report, "were a fruitful source of revenue for Hopson and associates." It went on to say that employés were required to invest 10 per cent of their pay in a system investment company and that the proceeds went "principally in doubtful securities of the system holding companies."

"Fee splitting arrangements with insurance brokers were another source of ill-gotten gain," the commission said. "Those who manipulated the system caused life insurance to be sold to operating company and other employés under an insurance plan which netted the holding companies $641,000.

METAL MARKET UPSETS TERMED 'UNJUSTIFIED'

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP).—Leon Henderson, defense commissioner, said today there was "no justification" for recent "unstable" prices in the copper, zinc, and lead industries. The statement was issued by the defense commission. Henderson is the member of the group designated to watch price trends.

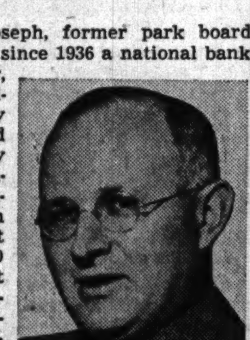
The commission's statement said:

"Mr. Henderson stated that he would be reluctant to recommend controls over these metals, but pointed out that their production and use are vital to the national defense program and their price relationship is an important factor in the general stability of prices.

"It might be advisable to have a conference of the representatives of producers and large consumers to discuss the situation openly, Mr. Henderson said, and if the apparently artificial price-supply-demand pressure continues he is prepared to make adequate suggestions to the President as to what might be done under existing law to correct the situation."

Harry Joseph Gets Big U. S. Lumber Deal

Harry Joseph, former park board official and since 1936 a national bank receiver, was revealed yesterday as the head of a newly formed lumber company which bought 425,000,000 board feet of government "hurricane lumber." This lumber was said to have a retail value of more than $8,000,000.



Harry Joseph.

Joseph is the president of the Eastern Pine corporation, which purchased the lumber from the North East Timber Salvage administration, the forest service of the United States department of agriculture announced in Boston.

The transaction involved lumber already sawed and logs in ponds ready to be sawed in six New England states. The timber was acquired by the government from property owners after it had been damaged and felled by the 1938 hurricane.

Will Open Boston Offices.

Eastern Pine corporation will establish offices in Boston to direct the sawing, finishing, and marketing of the lumber, which will be placed in the charge of David M. Osborne, New England lumberman.

Joseph, who was reported out of the city by his office at 100 West Monroe street, formerly was president of the west park board and later vice president of the Chicago park district board. In 1936 he was appointed receiver for five national banks in Chicago. He is also secretary of the Joseph Lumber company, 3358 West Belmont.

Marketing Provisions Made.

The contract which Eastern Pine corporation negotiated with the government requires orderly marketing of the lumber over 4½ years, with minimum amounts to be taken each quarter. The price to be paid to the government is to be adjusted to its actual market value by the Timber Salvage administration every 90 days, it was said.

Details of the formation of Eastern Pine corporation have not been disclosed but it was indicated that the personnel of both the Joseph Lumber company, Chicago, and Eastern Pine would be the same.

STATE-OWNED BARGE TERMINAL LEASED 5 YEARS

The state-owned Chicago Marine Package terminal, on the south branch of the Chicago river, has been leased for five years to the John I. Hay company, 332 South Michigan avenue, barge line operator, Charles P. Casey, director of the state department of public works and buildings, announced yesterday.

The terminal has been little used since its construction in 1935. Under the terms of the lease the state will receive $6,000 rental until Sept. 1, 1941, when payment will be changed to a tonnage basis with a minimum guarantee. The terminal, with offices at 2700 Robinson street, can handle 100 freight car loadings a day.

ARMY LETS 128 MILLIONS MORE FOR ORDNANCE

Chicago Firms Get Large Orders.

Another flood of national defense orders poured out of Washington yesterday, with the war department announcing ordnance contracts totaling $128,726,424, of which three Chicago companies received $22,186,575.

The largest order was one of $37,687,458 placed with American Car and Foundry company, Berwick, Pa., for war tanks and spare parts. Second in size was a $34,451,249 contract let to White Motor company, Cleveland, O., for scout cars.

The three large orders awarded to Chicago companies were: To Diamond T Motor Car company, $14,220,000 for personnel carriers; to Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, $5,775,575 for artillery material, and to Pressed Steel Car company, $2,191,000 for artillery ammunition components.

Other Contracts Listed.

The following other contracts were included in the department's announcement:

American Locomotive company, New York, artillery material, $3,132,800; Duplex Printing company, Battle Creek, Mich., artillery material, $6,097,440; Autocar company, Ardmore, Pa., personnel carriers, $9,581,406.

Ward La France Truck corporation, Elmira, N. Y., trucks, $629,901; Continental Motors corporation, Muskegon, Mich., engines, $6,694,940; American Car and Foundry company, New York City, tanks, $669,315; National Malleable Steel Casting company, Cleveland, O., artillery ammunition components, $1,470,000; Schweitzer-Cummins company, Indianapolis, Ind., artillery ammunition components. $1,596,695; General Motors corporation, Anderson, Ind., artillery ammunition components, $1,057,500.

Delivery Dates Not Given.

Omaha Steel works, Omaha, Neb., artillery ammunition components, $2,462,500; Mueller company, Columbian Iron works, Chattanooga, Tenn., artillery ammunition components, $1,008,655.

Delivery dates were not disclosed.

Meantime several companies reported a quickening of business pace, and announcement was made that the Northern Pacific railroad will place a large equipment order.

Jobs of 1,000 workmen at Pittsburgh Glass company's Creighton, Pa., plant will be prolonged because of a sudden rise in demand for glass products, the company disclosed. Robert L. Clause, vice president, announced the company had abandoned, at least temporarily, its plan to lay off the men and suspend plate glass manufacturing operations at the plant.

Gypsum Maker at Capacity.

National Gypsum company is preparing to put all of its major wallboard factories on a full capacity basis to fill national defense orders already received or expected, Melvin H. Baker, president of the company, announced at Buffalo, N. Y. He said government estimates indicate army cantonments and air bases will require nearly 3 billion feet of wallboard. Less than half that amount was produced by the entire industry in 1939, Baker said.

Bell Aircraft corporation, also of Buffalo, will build a $1,500,000 military plane assembly plant at Niagara Fall, N. Y., Lawrence D. Bell, president, announced. He said 58 acres adjoining Niagara Falls airport has been purchased as the site for the plant, which will cover 240,000 square feet and employ 3,000 persons.

Charles E. Denney, president of Northern Pacific, reported directors approved purchase of 14 steam locomotives and six Diesel-electric switching engines, at a total cost of $3,000,000. The board also ordered purchase of 35,000 tons of rails.

EXTEND DEADLINE FOR SETTLING OF LOANS ON CORN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP).—The Commodity Credit corporation today extended from Oct. 1 to Oct. 31 the deadline for settling loans on farm-stored 1937 and 1938 corn.

By Oct. 31 farmers will be expected to have redeemed the corn at 58 cents a bushel, resealed it for one or two years, or delivered it to the corporation in liquidation of their loans. The extension was necessary, the CCC said, to permit completion of the resealing program.

The corporation announced it had ordered 8,277 steel bins with 22,596,210 bushels total capacity for storing corn surrendered in liquidation of loans.

Coal Retailers Ask Control of Other Fuels

The American Retail Coal association yesterday recommended to Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes that other forms of fuel be controled in the same manner that soft coal is to be regulated beginning next Tuesday. The association is said to represent some 40,000 retail coal dealers in 14 middle western states.

In a resolution forwarded to Ickes, the association declared itself in favor of governmental regulation to conserve and stabilize the coal industry, but insisted that the objectives of such regulation could not be attained until other fuels were subjected to control.

Statement of Association.

In reference to expected benefits of the control program the resolution said:

"It is the conviction of this board of directors that these objectives cannot be attained unless and until other forms of energy and fuel are subjected to regulation and coördinated with coal, to the end that industries producing all forms of energy and fuel be conducted in an orderly fashion and each of them have an equal opportunity to share in the energy and fuel markets."

The United States bituminous coal division ruled that minimum prices shall apply to all soft coal delivered by yards on or after Oct. 1 regardless of previous contracts to purchase.

State Price Position.

Officials said that unless the coal had been "sold and delivered" by 12:01 a. m., Oct. 1, when the price law goes into effect, producers must charge not less than the new minimum prices.

The ruling provided, however, that if, prior to Oct. 1, the legal title of the coal had passed to the purchaser and it no longer was subject to the control of the seller and had been turned over to an independent carrier for delivery to the purchaser, the coal in question would not be subject to minimum prices.

PRICE HEARING STARTS.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP).—A fight between Indiana soft coal producers and producers in the southern Appalachian field over the former's application for permission to sell coal below established minimum prices opened today before the coal division.

The Indiana producers, thru Jonas Waffle of Terre Haute, chairman of the producers board for district 11, seek relief from observance of minimum prices effective on coal shipped into Wisconsin, Minnesota, and nearby markets in competition with water borne coal in the Great Lakes area.

Waffle said several million tons of coal not subject to minimum price regulations under the bituminous coal act were on the docks in Wisconsin and Minnesota and would be sold by dock operators who were not subject to the coal act. He said much of the coal was purchased at prices 50 to 70 cents a ton lower than the effective minimum prices for coal sold under the coal act.

BOARD OF TRADE FUND COMMITTEE WINS RE-ELECTION

Growing dissension among members of the Chicago Board of Trade gratuity fund came to a head yesterday in an effort on the part of many of the younger members to displace the committee which has had charge of the fund, a mutual benefit association, for a number of years.

The old committee, headed by James A. Begg, was reëlected, however, after a spirited meeting which attracted the largest attendance in more than 30 years. After the election, Begg appointed a special committee to confer with the board of governors on a plan to change the bylaws of the association.

The younger members sought the change in administration as a means of obtaining more rights for class B members, those who since 1927 automatically joined when they bought a seat on the board of trade. Class B members pay a flat rate of $3 a death and lose all benefits when they sell their places on the board. Class A members, those who came in prior to 1927, are charged according to the age at which they entered the fund and can retain benefits after leaving the board. They can resign, also, while class B cannot.

Buda Plant Expansion to Be Ready Next Week

Construction work on a $600,000 plant expansion of the Buda company, Harvey, Ill., manufacturers of radial Diesel motors for army tanks, will be completed by Oct. 1, J. S. Dempesey, president and treasurer, announced yesterday. With the added facilities, Dempesey said the company would be able to double its present output of four to five Diesel motors daily.

STRIKE THREAT REARS IN VAST DEFENSE WORK

Involves Bethlehem Mills, Shipyards.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP).—The Congress of Industrial Organization intimated today a strike may be called in mills and shipyards of the Bethlehem Steel company which has more than $800,000,000 of national defense contracts.

Philip Murray.

Philip Murray, chairman of C. I. O.'s steel workers organizing committee, told a press conference that field officials would meet Oct. 3 and 4 to consider what action to take on complaints that Bethlehem had not put into effect the minimum pay rates the government prescribed for steel firms working on federal orders.

Broad Conference Scheduled.

The conference will be held in Pittsburgh, he said, and will give "special attention" to the whole question of labor relations in the Bethlehem mills and shipyards where one strike is in progress and another is threatened.

The prime issue, Murray said, was the 62½ cents an hour minimum rate promulgated by the United States public contracts board and sustained by the Supreme court. The pay arrangement at Bethlehem, he asserted, was so tied up with a "mysterious incentive" system and bonuses that the mill workers did not know what they would receive until pay day.

Asked if the Pittsburgh conference would consider a general strike in all Bethlehem plants, Murray replied:

"We will consider every single, solitary phase of the situation."

Two Mills Tied Up.

Aliquippa, Pa., Sept. 27 (AP).—The Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation reported today a labor dispute and C. I. O. dues collecting pickets had caused suspension of operations in two mills of its plant here.

A company spokesman, who said the work stoppage was in "violation of union contract," reported approximately 900 men were affected.

C. I. O. Steel Workers union pickets blocked entrances to the plant, turning back union members delinquent in dues, he said. Fourteen workers in the seamless tube plant told plant inspectors yesterday that they would not work unless an adjustment in pay rates was made, it was alleged.

Try to Avert Strike.

New York, Sept. 27 [Special].—The United States conciliation service today intervened in an effort to avert the threatened strike of more than 800 employés of the Ford Instrument company which makes bomb sights for the navy at its plant in Long Island City. The company is a subsidiary of the Sperry corporation. The strike was voted yesterday by members of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, a C. I. O. union, unless their demands are met by next Wednesday.

New York Stocks.

New York, Sept. 27 (AP).—The stock market slipped its moorings again today as trading sentiment apparently was given a further jolt by foreign news. Dealings were light during most of the proceedings, but volume picked up in the final hour when prices slipped fractions to more than 2 points at the day's lows. Mild recoveries were in evidence here and there at the close. Industrials were the principal sufferers.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was 0.6 point lower at 44.1, the fourth successive setback for this composite. Transfers totaled 561,840 shares against 440,570 yesterday. The upturn of last week was more than eliminated.

Speculative forces, brokers said, were somewhat disturbed by the announcement of the military-economic agreement between Japan and the Rome-Berlin axis which generally was believed aimed at the United States.

Altho business prospects, buoyed by mounting defense spending, still were bright enough to limit stock offerings, the late dip was believed to have been inspired partly by word from Washington that the defense commission had warned copper, lead, and zinc industries that the recent upswing in nonferrous metal prices was unjustified and that the government might have to intervene.

Conspicuous shares on the downside included United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, St. Joseph Lead, American Zinc, United States Rubber, Sears-Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, New York Central, Great Northern, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Dow Chemical, Johns-Manville, and Union Carbide.

Chicago Stocks.

Prices continued their downward trend on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, but volume rose to 21,000 shares from 15,000 Thursday. Of the 97 active issues, 61 declined, 12 advanced, and 24 were unchanged. Commonwealth Edison, the volume leader, closed at 30⅞, off ⅛ point.

Bank Stocks.

First National shares were 2 points lower and Continental Illinois declined a point yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. Prices follow:

WHEAT SCARCITY UNDER U. S. LOAN BECOMING ACUTE

Increased scarcity of "free" wheat, or grain that is not pledged as security for government loans, became more apparent yesterday, and bids for soft red and hard winter for 10 day shipment from the country were advanced 2½ to 7 cents a bushel relative to the December future by Chicago interests in an effort to induce farmers to sell.

In the Chicago cash wheat market No. 2 red was quoted at 6 to 8 cents and No. 2 hard at 2½ to 3½ cents a bushel above the December future price.

Strength in cash wheat influenced futures trading. The December delivery advanced ¾ cent at one time and sold at 80⅝ cents, highest since last July. Profit taking developed on the advance and the close was ⅛ cent higher on December with distant deliveries unchanged to ⅛ cent lower. Corn closed ⅛ cent higher in Chicago and oats finished unchanged to ⅛ cent higher. Rye declined ⅛ to ⅝ cent on scattered selling. Soy beans were ⅜ to ½ cent lower.

Commodities

Rubber and tin made substantial price gains yesterday as most of the major commodity futures markets advanced. Wool tops again set new 1940 highs, but copper and zinc receded on news from Washington that the government might step in to prevent runaway prices in these metals.

Copper futures lost 0.02 to 0.06 cent a pound, with December deliveries at 10.65 to 10.68 cents and nearer contracts at about that level. Zinc futures were 0.16 to 0.40 cent a pound lower, lead was unchanged, and tin pushed ahead 0.50 to 0.65 cent.

In addition to the sharp climb of tin futures the cash market for the metal advanced ¾ cent to 51¼ cents a pound.

Rubber futures, affected by fears of shipping difficulties in the far east, pushed ahead 0.20 to 0.36 cent a pound, with December contracts at 19½ cents bid. In the cash market, rubber climbed from 19.31 to 19.62 cents a pound.

Wool tops registered gains of 0.4 to 0.8 cents a pound, with an active trade centering in December deliveries, which closed at a new high of $1.02 bid. October also reached a new high peak price of $1.08 8-10, while the cash market closed at $1.16, a gain of a cent to a 1940 peak.

Santos coffee futures rose 0.14 to 0.16 cent a pound on a turnover of 13,000 bags. December finished at 5.65 cents. Domestic sugar futures were unchanged to 0.01 cent a pound higher. Silk and cocoa gained moderately.

COURT APPROVES INLAND POWER'S LIQUIDATING PLAN

Authorizes $79,690 Fees and Expenses.

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday approved the plan submitted Sept. 12 by the trustee of the bankrupt Inland Power and Light corporation—a link in the old Insull public utility system—to liquidate part of its assets in compliance with a request of the Securities and Exchange commission.

He also authorized $79,690 in fees and expenses in connection with the bankruptcy proceedings which Inland and its parent, Commonwealth Light and Power company, entered in 1934. The proposed plan of reorganization was rejected on May 2 by the SEC, which suggested that the properties be liquidated within two years.

Will Sell Subsidiary Stock.

Under the liquidating order signed by the judge, Leonard S. Florsheim, trustee for Inland, is granted authority to sell all of the 85,000 shares of common stock of the Michigan Public Service company, a subsidiary, for $1,045,134 to an underwriting group headed by Otis & Co.

The court also authorized Florsheim to surrender and cancel a demand note for $620,132 held by him against the Michigan company and to refund the $3,942,000 of outstanding first mortgage 5 per cent bonds of that utility.

The refunding would be effected thru a proposed offering of $3,500,000 of 4 per cent first mortgage bonds, searies A, due 1965, and $750,000 of 4 per cent serial debentures, due 1941 to 1950. It would be underwritten by Otis & Co., Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., and associates.

Hearing Next Month.

A hearing on the allocation of funds obtained thru the liquidating procedure will be held by Judge Sullivan Oct. 25.

After the disposal of the Michigan Public Service company holdings, Inland's assets will include all the common stock of both the Kansas Power company and Missouri Edison company, 23 per cent of the common stock of the Arkansas-Missouri Power corporation, and $606,950 in cash.

The SEC said in May that Commonwealth Light and Power's only assets were all of the common stock of Inland, a claim of $3,449,647 against the company, and $12,927 cash as of Aug. 31, 1939. Both are holding companies and do not own or operate any physical properties.

Among the fees and expenses approved by Judge Sullivan were $39,250 for Florsheim; $30,296 for Bell, Boyd & Marshall, the law firm serving as his counsel, and $10,000 for Walter Bachrach, trustee for Commonwealth.

EASTMAN KODAK.

What are the products of Eastman Kodak other than photographic supplies? I have been interested in the company's stock which I follow day to day on the big board, especially since I noticed that the company has been making fire control instruments. Please give me a general review of the business. T. S.

Answer: Eastman Kodak company thru its subsidiary, Tennessee Eastman Corp., has become an important factor in the synthetic yarn and plastics industries. Tennessee Eastman manufactures acetate yarn, staple fibers, plastic materials and numerous other products using cellulose acetate as a base.

These products account for about 14 per cent of the consolidated sales of the parent company and subsidiaries. Photographic supplies and equipment remain the chief source of revenue. The war has impaired the earnings of the English, French, and German plants and other European branches.

Eliminating European, Asiatic and South African business, the company's consolidated net income in the 24 weeks ended June 15 this year amounted to $9,179,170, equal to $3.63 a common share, after preferred dividends, compared with $8,070,457 or $3.18 a share in the same period a year ago.

Net income of the company and subsidiaries, earnings per common share, and dividends per common share in recent years compared as follows:

	Net income.	Earned per com. shr.	Dvds. per com. shr.
1935	$15,913,000	$6.91	$5.75
1936	18,906,000	8.25	6.75
1937	22,347,000	9.76	7.50
1938	17,042,000	7.41	6.50
1939	21,538,000	8.55	6.00

The company has outstanding 61,657 shares of 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value and 2,476,013 shares of no par common stock. The company has no funded debt. Regular dividends on the preferred stock are being paid. The current dividend rate on the common stock is $1.50 a quarter and the next payment will be made Oct. 1 on shares of record Sept. 5.

NO BENEFITS.

I am 82 years old. I quit work on July 1, 1938, because of poor health and am now receiving a small pension. I would like to know how I stand in regard to social security benefits.—C. P. E.

Answer: If you have not worked since Jan. 1, 1939, you are not eligible for any benefits under the old age and survivors benefit provisions of the social security act.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

A weaker tone in the wholesale markets for fresh pork, with some cuts showing reductions of as much as 50 cents a hundred pounds, restricted buying of hogs at the stock yards yesterday. Hogs sold mostly steady to 10 cents lower, with some off 15 cents. Both the extreme top and average prices were off 5 cents, at $6.60 and $6.25 a hundred pounds, respectively.

A two way market developed for lambs. Best natives were bought at strong to 25 cents higher prices, but stock from the western range states ruled weak to 15 cents lower.

The scant supply of steers and yearlings on the market yesterday sold about steady. Steady prices prevailed for most beef cows and heifers. Calves were weak.
